AT THE PARK CLUB COURSE.

GEO. T. ROGERS WON INTERCLUB HANDICAP FOR PARK CLUB.

Frank O. Reinhart Won Two Prizes, Best Gross Score And In Driving Contest —Mrs. Samuel Town end A d Son Won Approaching Contest.

Despite the excessive heat and threatening thunder showers, the members and friends of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club and the Park Golf Club flocked to the course of the latter club Saturday afternoon. It was one of the events of the season in local golfing circles, the entertainment of the Hillside Club by the Park Club An interesting programme of events was carried out, furnishing plenty of entertainment.

Although there were no regular events scheduled for the morning, there were many of the Hillside players who took advantage of the invitation of the neighboring club to spend the forenoon on the course.

The first event of the afternoon was the interclub handicap, eighteen holes, medal play. Over twenty pairs registered for the start, but some were discouraged by the heat before the eighteen holes were completed. The handsome silk banner, offered by Charles W. McCutchen, president of the Park Golf Club, went to the Park Club as the lowest net score was made by a Park Club man, George T Rogers. He scored 75 He also received a silver cup for the best individual net score, H. D Hibbard and S. St. John McCutchen, both Park men, were close behind.

The lowest of the Hillside players was N. P. Rogers, Jr., with an 80 net. In his first round he made the remarkable score of 39, two better than bogey, but the great heat troubled him, and his second round brought his gross total up to an even 90. Close behind him was Carroll L. Runyon who played a clever game.

The silver cup for the best gross score resulted in a hot contest. Frank O Reinhart, Hillside, made an 85, only three worse than bogey. His driving was fine, but he was a trifle weak on the putting green. Willard Wadsworth, Hillside, was close behind with an 86, and Howard deP. Wright with an 87. W. de la B Anderson made the lowest gross score of any of the Park golfers, his card showing a 93.

THE REAL THING.

Rambling Tale Of Search For Work Ended In a Sentence Of Thirty Days At Elizabeth.

Fred Williams, of New York, who only needed the customary tin can to complete the outfit and appearance of the comic paper hobo, was arraigned before City Judge Runyon this morning, charged by Roundsman Mattox with vagrancy. He persisted in hanging around the safe works against the wishes of the officials.

He told a rambling story of looking for work for the past month, out of which the court was unable to get any positive facts. Williams will spend the next thirty days at Elizabeth in default of a $10 fine.

Mr. Sandford Resigns.

George Weeks Sandford, who for the past three years has been instructor in commercial studies at the Plainfield High School, has resigned his position, in order to accept one in the commercial department of the Utica, N. THIS REPUBLIC WILL STAND EVERY TEST.

Such Was the Conclusion Drawn by Rev. Mr. Schenck in Patriotic Sermon Yesterday.

TRINITY REFORMED CHURCH.

GAVE HIS REASONS FOR BELIEVING SUCH WILL HAPPEN.

Outlined Many Reasons Why the United States Are Better Equipped to Meet all Tests of Time Than Any Other Nation.

In accordance with the usual custom, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., pastor of Trinity Reformed church, delivered a patriotic sermon yesterday morning. Mr. Schenck always delivers such a discourse the Sunday before July 4 yesterday's subject, "Will the Republic Last?" was most ably treated and listened to by a good sized audience that appreciated thoroughly the sermon.

Mr. Schenck stated at the beginning that Independence Day was a day for all people, truly a National holiday. The question now arising, he said, is will the Ship of State outride all storms, or will it go down? Mr. Schenck maintained from the first that the Republic will stand. He said that he had faith in God that it will.

He told how the forefathers brought the seed of the Nation's life to this country before it began to breathe as a Republic. The second reason given why the Republic will stand, was the diversity of elements that enter into the National life. He referred to the climate, which comprises all kinds and sorts in the territory of this new country

He said that he had read there would be a shortage of wheat in France this year, but there is no shortage in this country, and the United States will help to feed France and England out of its surplus. He said that in one year the United States raised 210,000,000 barrels of apples, and out of this number 3 000 000 were shipped to England. The strawberry crop in one year represents $80,000,000. Mr. Schenck gave these figures to show the enormity of the production of this country in a few agricultural departments, and yet, he said, that this is not the most important, for the manufacturing industry is one of the largest.

He cited the fact that England wanted a large bridge to be erected in Egypt The English manufacturers could not do the work in less than a year, but the manufacturers of this country did the work in two months. Mr. Schenck urged honest manufacture, honest-prices and said then the people of this country need not be afraid of any other nation under heaven.

The speaker considered the American man the highest type of man. He is a make-up of every nation, composing the superior element of strength. The only pure American is the Indian. Mr. Schenck referred to a visit made last week to Ellis Island, where every emigrant is put through a thorough examination as to his qualifications to become a citizen of this country. "We are going to make American citizens of these people," continued Mr. Schenck, "and in a few years there will be such an improvement that they will scarcely be recognized."

Another reason given why the Republic will last was that this country has stood the most severe test and come out stronger every time. The country is expanding and growing steadily, yet it is never broken in doing so. This Mr. Schenck said was clear evidence that this is God's country and people. He believed that all problems would be solved rightly.

Mr. Schenck did not wonder that people from far and near seek this grand and glorious country, where they can enjoy its many privileges, and he extended to all, with honest purpose, a hearty welcome, claiming that there is plenty of room for good and honest citizens. At the close Mr. Schenck urged all to put their trust in God and have more faith in Him for the ultimate triumph of this grand and glorious country.

Cemetery Improvements.

During the last few months a great many improvements have been made about the Baptist cemetery, on Plainfield avenue, under the direction of the keeper, Mr. Marquand. The grounds are now well kept and the graves are not allowed to be hidden by tall grass and weeds.

SNATCHED VICTORY OUT OF SEEMING DEFEAT.

St. Mary's Won Second Game In Series With Hope Chapel Team Saturday.

DOYLE'S PITCHING DID IT.

HOPE BOYS COULDN'T HIT HIM AND LOST THEIR NERVE.

Hope Team Led Up To Last Of The Sixth When a Great Change Came—Great Batting By St. Mary's Team.

Out of what seemed almost certain defeat, the St. Mary's ball team finished victors Saturday afternoon in the second game with the Hope team this season. Although the latter team was in the lead at one time by six runs, the St. Mary's won out by a score of 17 to 10. This credits each of the teams with one victory and the managers have already agreed to arrange a date in September for a final game. It will be played on Leutral ground.

In the first inning, the Hope team seemed to find O'Keefe's curves at once and, by a series of bunched hits and clever base steals, brought in five runs. The St. Mary's, by dint of hard work, secured one In the second, the Hope's got three more. O'Keefe was then taken out of the box and Doyle took his place. The latter's swift deliveries puzzled the Hopes and from then on their hits were few and far between.

Montross, the Hope's pitcher, was in excellent form, at one time striking out three men in succession with two men on bases. During the first half of the game both pitchers received excellent support, but in the last half of the sixth, the Hope fielders became demoralized.

The St. Mary's took the bat with the score 10 to 4 against them, but before the last man was put out they had made eight runs, due mainly to errors on the part of the opposing team. The sudden spurt seemed to daze the Hope's and from then on their defeat was assured. Despite strenuous work they were shut out three times straight while the St. Mary's added five more runs to their list.

The work of Mague, the Hope's left fielder, was almost faultless, low grounders and flies at all times landing securely in his hands. Hewitt's drive through left field to Fourth street was the longest made on the St. Mary's field this season It netted him a three-bagger. Winn's home run made in the eighth, was the only one in the game and was secured by hard running from an easy grounder through left field. The game was witnessed by five hundred enthusiastic rooters whose excited shouts could, at times, be heard for blocks.

Following is the batting order:

St. Mary's.	Hope Team.
Mack, ss	Hand, 2b

WON BY ONE RUN.

Clinton Avenue Nine Defeated New Providence Team on Local Grounds Saturday.

An excellent game of baseball was witnessed on the Clinton avenue grounds Saturday afternoon, when the Clinton Avenue club defeated the New Providence baseball club. The score was 8 to 7. Squires, the Clinton Avenue pitcher, was in fine form and struck out ten men to Garris's four. The remainder of the local team did good work, which accounts for its winning, as the New Providence men are anything but poor players.

GLENNY LOST IN FINALS.

ALLAN KENNADAY BEAT HIM FOR STATE GOLF CHAMPIONSHIP.

Play Was For Thirty-six Holes—Kennaday Won the Match 6 Up and 5 to Go.

The final round for the golf championship of New Jersey at Englewood Saturday saw the defeat of W. L. Glenny, the crack from the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, of this city, by Allan Kennaday, of Montclair. It was a closely matched play of thirty-six holes, but the Montclair man finally won 6 up and 5 to go.

Glenny did not show the remarkable form which won for him from Archie Graham, last season's champion, but he put up a plucky fight.

The first hole was halved in 4. Kennaday saving himself on a capital put. The second was his also, this time in a par 3. The third measures only 315 yards, but Glenny got into trouble and lost it, 5 to 7, leaving him 2 down. Kennaday lost the next by failing to halve on his opponent's bogie 4 and was only 1 up. The fifth was halved, and then Glenny won a hole, making the score a tie. After halving the seventh Kennaday took the eighth in a clever 2, and the ninth in an equally good 4 so that at the turn he led by 2 up. This lead he steadily increased going in, and at the home hole he was 4 up.

On the second round Kennaday maintained his advantage. Beginning with the first hole, which he took at 5 to 6, he won the third, fifth and eighth, losing the second and halving the balance. Glenney got one more hole, the tenth, before the match ended, but Kennaday had things safe at the thirteenth by 6 up and 5 to play. The cards:

STRIKE OF MACHINISTS IS PRACTICALLY OVER.

All Local Machine Shops Are Open And Most Of The Men Return.

ALL SATISFIED AT POTTER'S.

SHOP OPENED THIS MORNING AND ALL WILL RETURN TOMORROW.

Out Of The 200 Men In Pond's Machine Shop, 105 Have Now Returned—Full Force Working At Scott's.

Activity was resumed at the machine shops of the Scott and Potter Press Works this morning, and considerable addition was made to the working force at the Pond Tool Works. While the strike of the machinists has not yet been declared off in Plainfield, it is practically over. The men at Scott's accepted the owner's proposition and returned in full force this morning. Part of the force at Potter's returned to work this morning and the rest will come back tomorrow, a small concession having been granted. Fifty more men came back to Pond's under the old terms.

Following the announcement made in Saturday's edition of The Press, the Potter Press Works resumed operations at 6:30 this morning, the old starting time. A number of the men took their accustomed places at that time, but the majority will not go in until tomorrow, a satisfactory arrangement having been made with them by the officials. The Potter shop has always worked on a fifty-four hour hour basis with fifty-five hours' pay. The decision to return tomorrow was arrived at in a meeting held by the strikers this morning.

When interviewed this morning, the officials at the works declined to make known the terms granted the men, explaining that both parties concerned in the agreement were perfectly satisfied. It is understood, however, that the men will work the same number of hours per week with a five per cent. increase in pay.

At the Pond Tool Works fifty additional men returned to work in the machine shop bringing the total number now in that department up to 104. When the strike began the number of men working in the machine shop was 200, so that practically one half have resumed operations. This is the only shop in the city where the men returned to work on the old basis of hours and pay. The number of hours made in a week is fifty-nine and a quarter which will enable the men to make more money than those at the other shops, owing to the reduced time without a corresponding increase in wages. The old employes of the works still out can return at any time within the next few days and their places will be waiting for them.

It is probable that no change will be made in the present schedule in effect at the Aluminum Plate and Press, which is fifty-four hours' work with sixty hours' pay, granted three weeks after the strike began. The men have given entire satisfaction so far, and the officials do not wish to cause any dissatisfaction by reducing the pay or increasing the working hours. The present schedule was granted the men on condition that when the strike terminated they would accept the same terms granted the employes of the other shops. This was one of the important factors in holding the other men out as they did not wish to deprive the Aluminum employes of the new schedule.

The welcome hum of noisy machinery can be heard at the Scott's Press Works today. Carrying out their compact of Saturday the machinists returned to their work this morning and the familiar activity is found on every hand. Some of the men have not been able to return to their work owing to the shortness of the notice. These machinists include those who have found employment elsewhere as well as those who are away on vacations. As soon as they are able these machinists are expected to join their fellow workmen in the shops.

The apprentice boys also returned with the idea of going to work this morking but Mr. Scott informed them that he desired to talk with them first and they were requested to call at the office later in the morning.

New Offices.

Attorney Carlos C. Gallup has moved his law office from the Marsh building on Park avenue, to the second floor of the Dunlap building on Front street.

SUNK IN THE SOUND.

Starin Boat Lost—Nine Hundred Passengers Aboard Saved.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The 30-year-old wooden steamboat Mohawk, formerly the Castleton, owned by John H. Starin and used by him in carrying excursionists to Glen Island, struck a rock Saturday evening just off New Rochelle, with 900 passengers on board, and sank in less than 20 minutes. It is believed that no lives were lost, though there are reports that two or three persons are missing. The Mohawk lies in about 30 feet of water between Fort Slocum and Davenport's neck. Only her upper deck, smokestack and paddle boxes are above water. The excursionists owe their lives to the coolness of the captain and crew of the sunken vessel and to the courage of the men passengers, who helped the women and children to get into life preservers and boats before making their own escape.

The passengers were the employees of the John W. Green hat factories of Danbury, Conn. About one-half of them were women and children. The excursion left South Norwalk at 8 o'clock in the morning and arrived at Glen Island about noon. They had the Danbury band on board. There were also a number of employees of other factories in Danbury and a large delegation of citizens of that place. Harry Green, son of the hat manufacturer, was in charge of the outing.

Before leaving South Norwalk the captain of the Mohawk took aboard Bob Lasher, an experienced sound pilot. He was in the pilothouse when the vessel struck.

A Riot In Lyons.

LYONS, July 1.—M. Godefroy Cavaignac, former minister of war, presided yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the League of Patriots in Lyons. M. Sebastian Faure, the anarchist, organized an opposition meeting of revolutionary socialists, at which he violently denounced nationalism as "a detestable compound of clericalism, capitalism and militarism." Subsequently the socialists marched in procession through the streets, shouting "Down with Cavaignac!" and "Down with the priests!" Ultimately they became riotous, and several were arrested. In the meantime the supporters of M. Cavaignac escorted him to his hotel in the Place Bellecour, where hostile bodies met and fought, the police and mounted guards finding considerable difficulty in dispersing them. Even after they were scattered various groups paraded the quarter and indulged in riotous scuffles. Many persons were injured, and numerous arrests were made.

Increase In Philippine Trade.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—A marked increase in the trade of the Philippine Islands during the calendar year of 1900 over the commerce of the previous year is set out in a statement now made public by the division of insular affairs of the war department. The value of imported merchandise, gold and silver for 1900 is set down at $27,765,100. This, according to the war department's statement, was the greatest importation for any single year in the history of the archipelago. In 1899 the imports amounted to $20,449,074 in value, thus showing an increase of nearly 36 per cent in favor of 1900.

German Tourists Killed.

LONDON, July 1.—"Bohemian papers," says a dispatch to The Daily Mail from Vienna, "report that three German tourists, Wesinitz, Meixner and Fischer, were killed on the Erzge-Birge, near Weipert. They were roped together. One lost his footing and fell over a precipice. The others held him suspended. He urged them to save themselves by cutting the rope, but they refused, and, renewing their efforts to haul him up, all fell down the rocks."

American Crew at Henley.

HENLEY-ON-THAMES, July 1.—The Pennsylvania crew took advantage of Sunday to enjoy a thorough rest, the only exercise indulged in being a three mile walk in the course of the morning. All the men are in first class condition. Bob Cook, Yale's celebrated coach, who arrived last night, said that he considered the Pennsylvanians to be in better physical condition than any other American crew who ever reached the eve of the Henley races.

Martial Law In Panama.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, July 1.—The steamer Orinoco, which has just arrived here from Colon, Colombia, reports that martial law has been proclaimed in Panama owing to a report that the rebel forces are being reorganized. It also appears that considerable fighting is in progress in the interior and that the government is dispatching re-enforcements, arms and ammunition to the garrisons in the interior and also to certain coast towns.

President Heath Retires.

OXFORD, O., July 1.—Fletcher S. Heath has resigned by wire as president and director of the First National bank of this place. The directors held a meeting and elected George C. Munns to fill the vacancy. Heath also retired as director and vice president of the Miami Valley bank at Hamilton. Heath was a banker here for years before he went to Hamilton and thence to the Seventh National bank of New York.

The Hartford at Copenhagen.

COPENHAGEN, July 1.—The United States training ship Hartford, Commander J. M. Hawley, has arrived here. The navy department has reserved for her the best berth during her visit, which will continue two weeks. The crown prince regent will entertain the officers of the Hartford at dinner.

TIEN-TSIN CROWDED.

Allied Troops on Their Way Home Fill City.

THE CHINA MERCHANTS' CLAIM.

United States Marines Held Responsible For Company's Goods Distributed to Aid the Needy. Looting of Jewels Unlikely.

TIEN-TSIN, July 1.—The city of Tientsin is now more crowded than ever. Officers of all nations are here en route for their homes, and the hotels are placing cots in every available place.

Apartments have been prepared at the University of Tien-tsin for Prince Chun and his suit of 40, who will remain there for three days before leaving for Germany to make formal apologies for the murder of Baron von Ketteler.

Mr. Denby, who, when the foreign troops arrived, was appointed by the China Merchants company to protect their property, says the company in their claim against the United States government do not use the word "loot" against the marines, but merely hold them responsible. The greater part of the company's property consisted of rice, which was afterward distributed under orders from the British and American generals to assist those in need. Mr. Denby thinks the company's claim should have been added to the indemnity as legitimate expenditure.

Other Tien-tsin merchants say the company never had 300,000 taels' worth of property here.

It is pointed out that the company stored three boxes of valuables with the chartered bank before the troubles began and did not withdraw those until October and that consequently it is quite improbable any jewels were left to be looted. Moreover, the place was thoroughly gone through by local looters before the allied forces arrived.

It would be legally impossible to hold any portion of the relieving force responsible for anything but the rice and coal which were used as a military necessity to feed Chinese coolies who were forced to labor and also those who were without means of livelihood.

Empress Dowager Fears a Trap.

SHANGHAI, July 1.—Marquis Tseng has received a dispatch from Sian-fu to the effect that the empress dowager, fearing a trap to capture her, declines to return to Peking and has notified the grand council that the future capital will be Kai-feng-fu, in the province of Honan.

General Gomez In New York.

NEW YORK, July 1.—General Maximo Gomez has arrived in this city from the south with his son, Urban, and Alexander Gonzales, private secretary to General Wood. Many Cuban and American friends of the old soldier gathered at the West Twenty-third street ferry to greet him, and they cheered him heartily when he was seen. He smiled and spoke gratefully to men and women acquaintances. T. Estrada Palma, formerly of the Cuban junta and representative of the Cuban revolutionary party, took them to the Waldorf-Astoria hotel. General Gomez's visit to this country is said to be to confer with Palma about the Cuban bond issue. They are old friends, and their meeting was interesting. They embraced several times and kissed each other on the cheek. They talked only about the situation and affairs in Cuba.

Mrs. Brown-Potter Recites In Church

LONDON, July 1.—At the invitation of the vicar, the Rev. Forbes Phillips, Mrs. Brown-Potter, gowned in white and wearing a picture hat, recited from the chancel of the Gorleston church, near Cromer, after evensong Pope's "Vital Spark of Heavenly Flame" and another poem, "The Queen's Last Ride," delivering both to organ and choral accompaniment, the congregation listening reverently. The vicar's idea was to enhance the attractions of the service, and for an hour before it began a great crowd besieged the doors as if the occasion were a theatrical first night. Hundreds were unable to gain admission.

Machinists Get Their Demands.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The conference between the representatives of the employees of the National Cash Register company of Dayton, O., and of the company itself was not entirely satisfactory. The machinists were granted what they asked, nine hours' work at the rate of pay hitherto prevailing, but the polishers, buffers and brass molders will have to fight for what they demand. There was but little discussion over the demand of the machinists for a nine hour day. It was quickly agreed to by the representatives of the company. The tug of war came when the proposition of the polishers was advanced.

General Shafter Retires.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 1.—Two important military events occurred at the Presidio yesterday, the retirement of Major General W. R. Shafter and the mustering out of four volunteer regiments. General Shafter went on the retired list at noon, when he formally transferred the command of the department of California to Major General S. M. B. Young. In the afternoon the Forty-fourth, Forty-ninth, Forty-eighth and Thirty-eighth volunteer regiments were mustered out. The mustering out of the four regiments required the services of eight paymasters. More than $1,000,000 was distributed.

Long Mining Conference Fruitless.

KANSAS CITY, July 1.—The conference of coal miners and operators of District 25, which includes Leavenworth county, Kan., and all of Missouri except Bates, Barton and Vernon counties, has adjourned without having agreed on a wage scale. John Mitchell, national president of the miners' organization, left for Indianapolis, but will return again on July 15, when another attempt will be made to come to an agreement. The conference has been on since May 29.

Coal Advances Again.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—The anthracite coal trade presents no appreciable change. Another monthly advance of 10 cents per ton goes into effect today, and the regular circular rates have been and will be maintained at the higher figures. The situation involves practically nothing that is new.

General Butterfield Near Death.

NEWBURG, N. Y., July 1.—The condition of General Butterfield remains critical. He is growing weaker, and the end seems near.

A BIG STRIKE BEGUN

Fifty Thousand Steel and Tin Workers Ordered Out.

COMPANIES REFUSE TO SIGN SCALE

President Shaffer Says the Strike Now Begun Will Be a Fight to the Death—Amalgamated Association Prepared For Struggle.

PITTSBURG, July 1.—President T. J. Shaffer of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers this morning issued an order calling out all union employees of the various mills of the American Steel Hoop company, known as the hoop trust. It is estimated that 15,000 men will be subject to the call, which, in connection with the big strike of the American Sheet Steel company ordered by President Shaffer on Saturday, will affect 50,000 men. President Shaffer said:

"The impression that only the mills of the American Sheet Steel company are affected by the decision of Saturday is a mistake. The workmen of all mills in the American Steel Hoop company are interested and will be officially notified that the scale has not been signed and that they will quit work. To the well organized mills this notice will not be necessary, as the men will have watched the situation carefully, but what is known as open mills where union men have been allowed to work side by side with the nonunion is where we have to move. Union men must walk out of these open mills in the hoop trust.

"The open mills to be notified are one at Hollidaysburg, Pa.; three at Pittsburg and one at Monessen. The organized mills which will close on our call are the Upper and Lower mills at Youngstown, O.; Pomeroy, O.; Sharon, Pa.; Girard, Pa.; Warren, Pa.; Greenville, Pa. This, I believe, will bring the number of men affected up to 50,000.

"It is a matter of regret that the issue has been forced, but it now looks as though it will be a fight to the death.

"The Amalgamated association is not unprepared for it. We have not had a general strike for many years, and in that time we have not been idle. We have funds and will use them. Right here I want to correct an impression which has been given out that no benefits will be paid strikers until two months have elapsed. The Amalgamated association will begin at once to take care of its people.

"I will say now what I said to Mr. Smith, general manager of the Sheet Steel company, in the conference. I said if it is to be a strike we will make it one to be remembered. The officials dealing with us have little idea of the extent to which this strike will go once it is on."

To Test the Revenue Law.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The state of South Carolina, acting through the governor and the attorney general, has initiated proceedings before the commissioner of internal revenue to test the question whether the state can be legally required to take out special tax stamps as wholesale and retail liquor dealers under their state dispensary laws and has made a demand upon the commissioner for a refund of all such taxes hitherto paid, amounting to $4,916. While this sum is not large it is realized that the principle at issue is great and farreaching in importance. The one question involved is whether the internal revenue laws of the United States apply to the dispensary system of South Carolina so as to entitle the collector to demand the payment of these taxes.

Jersey Mosquitoes Had a Feast.

UNION HILL, N. J., July 1.—Henry Eggles, Charles Mertens and Otto Reiman, bakers of this place, went for a row on the Hackensack river at Mill Creek, N. J. The boat upset on a pile. Eggles sank and did not reappear. The other two dived for his body several times and then swam for the shore. They landed in the swamp and at every step sank knee deep. Then they lost their bearings. They were nearly naked and were so badly bitten by mosquitoes that their bodies were swollen out of shape. They reached the boathouse the next morning exhausted, after terrible suffering. Mertens has not recovered and at intervals talks incoherently.

Death of Mrs. Potter.

NEW YORK, July 1.—Mrs. Eliza Rogers Potter, wife of the Right Rev. Henry C. Potter, Protestant Episcopal bishop of New York, died suddenly yesterday morning at the family residence in this city. Mrs. Potter's death was due to heart failure, superinduced by the intense heat of the last few days. For a week she had been suffering from a heart affection, but no serious result of her ailment was looked for by her family. She returned from Newport a week ago. Bishop Potter was at his wife's side when the end came, but none of her six children was present.

Speaker Henderson at Windsor.

LONDON, July 1.—Speaker Henderson of the United States house of representatives, accompanied by some friends and under the guidance of Mr. Henry White, the secretary of the American embassy, visited Windsor castle. King Edward granted them special privileges. The party visited St. George's and the Albert Memorial chapel. Afterward they visited the Royal library, where they saw the priceless art treasures. Later on they visited the grave of William Penn.

New Vessel For Maine Line.

NEW YORK, July 1.—The fine new steamer North Star has arrived in port direct from the yards of the Roach Shipbuilding company at Chester, Pa. The vessel is the latest addition to the fleet of the Maine Steamship company and is intended for service on their line between New York and Portland, Me. The North Star was launched on May 7, is about 300 feet long, 46 feet wide and 17 feet deep.

Lake Shipbuilding Brisk.

CLEVELAND, July 1.—The American Shipbuilding company has just received an order for five steel steamers, 400 feet over all, 50 feet beam and 28 feet molded depth and a carrying capacity of 5,600 tons of iron ore. They will cost $1,250,000. The order signifies the beginning of a boom in shipbuilding on the great lakes.

Buffalo Bank Closed.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The failure of the City National bank of Buffalo is announced by Comptroller Dawes.

PAN-AMERICAN PLANS.

Interesting Guests Scheduled For the Week at Buffalo.

BUFFALO, July 1.—This week will be an interesting one at the Pan-American exposition. Today is Dominion day. The Forty-eighth highlanders of Toronto, one of the two kilted regiments of Canada, arrived at the exposition 500 strong in a special train of 13 cars. They made a gorgeous column as they marched inside the Lincoln parkway gate to Camp Millard Fillmore. They were greeted by Sousa's band with "The Invincible Eagle," and the famous highlander band answered with "God Save the King" and "Yankee Doodle."

The United States artillery under Major Wiser turned out the entire guard to welcome the highlanders. The crowd cheered heartily. It was an enthusiastic welcome.

The Dominion day ceremonies, in addition to the grand parade of the Canadian, which occurred this morning, include appropriate ceremonies at the Temple of Music, the inspection of Canada's fine building and a dress parade on the esplanade.

Another feature of the day will be the Canadian-American lacrosse championships in the stadium.

Tuesday will be Missouri day as well as Wellesley college day. The programme for the dedicatory exercises will be held in the Louisiana Purchase building Tuesday morning. Hon. David R. Francis will preside.

Alaska's building will be dedicated on Thursday. The Alaska day may be held later.

On Thursday all around sports of the American Athletic union will be held in the stadium. Friday will be New York Liederkranz day, and Saturday will be educators' day.

ARMED STRIKERS ARRESTED.

A Band Charged With Terrorizing West Virginia Mines In Custody.

THACKER, W. Va., July 1.—During last night Detective T. L. Felts, assisted by John Justice, deputy United States marshal, and a posse of six men, went to the Kentucky side of Tug river and captured the nine persons who are charged with terrorizing the miners on the West Virginia side of the river for the past ten days by shooting at all who could not give the proper strikers' sign as they passed and repassed along the railroad. They were brought to this place and held under a heavy guard awaiting the train to take them before a Kentucky judge, who remanded them to Judge Jackson at Parkersburg, this state.

They were surprised in their sleep, with their Winchesters under their pillows, and surrendered with but little resistance. Even their guard was captured asleep on duty. It is generally believed that this will break up the fighting end of the strikers' troubles and that their differences will soon be compromised in a satisfactory way to all concerned.

Charles Burke, president of the local union of United Mine Workers of America, was also arrested by Deputy United States Marshal Hufford and Detective Felts and taken to Parkersburg to appear before Judge Jackson on the charge of tearing down notices of the injunction granted by Judge Jackson. The nine strikers arrested in Kentucky were lodged in jail at Williamson to await the action of the Kentucky courts.

Well Known Minister Dead.

CATSKILL, N. Y., July 1.—Rev. Dr. Byron Sunderland of Washington died here of cerebral embolism yesterday afternoon at the home of his son-in-law, Orrin Day, president of the Tanners' National bank. Dr. Sunderland was 83 years of age and for more than 60 years had been an active minister of the gospel. For 48 years he was pastor of the First Presbyterian church here, on which he retired because of advancing years in 1868. He was a native of Vermont, where he was born in 1819, and his first pulpit appearance was at Alexander, N. Y. It was at Dr. Sunderland's church that President and Mrs. Cleveland had a pew while Cleveland was president, and the minister officiated at the wedding ceremony when Mr. Cleveland married Miss Folsom.

Dr. Wintner Acquitted.

GRANITE FALLS, Minn., July 1.—The jury in the murder trial of Dr. Wintner returned a verdict of not guilty. The defendant was released and left at once with his father and sister. Dr. Wintner last April shot and killed William Lenard, a gambler, with whom he was playing poker, explaining at the time that he had discovered the man to be cheating him. He demanded his money back and secured part of it from Lenard's partner, but the other man refused to give up what he had won, and Dr. Wintner shot him in the leg and abdomen. He died within a short time, and the doctor immediately surrendered himself to the authorities, and his trial has resulted in acquittal. Dr. Wintner was formerly a resident of New York.

Bathers Adrift All Night.

WARDENCLYFFE, N. Y., July 1.—Dressed in bathing suits, Miss Mary Beadle, 18 years old, and her sister, Annie Beadle, 16 years old, in company with Randall B. Warden and A. C. Wilson, both about 20 years old and also wearing bathing suits, embarked on a voyage of adventure in a leaky rowboat from the beach at this place in the afternoon and wound up at 4 o'clock the next morning at Roanoke Point, while the entire neighborhood hereabouts spent the night building bonfires and scouring the beach for the missing ones.

Newfoundland Prosperous.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 1.—The minister of finance will present the budget to the legislature today. It is expected to show a surplus of nearly $250,000. The condition of the colony is exceptionally prosperous. The government contemplates a number of changes in the tariff, chiefly in the direction of relieving the burdens on the fishing classes.

A Fatal Collision.

CHICAGO, July 1.—One person was killed and nearly a score were injured in a collision between an electric car on Irving Park boulevard and two wagons loaded with picnickers. Both wagons were overturned by the shock, and their occupants were crushed and bruised. The motorman and conductor of the car were arrested.

Terrific Electric Storm.

STERLING, Ills., July 1.—A terrific electric storm has wrought death and destruction in this city. Houses were moved from their foundations, and hundreds of trees were blown down, and four buildings were struck by lightning.

THE HOT WAVE.

Eastern Half of the Country Suffering From Intense Heat.

BOSTON, July 1.—The weather throughout New England is generally a slight improvement over that of the past three days, a breeze tempering the sun's terrific heat on altitudes and along the coast. In the cities, however, the suffering is terrible among the poorer people, and the hospitals are fully as busy as during the past week.

In Boston the official figures for the maximum temperature was 93 degrees yesterday, while the humidity was only 58, giving a summer day's warmth without the dog day saturation. The police report only one death from heat prostration in the city proper, but there have been very many serious cases. The hospitals are still treating scores of patients prostrated during the week, so that the list of heat victims is abnormally large. It appears that mortality among truck horses in the city has been appalling, and the Sunday rest was a great relief to delivery companies.

In the New England states there have been recorded an unusually large number of casualties from the heat or from a cause incident to it apparently.

Three deaths from the heat occurred at Lawrence, Mass., one of an iceman, a total of seven since Friday.

At Manchester, N. H., there were three deaths from the heat, two women and one man.

At Malden, Mass., an iceman named McPherson, who fell from a sunstroke while carrying a cake of ice into a house, has died.

Miss Annie Lynch of Taunton, Mass., took poison and killed herself.

At Lewiston, Me., three drownings occurred.

Warren Weston of this city committed suicide while demented by jumping from the Portland steamer on her trip to that city. Owen Dowd, a spinner at Fall River, went to sleep beside an open window with a lighted lantern near him. The breeze caused the flame to ignite the oil reservoir, and in an explosion Dowd was burned to death.

Heat and Drought In the West.

KANSAS CITY, July 1.—Missouri and Kansas are suffering from hot winds that threaten great damage to corn. Atchison, Kan., reports the greatest drought in northwestern Kansas since 1860, a warm wind having blown from the south almost unceasingly for the past seven days. Abilene, Kan., reports 105 degrees weather, with many fields in southern Dickinson county ruined. A Mexico (Mo.) dispatch says that the thermometer registered 101 degrees yesterday and that if raid does not come soon the farmers will have to put their stock on the market immediately to save it. Sedalia, Mo., reports 103 degrees in the shade, with the statement that another week of similar weather will make certain a failure of the corn crop in central Missouri.

Washington Suffers.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Intense heat prevailed here all yesterday and far into the night. The sun shone with relentless fury from a cloudless sky all day, and there was scarcely a breath of air to temper the atmosphere. During the afternoon the temperature at the weather bureau was 98 degrees, and it maintained a high record throughout the evening. Reports to the weather bureau from ponts throughout the hot wave area show remarkably high temperature generally with little or no rainfall and but poor prospects for any substantial relief in the next 48 hours in the eastern part of the country.

Drought In England Broken.

LONDON, July 1.—The long continued drought in Great Britain has broken up. Violent thunderstorms occurred Saturday night and yesterday, accompanied by torrential rains and lightning, which wrought much havoc. Many parts of the continent have been suffering from heat waves. In Portugal much damage has been done by floods and hailstorms. According to a dispatch to The Daily Express from Oporto, 20 persons were drowned by floods in the Carrazeda district and five killed by lightning at Gouvinhas.

Killing Heat In Nebraska.

LINCOLN, Neb., July 1.—Today is the eighth day during which the mercury has reached more than 99 degrees and the fifth during which it has reached 100. For eight days the state has suffered from drought and south winds. Oats, potatoes and hay crops have been badly injured, and corn has begun to curl and wither in the eastern part of the state. The drought is felt worse in the central eastern part of the state.

Death From Heat In Pittsburg.

PITTSBURG, July 1.—Between midnight Saturday and midnight Sunday 11 deaths directly traceable to the effects of heat and 15 prostrations are recorded. In addition to this many children have succumbed, as is evidenced by the burial permits issued. In the past 18 hours 59 permits have been issued, three-fourths of which were for children under 4 years.

Record Broken In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Yesterday was the hottest June day Philadelphia has experieneed since 1897. The maximum temperature, according to the official thermometer on top of the postoffice building, was 98 at 4 o'clock in the afternoon. In the street the temperature was several degrees higher. The humidity registered 66 per cent.

Intense Heat In Baltimore.

BALTIMORE, July 1.—Baltimore was the second hottest city in the United States yesterday, the weather bureau thermometer registering 99 degrees at 3 p. m. Not a breath of air stirred all day, and a high temperature was maintained far into the night. One death and severeral prostrations were reported.

A Fatal Knockdown.

PHILADELPHIA, July 1.—Francis Grilly, aged 35 years, was knocked down and instantly killed by Charles Raff, aged 50 years. Grilly was intoxicated and had been annoying Raff, who, becoming angry, struck his tormentor a blow in the right temple. Grilly fell to the ground and when picked up was dead. Raff is under arrest.

Heat Killed Lucas.

SARATOGA, July 1.—Thomas Lucas of New York city was prostrated by the heat Saturday afternoon and died yesterday. For 20 years he had been coachman for Spencer Trask of New York city, who has a country seat here.

Weather Probabilities.

Fair and continued high temperature; light to fresh southerly winds.

A PROSPEROUS YEAR

Our Domestic Exports Amount to About $1,500,000,000.

BALANCE OF TRADE LARGER THAN EVER

Cash In the Treasury $175,088,221 and a Stack of Gold In the Vaults of Nearly $500,000,000—War Expenses Very Large.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—The United States government has just ended the most successful financial year in its history. The fiscal year ended on June 30, but as the last day of the present fiscal period happened to fall on Sunday the records of the treasury department were virtually complete at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. While the finances of the government are in a most encouraging condition the commerce and industries of the United States as shown by official records kept during the 12 months have reached a condition of prosperity unprecedented, the exports of domestic products amounting to about $1,500,000,000 and the balance of trade being far larger than ever before.

The United States treasury has had a most remarkable year, and Secretary Gage says that the outlook for the fiscal year 1902 is as encouraging as at any time since the government was established. So far as he can see there are no rocks ahead, and he authorizes the statement that he will continue indefinitely the purchase of bonds, relying on the great resources of the treasury and the steady income from sources of revenue to sustain him. He says also that he has no immediate intention of resuming the refunding operations authorized by the act of March 14, 1900.

This year, for the first time, the secretary of the treasury purchased bonds in the open market without advertising for proposals, as has been the custom heretofore. The treasury has received during the fiscal year more than it has spent by the sum of $75,601,042.19, which is the largest surplus that has been realized in any year in the last decade except 1900.

It would have exceeded by far even the record of last year had not purchases of bonds been made to the amount of nearly $15,000,000. Yet, as Mr. Gage remarked, a large surplus is not to be regarded as an unmixed blessing, and it is only valuable in a survey of our finances as showing the prosperous condition of the treasury.

One significant thing in the treasury statement is that the last day of the fiscal year the available cash balance, amounting to $175,088,221.23, is larger than ever before in the history of the country. At the same time the stock of gold in the treasury vaults has reached the enormous sum of nearly $500,000,000, a condition which a few years ago was entirely unlooked for.

The briefest record of the treasury finances during the last year is as follows: Receipts from customs, $238,786,741; from internal revenue, $305,214,411; from miscellaneous sources, $41,547,157; total, $585,548,309; expenditures for civil and miscellaneous purposes, $122,286,089; for the military establishment, $144,543,912; for the navy, $60,580,706; for Indians, $10,894,975; for pensions, $139,821,930; for interest, $32,319,654; total, $509,947,206. The receipts from customs were about $6,000,000 larger this year than last year and from internal revenue about $13,000,000 larger.

The war department was more expensive this year by about $10,000,000 than it was in 1900, the navy about $4,000,000 more and the civil and miscellaneous expenses about $17,000,000 more. On the other hand, the refunding of the national debt has caused a saving of interest already of about $8,000,000.

Dry Sunday at Atlantic City.

ATLANTIC CITY, July 1.—The Sunday closing law was strictly enforced here yesterday, and for the first time since 1875 visitors were unable to obtain intoxicating liquors at the bars or in the hotel buffets. In some of the hotels however, liquor was served in the rooms. The enforcement of the law did not apparently affect the number of visitors to this resort. The trolley line running to the Inlet, where refreshments are served in the pavilions, was considerably affected, as was also the business in the grottoes and beach hotels. Only one arrest for drunkenness was made, and at roll call at night none of the day police force entered a complaint against any license holder. The new order, it is said, will cost Atlantic City nearly $50,000 of revenue every Sunday it is enforced.

The Armenia a Hopeless Wreck.

ST. JOHN, N. B., July 1.—The steamer Armenia lies a hopeless wreck on Nigger head. Her position has not changed. She is fast upon the rocks, lying on her starboard side, her nose in the rocks and her stern higher. The port side shows no sign of damage, while looking under the keel aft can be seen a hole in the starboard bilge. At low water the masts are just under water. Yesterday the smokestack went out of her, and the piano was washed away. The crew are in the city, and interviews were sought with the captain and first officer, but they would say nothing pending propable inquiry. Superintendent Engineer Nish of New York is expected here and will inspect the wreck.

Miners' Wage Scale Settled.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., July 1.—The coal miners and mine operators of Alabama, after conferences covering the entire week, have agreed on a basis of settlement of the wage scale for the ensuing year beginning today. It was agreed to renew the old wage scale, with 45 cents per ton as the mavimum, and to refer local conditions which have arisen at certain mines since last July to a joint arbitration committee. This agreement is conditional on the approval of the miners as a body. Twelve thousand men are involved.

Aged Physician Dead.

LANCASTER, Pa., July 1.—Dr. J. Augustus Ehler, aged 81 years, and thought to be the oldest practicing physician in the state, is dead at his home in this city. He was an organiker of the Lancaster County Medical society and a member of the state society and the American Medical association.

Planing Mill Destroyed.

NEWTON, Mass., July 1.—The large planing mill plant of H. F. Ross in Newtonville has been practically destroyed by fire. Mr. Ross says the loss will be $40,000, possibly more, partially covered by insurance.

July 1—Meeting of Common Council.
July 1—Meeting of Plainfield Board of Education.

Workers Return.

Although the strike of the machinists for nine hours' work with ten hours' pay is not entirely over as far as Plainfield is concerned, all of the local machine shops are now open. A temporary arrangement was made by the officials of the Aluminum Plate and Press Company so that the full force in that combany's machine shop returned to work several weeks ago. The full force at the Scott Press Works returned this morning, the men have decided to accept the proposition made by Mr. Scott of fifty-five hours' work a week with about six per cent. increase. The Potter Press Works opened this morning with a five per cent. increase and all the men came back. The Potter men have been working on a fifty-four hour schedule for years. Additions were also made to the force at work at the Pond Tool works.

Unless the unexpected happens, it would seem as if the end of the strike in Plainfield was not far off. There is not one thinking person in Plainfield who will not be glad to see it end. The strikers have shown themselves an exceptionally orderly and law-abiding set, and the month of the strike has passed off without any serious disorder. There has constantly existed, however, the possibility of grave trouble, and the city officials have been seriously concerned about it. That no trouble has happened is due to the prompt action of the city authorities and the sensible course of the strike leaders in using all their influence to prevent any kind of a demonstration and keeping the men away from the neighborhood of the works, where a little hasty conduct might result disastrously.

To the local merchants, the news that the end is not far off will be very welcome. While some of the strikers were well prepared to meet the period of idleness, the strike has caused want in many homes. Economy has been carefully practiced and the storekeepers have felt the direct results of it. While the International Order of Machinists has been able to relieve those of the strikers who were in actual want, there has not been a regular payment of weekly benefits to all the men.

The instructions of President O'Connell, of the International Order, were that the men were to hold out for terms or if they had to go back, to go back in a body. For several days last week there was a feeling on the part of many of the old Pond employes that it would be better to return all together. A comparative few have returned. Now that Scott's has opened with its full force and Potter's is also open, it seems likely that some action will be taken by the men which will result in calling off the strike entirely and a general resumption of work.

The city officials should appreciate the danger of this habit of running to fires even if this city has been fortunate enough in the past not to have it result seriously so far. It is a matter which calls for prompt action on the part of the city authorities for it is impossible to tell when the next alarm will be sent in. There is a meeting of the Common Council next Monday evening when the subject should be officially dealt with if not before. If the Mayor will take the initiative, however, he will find that he has the support of every good citizen in the city. Imperative instructions to the police to arrest the reckless drivers who insist upon running their horses to the scene of the fire would undoubtedly be the means of putting a stop to the habit in a short time. As it is, the people have been allowed to do it so long that they are actually beginning to believe that they have a right to.

Even the hot wave has had no effect on the political writers of New Jersey and the last week has seen the usual batch of stories about the exciting situation throughout the State. Franklin Murphy is still head and shoulders above anyone else in the race for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. Being unable to find anyone who will stand against him, these writers have to be content with saying that they will wait until Gen. Sewell returns and see who he is going to back against Mr. Murphy. That the General will support Mr. Murphy, as seems pretty generally assured, is somewhat out of their calculations.

The explosion, which demolished the drug store of H. W. Reusswig, at Somerville, one day last week, proved more serious than was first thought. Two of the victims of the accident have since died from the injuries they received. Before he died, John Abbott, the young clerk, who was in the basement when the explosion occurred, made a statement, but it failed to throw any light on the cause of the fatality.

The street committee of the Borough Council is now actively engaged in preparing for the placing of the street signs. It has been found that the appropriation already made is not sufficient to fully equip the borough with signs of the same style as are now in use in Plainfield. The appropriation will be used as far as it will go, however, and the new street signs will appear in the near future.

Saturday was a great day for the local golfers. The events open to both of the local clubs on the Park Golf Club course were hotly contested and proved of much interest. The social features of the affair proved very successful and the large crowd of local society folk in attendance was highly pleased with the hospitality of the borough club.

Independence Day is now only three days away and the small boy is happy in the anticipation of the good time to come. Some of these small enthusiasts have not been able to withstand the temptation and an occasional sky-rocket or pin-wheel has illuminated their fall.

TEA TABLE TALK.

Short and Gossipy Sketches That Are Not Always News, But Just as Interesting.

An innovation greatly appreciated is that permitting the women in the choir at the First Baptist church to remove their hats during the services. Mr. McCutchen, choir director, very considerately has given the women this privilege. The change adds much to the comfort of the women during the warm weather and does not detract in the least from the services.

Hope's Annual Excursion.

Announcement was made yesterday that the annual excursion of the Hope chapel Sunday-school to Asbury Park would take place on Saturday, August 17. The following committee was appointed by Superintendent Squires to make all arrangements: Frederick Pierce, chairman; assisted by Alex Muir, Benjamin Evans, Geo. Slorah, Matthew Sweeney, Mrs. Johnson and Mrs. Jones.

Arrested For Being Drunk.

Edmund Scott, of West Third street, and his brother, John Scott, were arrested Saturday evening by Marshal Emmons. The charge is drunkenness. Together with James Burke, of Regent street, who was taken in custody by Marshal Winn, on the same charge they will be given a hearing by Borough Recorder Doud this evening.

Vacations for Letter Carriers.

Each of the letter carriers will be allowed a fifteen days' vacation this summer. This morning four of them started for their recreation. They are Daniel Shea, Charles Glaenizer, John Hines and Philip Giese.

Death Of Little Child.

Percy Walker, the six-months-old son of Jefferson and Lydia Walker, of West Third street, died at an early hour this morning. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Almost Ready to Start Work.

The iron catch basins for the Somerset street storm sewer have arrived and as soon as the pipes are delivered the Mayor states that the construction work will proceed immediately.

—Street Commissioner Gavett has the scraper at work on Central avenue cleaning out the gutters.

DUNELLEN.

(Special Correspondence.)

Dunellen, July 1—By far the best game of baseball seen in the borough this season was that played Saturday afternoon on the Lincoln avenue grounds, between the Dunellen team and the Arions, of Plainfield. The home team won by a score of 18 to 16. The Arions are considered an excellent team but they were no match for Frank Rinehart's players and their defeat was assured from the first. The batteries were Ayers and Kuldoshes for Dunellen and Whitly and Mague for the Arions.

It has been decided by the Boards of Freeholders of Middlesex and Somerset counties to erect a truss bridge over Green brook on the road leading from Gallagher's corner to the Palmer farm. The bridge committees will meet at Taylor's hotel, Saturday afternoon at 2:36, for the purpose of receiving bids. Bids are also asked for the mason work, the old foundation having been found in poor condition.

The Epworth League of the Methodist church has completed all arrangements for the lawn festival to be held tomorrow evening on the grounds about C. A. Douglas' residence on Washington avenue. It will be a very pleasant affair.

John McMahon is rapidly getting his team of railroad employes in shape for the ball game Thursday with Frank Rinehart's players. There is no lack of talent in the borough, and a good game will no doubt be the outcome.

Among the graduates at the Plainfield Business College Friday evening were Jacob Ginder and Percy Ising, of the borough. They completed the shorthand course.

Lud Frazee has taken the contract to paint the Garretson homestead in Piscataway township. He is at present engaged in painting George Day's new residence.

The Willing Workers of the Church of the Holy Innocents met Saturday afternoon at the home of Miss Amy Samson.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Education will be held in the Whittier building tomorrow evening.

William Messler, of Green Village, has been spending a few days with friends in town.

PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

(Special Correspondence.)

Scotch Plains, July 1.—The local base ball team meet its first defeat of the season Saturday afternoon when it journeyed by trolley to Forest Hill and met the Forest Hill Field Club. Whether it was the long and tiresome ride or the very warm weather which affected the boys no one has been able to tell as yet, but one thing all were sure of and that was Scotch Plains was away off in its playing. In the sixth inning, Albert, pitcher, was replaced by Johnston. This started a merry-go-round as the latter had not pitched in several years and was unable to find the plate. Before the nine was retired 8 runs had been added to the score, making the total for Forest Hill, 14. After this all settled down and by playing good ball managed to shut the home team out, the final score being:

F. H. F. C.	1	4	0	1	0	8	0	0	—14

Rev. Dr. J. B. Simmonds, secretary of the American Baptist Tract Society, occupied the pulpit in the Baptist church Sunday. Mr Simmonds gave an interesting discourse at both services upon the work he is interested in, especially the chapel car branch, which has filled a long felt want in the small western towns.

Marshal August Scheeling, of the borough, was called upon to shoot a strange dog which had been acting strangely about the lawn at "Homestead." Miss Boucher, fearing that the dog had the rabies, sent for the officer and the animal was soon out of his misery, whether mad or not.

Miss Alice Shott led the weekly meeting of the Baptist Young People's Society held in the church parlors last evening.

A number from town who have been among the striking machinists in Plainfield, returned to work this morning.

Rev. G. M. Shott addressed a Sunday-school meeting at Rahway, Sunday afternoon.

LAST SAD RITES PERFORMED.

FUNERAL OF MRS. BESSIE BLAIR CASE HELD SATURDAY.

Service Was Private—Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and Rev. C. E. Herring Were In Charge.

The funeral services of the late Mrs. Bessie Blair Case were held Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock from the residence on East Second street, and were private. Between the hours of 12 o'clock, noon, and 2 o'clock in the afternoon, an opportunity was given all who desired to view the remains. Many friends accepted this opportunity.

The services were attended by the relatives and a few intimate friends, and were in charge of Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes, of the First Baptist church, and Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. The latter read the Scripture selections and offered prayer, while Dr. Yerkes spoke concerning the deceased. His words were filled with eulogy concerning the exemplary Christian life and character of Mrs. Case. He referred to her sincere and devoted work in the church, and her pleasure in praising God through a sweet voice, which was one of her most valuable talents. He spoke comforting words to the bereaved ones and invoked the blessings of God on them. He pointed them to that Heavenly Father who can comfort and heal the broken heart. Throughout the entire discourse, Dr. Yerkes dwelt upon the lovable, noble Christian life of the deceased.

During the services a quartette, composed of Miss Luella Harris, Mrs. F. M. Ward, Charles W. McCutchen and Wm. Holmes, of the First Baptist church choir, of which the deceased was a member, sang sweetly "Crossing the Bar," "We Would See Jesus," and "Safe in the Arms of Jesus."

The display of floral tributes was beautiful and impressive and consisted of many large set pieces from relatives and friends, while there were a number of smaller bunches of flowers, all giving evidence of the high esteem in which the deceased was held.

The interment took place in Hillside Cemetery. Those who served as pall-bearers were Herbert Case, Thos. D. Blair, Adam C. Blair and James R. Blair.

HILLSIDE GOLF CLUB WAS WELL ENTERTAINED

was shown. First honors went to Frank O. Reinhart, of Hillside, whose three drives all landed on the green, averaging 205 yards. His longest drive was 215 yards. J. H. Simpson, of the Park Club, was a close second with an average for three drives of 202 yards 1 feet. Howard deP. Wright, Hillside, was third, with 199 yards, 2 feet.

The average of those who succeeded in driving each time within bounds were as follows: Roger F. Murray, Park and Hillside, 196 yards, 2 feet; W. J. R. Thiers, Park, 190 yards, 2 feet; Frank Talmage, Hillside, 189 yards, 2 feet; H. D. Hibbard, Park, 178 yards, 2 feet; Morgan T. Townsend, 177 yards; Willard Wadsworth, Hillside, 171 yards; W. de la R. Anderson, Park, 167 yards; C. L. Nichols, Park, 161 yards; Dr. J. H. Carman, 143 yards. The others who took part but drove at least once out of bounds were J. Whitney Baker, Hillside, N. P. Rogers, Jr., Hillside, Fred P. Taylor, Park, Rev. Dr. W. R. Richards, Hillside, Dr. F. C. Ard, Hillside, Gus Faber, Park, William A. Townsend, Park.

The mixed approaching and putting contest concluded the afternoon's programme. In was held on the ninth hole. Fourteen couples took part. Mrs. Samuel Townsend and her son, William A. Townsend, were the last to try and they won the event, holing out on three approaches with a total of nine strokes. Will Townsend approached right on the green each time and Mrs. Townsend putted near enough so that her son holed out in the next shot in each case.

It was expected that Miss Louise G. Fisk and Frank O. Reinhart, of Hillside, and Mrs. N. P. Rogers and N. P. Rogers, Jr., would figure in the contest. The first mentioned team took eleven while Mrs. Rogers and her son made a twelve.

The summary of the event was as follows:

Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Wm. A. Townsend, Park	9
Miss Saidee Mae Howell and Fred P. Taylor, Park	10
Miss May Evans and Dr. F. C. Ard, Hillside	10
Miss vanHerwerden, Hillside, and H. D. Hibbard, Park	10

A reception was held at the club house during the afternoon and cooling refreshments were served to the guests who assembled. Plainfield society folk, forming the membership of the two clubs, were out in force. There were a number of stylish turnouts. Chairs were set out on the lawn in front of the club house, while flags were used in the decoration of it. The affair was the most successful one, from both a golfing and social point of view of any such event ever held at the club.

HORSE ASTRAY.

Belonged to Frank Mobus and Wandered Out Park Avenue.

Frank Mobus, of 33 Regent street, has lost a valuable horse, which he purchased a week ago. The animal had been sick for a few days and yesterday Mr. Mobus turned him out in a field.

At 7 o'clock last evening the animal broke through the fence and ran away. Soon afterward Mr. Mobus missed the horse and had the impression that he went over the mountains. Late last evening he was informed that the animal was seen going through Park avenue, but as yet has not been found.

The horse is a chestnut brown and weighs 1250 pounds. He can be distinguished by marks under the neck, the result of a mustard plaster.

Cleaned the Street.

Street Commissioner Gavett's men made a tour along West Front street Saturday and thoroughly cleaned the street, much to the satisfaction of residents.

Why She Chewed.

She was a good-looking girl of 18, well dressed and all that, and the man opposite her on the car wondered why she made a spectacle of herself chewing gum in such a public place. She noticed that he was mentally criticising her, and finally leaned forward with a blush and whispered:

"I am not chewing gum because I love it."

"No?" he queried.

"And I know that it looks bad."

"Yes?"

"But I'm engaged."

"So?"

"And he's—he's out there on the platform."

"I see."

"And we had a quarrel last night, and he said he'd never speak to me again, and I'm chewing gum to spite him and get even."

"That is perfectly right and proper, my dear girl," replied the man with paternal sympathy in his tones; and he looked out of the window, and the girl chewed on.—Cincinnati Commercial Tribune.

They Were All Tired.

The parlor entertainer has some amusing experiences, although he is not always good natured enough to tell them against himself. One who appreciates a joke, however, relates that on a certain occasion he had been performing at an "at-home," and responding to so many encores that the programme became unusually long.

After it was all over his hostess and her young daughter came up to him, and, after congratulating him on the success of the afternoon, said, most cordially:

"Oh, Mr. Blank, come and have some punch and sit down for awhile. I know you must be awfully tired."

"Yes," chimed in the sweet young daughter, with the best intentions in the world, "I'm sure we are."—N. Y. Mail and Express.

The Electric Eel's Victim.

At the Zoological gardens a large electric eel was swimming in its tank with more activity than usual, when a big cockroach fell into the water, and in its efforts to get out made a disturbance of the surface, which attracted the attention of the eel. The eel turned round, swam past it, discharged its battery at about eight inches off, and the cockroach instantly stopped stone dead. It did not even move its antennae after. The eel then proceeded to swallow its victim, and the narrator goes on to point out the curious circumstance that the fish, which weighed about 12 pounds, should find it worth while to fire its heavy artillery at a creature an inch and a half long, when it could easily have swallowed it sans facon.—Chambers' Journal.

He Sprinted.

Counsel (examining witness)—You say you saw the shots fired?

Witness—Yes, sir.

"How near were you to the scene of the affray?"

"When the first shot was fired I was about ten feet from the shooter."

"Ten feet. Well, now, tell the court where you were when the second shot was fired."

"I didn't measure the distance."

"Approximately, how far would you say?"

"Well, I should think that it was about half a mile!"—London Spare Moments.

Boars in Windsor Park.

It is stated that the wild boars in Windsor Great park are to be shot, by order of King Edward. The herd was presented to Queen Victoria by the king some years ago during a tour in India. The animals have largely increased in numbers, and have had to be killed off periodically. They have been a considerable source of attraction to visitors, but they are dangerous, and several people have narrowly escaped injury.—N. Y. Sun.

Easily Satisfied.

"Hello!" cried the bore, bustling into the great man's office, "anything new?"

"You're always looking for something new and fresh, aren't you?" said the long-suffering victim.

"Sure!"

"Well, why don't you carry a pocket mirror?"—Philadelphia Press.

"But you have not been happy there, dear. And I am sure the work is too hard for you. You are tired out."

"It is the heat, mother. I shall be all right when the cool weather comes this fall."

Mrs. Clark shook her head doubtfully; and when Barbara went up to her room at last her mother broke down and had a cry over the situation. Barbara had handed her the four weeks' savings, amounting to $14. It was more than she could have saved on $35 a month as a teacher, if she had been obliged to pay for her own board and lodgings and incidentals. But, in spite of all, Mrs. Clark could not understand the girl's evident purpose to go back to Mrs. Ward's permanently.

Up in her room that night Barbara turned to her New Testament with a purpose which had been formed since her talk in the morning. It had come to her mind, while Mrs. Ward was saying something about the need which she had of her, that there were a great many passages in the New Testament written especially for servants. And the idea occurred to her to search for all of them and make a study of them with special reference to her own case at what was now a crisis for her future. She would take one passage every week and dwell on it while at her work—if she should decide to go back to the Wards indefinitely.

She did not know where to look for all the passages referring to the slaves or bond-servants common to Christ's and Paul's times, but she was familiar with the beautiful verses in the second chapter of Philippians, and she turned to them reading from her Revised Bible.

"Have this mind in you, which was also in Christ Jesus: who, being in the form of God, counted it not a prize to be on an equality with God, but emptied Himself, taking the form of a servant (the Greek word is bond-servant), being made in the likeness of men; and being made in fashion as man, He humbled Himself, becoming obedient even unto death, yea, the death of the cross.

"Wherefore also God highly exalted Him, and gave unto Him the name which is above every name; that in the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of things in Heaven and things on earth and things under the earth and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father." (Phil. ii:5-11.)

"The Son of God was a bond-servant." Barbara repeated the statement softly before she prayed. And never before had she prayed more earnestly for wisdom and humility and courage. Never had the girl felt a deeper longing to be of use in the world where she was most needed. "Help me, Son of God," was the burden of her prayer, "to decide now what I ought to do. Lead me in the right way."

In the morning she went down, and, meeting her mother, kissed her affectionately. Mrs. Clark looked at her anxiously.

"Yes, mother," Barbara answered, gently, "I have decided to go back for good. I believe I can be of more use there than in a schoolroom. The dragon is very fierce and very tough, mother; and I have been scared and run away; but I am going back, and I want your blessing again. There are going to be some interesting fights with the dragon this time, mother, I am sure. For, if Mrs. Ward will do what she hinted at, the dragon will have two women after him instead of one. We will make it lively for him."

So Barbara walked over to the Wards', and, going right up to her room, put on her kitchen dress (her armor, she called it), came down, and at the kitchen door met Mrs. Ward.

"I have come to stay," she said, with a smile.

Mrs. Ward made a step towards her and Barbara thought at first the woman was going to kiss her. They both changed color, and then Barbara gravely said:

"I hope we may be able to do something together, as you suggested."

"I am ready to do something." Mrs. Ward spoke earnestly. "We cannot reform everything at once, of course."

"Ourselves, for example," said Barbara, quickly.

"To be sure," Mrs. Ward replied. Then she added, with a show of emotion that had affected Barbara the day before: "I cannot tell you what a great relief it is to me to have you here. It means more to me than I can tell you just now."

"I am glad of it," Barbara answered, simply, and at once began the day's work.

The next day was Saturday. In the afternoon, as Barbara was finishing the dinner dishes, Mrs. Ward came in.

"Will you go to church with me tomorrow?" she asked, abruptly.

Barbara started, and then, recovering quickly, said: "Yes, if you really want me to."

"In the morning; we can arrange to get dinner when we return."

"What will this mean to you?" Barbara asked, after awhile.

"I don't know."

"Mr. Ward is willing?"

"Yes, I have talked it all over with him, and he is willing."

"I don't want to cause you needless embarrassment." Barbara began in a low voice.

"But it may not cause any embarrassment. We will try it, anyway."

"Do any other women in Crawford bring their servants to church with them?"

"Dr. Vane's wife always does. They are among the old families here. Very wealthy and—"

"I know Dr. Vane. He and father went to school together in Fairview."

"Is that so? Then I will introduce you to them to-morrow."

Barbara could not avoid a smile at the thought. Nevertheless, she anticipated the event of going to church with Mrs. Ward with a degree of interest that she had not felt in her work as a servant since those eventful four weeks in her life had begun. A new factor had come into the problem. The woman of the house was going to cooperate with her. How far the cooperation was going to be carried, she could not foresee. Mrs. Ward's manner was both reassuring and at the same time uncertain, and Barbara could not tell how far she might go if matters became serious for her socially.

"WILL YOU GO TO CHURCH WITH ME?"

When Sunday morning came, Barbara joined the family at church time and they all started together. The church bells of Crawford were ringing, and in Barbara's heart there was a mingling of the peace of God with tumult, the peace that goes with the consciousness of human conflict over selfish human passion.

CHAPTER III.

SERVICE IS ROYAL.

The Ward pew in the Marble Square church was about half way down the aisle and in the body of the house. As Barbara walked down the aisle she was conscious of a feeling of excitement hardly warranted by the event. As she passed into the pew first, leading Carl after her, as the arrangement of seating had been planned by Mrs. Ward, she noticed Mrs. Ward's face. It was very grave, and there was again present in it that uncertain element which had set Barbara to guessing once or twice how far her mistress would venture to cooperate with her in the matter of solving the questions belonging to housekeeping.

But Barbara was a young woman ith a good reserve of common sense, and she at once dismissed all foolish speculations and resolutely gave her thoughts to the service of the hour. She was naturally and healthily religious and was prepared to enter into the worship with no other thought except her need of communion and devotion and reception of truth.

When the minister came out of his study room into the pulpit Barbara noticed a look of surprise on several faces near her. She heard the lady in the pew next to her say in a whisper to another: "Where is Dr. Law today?"

"He is in Carlton. This must be Morton, their new minister."

"He looks very young. Do you suppose he can preach any?"

Barbara did not hear the answer, but she had not been able to avoid making a comment to herself on the youthful appearance of the minister. But when he began the service by giving out the first hymn the impression of extreme youthfulness disappeared. He had a good voice and a quiet, modest, reverent manner that Barbara liked. His prayer helped her. And when he began to preach there was a simplicity and earnestness about his delivery that was very attractive. He did not try to say too much. The sermon was written, but the reader had evidently tried to avoid being so closely confined to the pages as to lose a certain necessary sympathy with his hearers which the use of the eye alone can secure.

OUR SAMOAN ISLANDS.

Commander Tilley Reports That Tutuila and the Nanua Group Have 6,000 People.

In accordance with instructions from the navy department, Commander Benjamin F. Tilly, the naval commandant at the United States naval station at Tutuila, Samoa, has forwarded to Washington a report upon the population of those islands of the Samoan group under the jurisdiction of the United States. From the most reliable authority in the islands he has ascertained that the population of Tutuila totals 4,000, and of the Nanua group 2,000, including adults and children. In addition to the native population there are on the islands approximately 100 whites.

COMMANDER TILLEY.
(Naval Governor of Our Possessions in the Samoan Group.)

Since his last report to the department Commander Tilley has visited the islands of the Nanua group aboard his station ship, the Abarenda, and has found everything in a most satisfactory condition. The natives of these islands, he says, exhibit a much more kindly feeling than ever before. They have voted a tax for the payment of their officials and for other expenses of the government.

THEODORE J. SHAFFER.

Newly Elected President of Steel Workers' Association Is Preacher as Well as Roller.

Theodore J. Shaffer, who has just been reelected president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, is one of the most earnest and at the same time most cultured and broad-minded labor leaders in the world. He is "modern" in every respect. A college graduate, a doctor of divinity, one of the most eloquent pulpit orators in the east, and one of the most expert iron and steel rollers in the whole Pittsburgh region, it is not surprising that Mr. Shaffer is distinguished among his fellow workmen. Some years ago he left the Monongahela mills to study theology, succeeded in the effort, and became pastor of the First Methodist Episcopal church at Brownville. He gave up the pulpit, however, and returned to his work as roller because of that occupation's congeniality. At the same time Mr. Shaffer was a notable success in the ministry. He is a native of Pittsburgh, is 45 years old, and was first elected president of the Amalgamated association at the Cincinnati convention.

Unique Memorial to a Pig.

No stranger monument ever existed than that which was erected at the Hotel de Ville by the inhabitants of Luneberg, in Hanover, in honor of a pig. This, which took the form of a kind of mausoleum, contained a large glass case in which was hermetically inclosed a fine ham cut from the animal, whose memory was to be handed down to posterity. Above was a handsome slab of black marble, on which, engraved in letters of gold, was the following inscription in Latin: "Passers-by contemplate here the mortal remains of the pig which acquired for itself imperishable glory by the discovery of the salt springs of Luneburg."

Bullets Cause Acute Pain.

Army surgeons declare that the expression on the faces of soldiers killed in battle reveals the causes of death. Those who have perished from sword wounds have a look of repose, while there is an expression of pain on the faces of those slain by bullets.

Children as Truck Farmers.

A home-gardening association has been formed in Cleveland. Last spring 50,000 penny packages of seeds were distributed among children, with directions how to plant them. Seventy-five per cent. of these efforts were rewarded with successful growths.

I wish to tell how soon a change was noted in my case from the use of Ripans Tabules. From the first Tabule I felt different, and by the time three dozen were taken the old languid feeling had passed away. My appetite, which had failed me, regained its normal state. The Tabules were never too marked in their action upon my bowels. At first I took one Tabule in the morning, one at noon and one at night, after meals, and before going to bed. I now sleep all night, or from six to eight hours sound, solid sleep, and am taking but one Tabule a day, and that one before going to bed. I scarcely believed I had a serious heart trouble, although through my many spells of sickness the doctors seemed to attach some importance to that organ. My impressions now are that the pains I felt around the heart region were caused by indigestion. I have had no recurrence of pain since taking Ripans Tabules.

CHILDREN WHO TEASE.

They Develop Into Nagging Men and Women.

The other day Margery, Bessie and Polly were playing together. Margery was a quiet child, a little younger than the others, but Bessie and Polly were brimming over with mischief. After awhile, finding the game dull, Bessie edged over to Polly and began to whisper in her ear. Both children giggled, and Margery looked uncomfortable. The giggling and the whispering continued until finally little Margery left her toys and came over to see if she couldn't join in the joke. Polly and Bessie danced a little distance off in a tantalizing manner. "We've got a secret!" they chanted. "Don't you wish you knew?" They kept this up until Margery lost her temper and flew into a fit of childish rage, which they seemed to think great fun.

Do you know what becomes of children who tease? They don't drop that characteristic with their school days, but they carry it on through life, to the despair of those who are forced to live with them. The boy who delights in pulling his sister's pigtail, in putting grasshoppers down her neck and in indulging in like antics turns out a dreaded practical joker or, worse still, a nagging husband.

"PIGGY! PIGGY!"

The girl who delights in stirring up her schoolmates takes the same delight in after life when she plays with men and breaks their hearts. If fate has been kind to the girl tease and she marries a good man, she does not remain satisfied, but torments him in every possible way. She nags him on this subject, she stirs him on that, and she is never satisfied unless she is flirting with some other man and making him jealous. As a rule, she is only cured too late, when she finds that she has lost his love and that her home is broken up.

It's a pity we don't oftener foresee where the faults of our children will lead them.

AN ODD ROOM.

Painted Mottoes Used With Effect as Mural Decorations.

Here is a decidedly original scheme for a bedroom decoration. The predominating color is green. The paneling is in stained green wood, and there is a wide frieze rendered in colored plaster of two shades of green and salmon pink graduated on white. The antique fireplace has a hood of bright copper. The washstand is unique. It is built into the wall, and the upper half is hidden by curtains of green linen appliqued in a blue peacock design. The fittings are of copper. Overhead there is a motto painted in old English lettering on the cream woodwork, "Basins and Ewers to Lave Her Dainty Hands." Other mottoes are painted at intervals around the room, "Sleep Doubtless and Secure," "Let's Shut Our Gates and Sleep," and over the dressing table, "If This Be Vanity, Who'd Be Wise?" The bed is a four poster of cream wood, and it is sunk into the wall. Curtains of green linen can be drawn across this recess at will.

On each side of the fireplace there are two square column effects. The left is transformed into a grandfather's clock, and the right has two cupboards, one square and the other long. There are three recesses fitted with shelves for books. The furniture of this delightful room is of cream wood, upholstered with green linen cushions. The windows are composed of many tiny panes of glass divided by a framework of green wood. All the metal work is copper. R. DE LA BAUME.

The Decorative Notions of a Great Singer.

Mme. Christine Nilsson has discovered a novel use for old receipted bills and sheets of music. Both of these are made to serve the purpose of wall papers. A survey of the walls of her dining room, on which are displayed the receipted bills of hotels and shops all over the world, soon convinces the beholder that though great singers are very highly paid they are obliged to live at a most extravagant rate.

Mme. Nilsson's bedroom is papered with the music of the songs and parts which she has sung during the course of her career.

Proceedings of the Union County Board of Chosen Freeholders.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, June 6, 1901, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present. 18

Directly after roll-call Freeholder Woodruff was excused from further attendance at the meeting.

Communications, Petitions, Etc.

From A. A. Constantine, of West Summit, calling attention to the county road near West Summit postoffice, "what is known as the race has washed out and undermined the bank next the road side, and some time ago an old fence and some trees had fallen one side, these, together with the brush had recently been removed and a new fence is being erected, several posts of which were within twelve feet of the centre of the traveled portion of said road, the dirt falling in the race from the road side when removed, is piled on the opposite side of race, thus widening the pond at the ultimate expense of danger of the said road."

Prompt interference against this encroachment was considered necessary.

On motion of Freeholder King, received and referred to the County Road Committee.

From A. A. & E Constantine, of West Summit, N. J., protesting against any encroachments already made or being made, or that might be made in the future on the county road near West Summit station, by what is known as the mill-pond or race or the owner or owners thereof.

The Board was also notified that for any loss, damage, etc, they or their property might sustain on account of failure to remove and prevent said encroachments, this Board and its successors in office would be held responsible.

On motion of Freeholder King, received and referred to County Road Committee.

From John L. Meeker, executor of estate of Isaac Meeker, protesting against the encroachments now being made (if his information was correct), by the owner of the mill race on the side of Springfield avenue opposite his place, thus injuring the road, and so damaging his property, etc.

On motion of Freeholder King, received and referred to County Road Committee.

"Resolved, That the road petitioned for by the citizens of the city of Rahway, and known as Randolph avenue, beginning at Middlesex county line, and extending westerly 2 330 39 100 feet to the intersection of the road leading from Rahway to Woodbridge, is of sufficient general importance to warrant the expenditure of the county and state moneys necessary for the improvement thereof, that the expense thereof will not be an unnecessary public burden, and be it further

"Resolved, That the work on said road be commenced during the year 1901."

Freeholder King asked that the petition for said road be read.

A petition was then presented and read signed by George S. Bacher, owner of 1,175 feet, and A Edward Woodruff, owner of 933 feet of land fronting on Randolph avenue, being more than two-thirds of said section of Randolph avenue, beginning at Hart street and extending westerly 2 330 39 feet to its intersection with the road leading from Rahway to Woodbridge, asking that the said section of Randolph avenue be improved by the construction of a road bed, when completed eight inches deep, all properly drained, graded, etc.

The following petition was also presented and read:

To the Honorable Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—We, the undersigned commissioners of the State Reformatory most respectfully petition you to grant the prayer of your petitioners, believing that the best interests of all, including the State would be advanced by the improvement asked for.

His Aim in Life.

People bother little boys so! All the tourists to his island home used to ask this one: "What are you going to be, boy? what are you going to be?" and the boy impatiently replied at every interruption of his important undertakings: "I'm going to be a sailor and climb the masts."

Last summer he took an ocean voyage and was very seasick, and the third day his father asked: "What are you going to be, boy? what are you going to be?"

"I am not going to be a sailor and climb the masts," he replied. "I am going to be a soldier and shoot cannon."

A big uncle took the boy to see a famous cyclorama, where the smoke and carnage and realistic dead bodies in the foreground shattered another of his ambitions. To the teasing question: "What are you going to be, boy? what are you going to be?" came the answer, in a burst of confidence:

"I am not going to be a sailor and climb the masts. I am not going to be a soldier and shoot cannon. I am going to be a bachelor and marry mamma!"—Youth's Companion.

Like a Circus.

Mr. Bingo, the junior member of the firm, had a peculiarly irritating sneeze. It began with an elaborate and terrifying series of facial convulsions, and ended with a most lame and impotent paroxysm that always disappointed the expectant observer.

"Your sheeze," said Mr. Gringo, the senior partner, after watching him through one of his sternutations, "is a regular circus."

"A circus?" said Mr. Bingo.

"Yes, sir," was the rejoinder. "The performance never comes up to the advance notices."—Youth's Companion.

THE NEW ICE.

Some people still retain the habits and customs of their grandfathers. They look at things in the same light. Some are still using impure ice simply because it's the old kind.

Are you one of them?

Don't you know that natural ice is a "back number," that its place has been taken by a better and purer ice? Haven't you heard of the Hygeia Ice? Made from filtered water, taken from under the ground 165 feet Can it be anything else but pure?

Try it. It costs no more than the impure ice.

SPORTING.

ON THE DIAMCND.

The Aeolians and the Garwoods, two teams from the organ town, played a game of base ball on the latter's grounds Saturday afternoon. The Garwoods won by a score of 16 to 7. Several home runs were made during the progress of the game, one of which was secured by William Dodd, of this city, in the ninth inning with three men on base.

OPENING OF THE INN.

Many Plainfielders Attended Formal Function at Hotel on the Mountain.

The formal opening of the Mountain Park Inn took place Saturday evening under the most favorable auspices. Mrs G M. Babcock and Miss Edith H. Mather, under whose management the inn is being conducted this season, made every provision for a successful opening and they were well paid for their efforts.

Over one hundred people from this city, Summit, Westfield, Bound Brook and other nearby places, were present and thoroughly enjoyed the dancing. Music was furnished by Charles Suhr's orchestra. After a few selections, the dancing began and was kept up until midnight. A feature was the vocal and instrumental selections by Mr. Blake, of the orchestra.

While the people in Plainfield were suffering with the heat, those at the inn enjoyed a cool atmosphere and they scarcely knew that it was warm. During the evening refreshments were served by the management and all departed at midnight well pleased with the evening's entertainment.

MR. NEWELL TO LEAVE.

Will Give Up Pastorate Of Hope Chapel To Go To Brooklyn In September.

At the evening service in Hope Chapel yesterday, Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who has been pastor there for the past eight years, announced that he had received and accepted a call to a Brooklyn mission, of which Rev. Charles Cuthbert Hall was formerly pastor. He will leave Plainfield the first of September.

It was with great regret that Mr. Newell's congregation heard of his resolve and his absence from their midst will be greatly felt. During his pastorate at the chapel, Mr. Newell has become endeared to every member, young or old, and it is with more than a mild protest from one and all that he leaves. He, however, feels that he is in duty bound to accept the call.

OIL STOVE IN TROUBLE.

Caused Blaze At Home Of Adam Angerbauer, Of Manning Avenue.

The explosion of a oil stove was responsible for a slight blaze at the home of Adam Angerbauer on Manning avenue this morning. But for the great presence of mind shown by a neighbor, disastrous consequences might have followed.

The stove was discovered enveloped in flames by Mrs. Augerbauer, who immediately alarmed the neighbors. Mrs. Edward Ryan, a next door neighbor, grabbed a garden rake and hauled the burning stove out to the yard. Warren Engine Company and the West End Hose Company responded to an alarm sent in, but their services were not required.

Miss Daly Has Resigned.

Miss Kathryn Daly, who for the past seven years has held the position of head milliner at the store formerly kept by Edward White and now conducted by Crosby & Hill, resigned her position Saturday evening. She will take a month's vacation, after which she will accept a similar position in this city. Miss Daly has always been very popular and her many friends will wish her success wherever she goes.

AFTER THE DOGS.

Borough Dog Catcher Appointed And Several Canines Were Gathered In.

Constant urgent requests prompted Mayor N. B. Smalley to appoint a borough dog catcher Saturday. Thomas Martin was selected and entered on his duties at once. By nightfall he had caught two stray animals and before 8 o'clock this morning he added three more to his collection. A temporary dog pound has been located on Somerset street. The place was kept a secret, but somehow it became known and now two of the little doggies are roaming again.

"Mayor, thars a fierce yellaw dorg over thar on G orge street, that I can't cotch" said the new dog catcher to the chief executive this morning. His honor deputized Chief Marshal Campbell to ferret out and dispatch the animal, which is said to be dangerous and now there is one less dog in the borough.

ONE CHANGED PLEA.

Another Striker Wanted to But Was Referred to His Counsel Before Judge Would Accept.

In all probability, but one lone striker out of the quartette arrested two weeks ago, will appear for trial Wednesday morning. John Miles, who has already been tried and found guilty, will receive sentence Saturday.

James McConnell, another of the defendants, appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning and changed his plea of not guilty to nonvult. As he has a position waiting for him in New York, his case was permanently disposed of with a suspended sentence. Lewis Hall also asked to be allowed to change his plea but the court instructed him to confer with his counsel before the privilege was granted. This leaves but one more striker to be heard from, Charles Greenhals.

DEATH OF MRS. SHEPPARD.

Well Known Resident of New Market Passed Away This Morning.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

New Market, July 1—Mrs. Sarah Sheppard, of this place, died this morning at 3 o'clock at her home. The cause of her death was stomach trouble. She leaves a husband, Henry Sheppard, three daughters, Ann Loretta Dabb, Carrie Piddington, Bertha Voorhees and a son, Luscunb Sheppard.

Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard were married at Neshanic in 1851, and six years ago they moved to New Market from Elizabeth. The fiftieth anniversary of their wedding was celebrated last month.

The funeral will be held at the First Baptist church Wednesday afternoon. Rev. Frank Fletcher will officiate. The interment will be at Hillside Cemetery, Samptown.

FIRST VICTIM OF THE HEAT.

Mrs. Joseph Thys, of Terrill Road, Overcome in the Yard.

Mrs. Joseph Thys, of Terrell road, the first victim of heat prostration, is now at the hospital. Mrs. Thys was stricken Saturday while attending to her work at home. She was about the yard and started for the house when she fell in a fainting spell. She was found soon afterward by her husband and carried to the house.

Dr. Westcott was summoned at once and he worked heroically to bring the woman back to consciousness. He was partially successful and yesterday Mrs. Thys was much better. Toward night she was taken worse and was at once moved to the hospital. During the night her life was despaired of, but today she seems to be out of danger.

HIS LIFE-WORK DONE

Herbert Spencer, Greatest Philosopher of Our Generation.

Has Been Poorly Paid for His Unrivaled Contributions to the World's Best Thought—His Deep Love of Truth.

Herbert Spencer, whose name will live in the world of thought as that of one of the nineteenth century's greatest thinkers, has recently passed his eighty-first birthday. After a lifetime of self-sacrifice and privations, the great philosopher finds himself at the threshold of the grave almost as poor in worldly possessions as when he started the career that has brought him so much fame, but so little pecuniary recognition. There is something almost pathetic in the life-work of a man like Herbert Spencer. The son of a schoolmaster, Mr. Spencer was educated very largely at home by his father, though he also went to a school at Bath, England, the headmaster of which was his uncle. From 1837 to 1846 he plied the profession of a civil engineer, and for five years later acted as subeditor of the London Economist before he turned to the work with which his name will always be identified.

It is as a popular philosopher that Herbert Spencer seems to hold his reputation, and yet one must read the account of his self-sacrifice and privation before one can realize the tremendous battle which the best known philosopher of this century found any readers at all. "Social Statics," certainly a rather unhandy book, took 14 years to sell, although the edition ran only to 750 copies. The "Principles of Psychology," with a first edition of 750 copies, did not sell out for 12 years, and at the end of 15 years the author lost no less than $6,000 through his publications. The strongest man, however, is the man who can wait, and Herbert Spencer waited. The scientific method of studying human life began to find willing pupils, not only among scientists, but also among young students of philosophy at the universities and workingmen, who gave up their evenings to the study of technical or social sciences. Few books of philosophy have enjoyed so wide a popularity or sale as the "Data of Ethics," where flowing and persuasive argument delight and enchant the reader.

Spencer's life, says the Detroit Free Press, has been in some measure a contradiction of the theory of heredity. Born and bred in an atmosphere of Methodism and democratic politics, he has been the arch-apostle of individualism, and is going down to the grave an agnostic. But the spirit of the pure home life of his early days has remained with him. His sense of justice, his love of truth, are as keen as his desire to know.

His great life work, "A System of Synthetic Philosophy," is perhaps the greatest scientific literary undertaking ever accomplished by a single man. Its ten volumes have occupied Mr. Spencer's life for practically 40 years.

Ill health joined hands with poverty in fighting against the progress of the tremendous work Mr. Spencer had taken upon himself, and breakdown followed breakdown. But at last he was able to write "Finis" to volume ten, and to record his "satisfaction in the consciousness that losses, discouragements and shattered health have not prevented me from fulfilling the purpose of my life."

Black Cat Brings Ill Luck.

The evil influence of a black cat has brought to ashes the fine country residence of George Walradt, near Columbus, Neb. The animal was a stray cat which the family had adopted for luck and had been fed and groomed until its coat shone like velvet. After the family had left the supper table the impatient animal sprang upon the table, and in reaching for a juicy morsel upset the kerosene lamp. Hard work on the part of the family and the neighbors resulted in saving part of the household goods. The building was burned to the ground with a loss of $5,000. The black mischief maker has not been seen since.

Killed by an Egg Lunch.

Four hard-boiled eggs caused the death of William G. Dowling, of St. Louis. He ate them at a railroad lunch counter in Delta, Mo., and they caused a fatal attack of indigestion.

Prayed from a Full Heart.

A Cincinnati minister recently surprised his hearers by audibly praying for those of his congregation who were too proud to kneel and too lazy to stand.

AIR BRAKES AND WHISTLES.

Big Closed Cars on Plainfield-Elizabeth Line Are Equipped With Them.

The large closed cars on the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Jersey Railway have all been equipped with patent compressed air brakes and whistles similar to those used on the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company's cars for the past year. With the adoption of the new brake, the disagreeable sudden stops, caused by the electric brake, will be obviated, much to the relief of passengers. The cars were used on the road for the first time yesterday and gave entire satisfaction.

Robbed While Battling With Waves

Thomas Muir and George Apgar, two popular young men of this city, went to New Market yesterday to bathe in the pond. As a result Mr. Muir is minus $8.79 which he alleges was stolen from his clothing while he was battling with the waves. Mr. Apgar also lost some silver.

COMMON COUNCIL HELD SHORT SESSION

Heat Was Almost Unbearable In Council Chamber Last Night.

DR. W. H. MURRAY RESIGNED.

APPROPRIATION ASKED TO CONTINUE BAND CONCERTS.

Dr. T. S. Davis Appointed To Fill Vacancy In Board Of Health Caused By Resignation Of Dr. Murray—Regular Policemen Appointed.

One of the shortest regular sessions of the Common Council on record was held last evening, and this was chiefly due to the intense heat which was almost unbearable in the Council Chamber. All the members, except Messrs. Clifton and Cortell were present and business was quickly dispatched.

Among the surprises of the evening was the resignation of Dr. W. H. Murray who, on account of other business, finds it impossible to continue as a member of the Board of Health. The resignation was accepted and Mayor Jenkins appointed Dr. T. S. Davis to fill the vacancy. The Mayor also appointed as regular policemen, Herbert L. Overbaugh, Charles Gamo and Charles Flynn, each having completed their probationary service of five months. Frank McCabe was appointed a call man in the fire department in place of Walter Harrison, who resigned recently. All of the appointments were confirmed by the Council.

In a communication Benjamin LaVere asked the Council for an appropriation to continue a series of band concerts during the summer season. He asked for $200 if the concerts are to be given in the business section of the city, and $350 if they are given in the City Park or around Crescent avenue. Mr. LaVere said that if the appropriation is not made he will feel obliged to give up the concerts. The communication was referred to the finance committee.

Resident in the vicinity of Rahway road and Prospect avenue asked the Council for two fire hydrants for the proper protection of property in that part of the city. The matter will take the usual course. An electric light was ordered placed on Park terrace, between Belvidere and Berkely avenues, and on motion of Mr. vanHerwerden, L. Moraller & Son, was given the contract to keep the city clock in repair for one year for the consideration of $30. City Judge Runyon reported the collection from fines of $171 during the past month, and Building Inspector Doane reported the granting of seven building permits during the same period. The reports of the city treasurer and collector were received and filed.

Mr. vanHerwerden offered a resolution which provides for an appropriation of $5,000 on account of sewer improvements, the same to be secured by notes. Another resolution by the same member provided for the borrowing of $2,000 on account of the general fund and $2,000 on account of the fire fund in anticipation of the collection of taxes.

Mr. Tolles introduced an ordinance providing for the repair and macadamizing of West Eighth street between Grant and Monroe avenues, after the property owners deposit with the city treasurer the sum of $706.44, their share toward the work. The city's share will be about $200. The ordinance was read twice and ordered advertised.

After Mr. Tolles moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, July 8, the body adjourned.

Installation and Smoker.

The officers of Local Union, No. 57, of the Brotherhood of Painters, Decorators and Paperhangers of America, will be installed this evening. After the installation there will be a smoker and refreshments will be served. All members are urged to attend.

TURNED OFF THE WATER.

INSPECTORS AT WORK FOR LOCAL WATER COMPANY.

Eighteen Customers Detected Sprinkling Streets Within the Prohibited Hours.

The local water company has commenced its crusade against those who are violating the company's rules in regard to using water for sprinkling purposes in otoer than between 6 and 9 o'clock in the morning and between 4 and 7 o'clock in the evening, which is allowed.

The company put four special inspectors at work yesterday and as a result eighteen customers were detected sprinkling the streets in front of their homes within the prohibited hours. In each case the water supply for the premises was promptly turned off. This morning four more inspectors were put to work. The inspectors are covering both the city and borough. It is the intention of the company to check the use of water for sprinkling purposes within the hours named, if possible.

NO RELIEF IN SIGHT; HOT WAVE CONTINUES.

Only One Death Has Been Reported, Mrs. Vosburg, of Scotch Plains.

HOTTEST JULY SINCE 1892.

TEMPERATURE AT 1 O'CLOCK REACHED 102 DEGREES.

Prospects of a Shower are Slight—Almost Impossible to Sleep Last Night—Two Cases of Prostration Reported.

The present intense heat wave is no respecter of persons and among the places in this city where it is getting in its fine work is at the hospital. The patients, as well as the nurses, naturally feel the high temperature exceedingly. This morning the supply of ice gave out, and persistent, but vain efforts were made to get a fresh supply. This is an absolute necessity at the hospital, especially at this time of the year, and to be out of ice now makes it somewhat dangerous. A supply has been promised early this afternoon and the present distress will be relieved.

Every effort is being made to keep the patients as cool and comfortable as possible under the circumstances, yet the nurses find this a most difficult task. Aside from the one case of heat prostration, that of Mrs. Joseph Thys, of Fanwood, no others have been received at the hospital, although it is variously reported that there are a great many people who are on the verge of collapse. One physician said last evening that if the present degree of heat continued a few days longer, it would result in several deaths. Only one death has been reported. The single case is that of Mrs. Emma Vosburg, of Scotch Plains. It was next to impossible to sleep last night and many Plainfielders remained out of doors, trying to find comfortable places either on their porches or under shade trees. Many people made no effort to sleep, but resorted to all sorts of means to keep cool. The thirsty portion of the populace was to be found at the various drug stores and saloons and during the evening there was a steady stream of wilted humanity trying vainly to keep cool. The more they drank the more they perspired and a more dejected lot of people it would be hard to find. All rules of etiquette have been laid aside and the majority of the people are wearing no more than the law commands. In a number of places about the business section of the city are to be found electric fans. At each place one can find a crowd of people standing in front of these wind producers taking in the welcome draughts of air.

The absence of any semblance of a shower is most discouraging to all, and the weather man can offer no relief for the present. June, 1901, made its record. The first part of the month was cool and comfortable and the latter part boiling. The highest temperature for the month was on the last day of the month when the mercury reached 97 degrees, and the lowest was on the 10th, when the temperature dropped to 42. There were ten days of actually clear weather, while seventeen days were partly cloudy and only three days were totally cloudy. However, the temperature as a whole was below the average.

The precipitation was the least of any on record, it being only 1.16 inches, and that being 2.51 inches below the average for the month. From present calculations July intends to make its record as shown yesterday and today. Only once before has July come up to the present record. That was from July 25 to 29, 1892, when the temperature ran from 100 to 105 degrees. As stated there is not the slightest relief in sight. The forecast for today reads: Fair and continued warm weather tonight and Wednesday.

At 7 o'clock this morning the mercury registered 90 degrees, pretty high for an early hour. At 8 o'clock it stood 91.3 degrees, and at 9 o'clock it took a decided jump to 96.4 degrees. Humanity struggled on, but there was no relief. At 10 o'clock the mercury took another leap and reached 99.5 degrees. Still the thermometer, not satisfied, kept on climbing and at 11 o'clock an 100 degrees was recorded, and at 12 o'clock people were fairly suffering with a temperature which had soared up to 101 degrees. What the afternoon may bring forth is speculation, but every one is hoping and praying that for once, at least, the

SEVENTEEN ARRESTS.

Marshals Find Many Boys Bathing In Various Streams Contrary To Borough Ordinance.

Chief Marshal Campbell, assisted by Marshal Winn and Special Marshal Potter, arrested seventeen young men and boys who were bathing in various streams in violation of the borough ordinance. The culprits were brought before Recorder Dond, but were all subsequently released after a severe reprimand, with the exception of two of the older ones in the party, who were fined $2 each for using vulgar language. The majority of the boys were caught bathing in Hyde's pond, although a few were arrested along the brook. It is the intention of the North Plainfield Marshals to stop this practice, which has been the source of much annoyance to the residents in the vicinity.

HOP LEE COMPLAINANT.

Claimed That Four Boys Annoyed Him by Throwing Decayed Vegetables and Stones.

Hop Lee, the West Front street laundryman, appeared in the city court this morning as complainant against Oliver Vatilla, William Roy, William Willis and Adolphus Davis, the latter three being colored boys, whom he accused of annoying him in various ways. As near as could be learned from his excited talk, the culprits threw decayed vegetables into his laundry, ruining a large quantity of linen, and also threw stones at him.

Hop Lee's English could not be understood by the court and as no one present could speak Chinese, the case was continued until tomorrow, in order to allow the complainant to procure an interpreter.

LEG BROKEN.

Valuable Horse, Belonging To J. W. Johnson, Was Killed To Put Him Out Of Agony.

J. W. Johnson, of LaGrande avenue, lost a valuable horse at his Woodbrook farm, near Metuchen, Sunday. The animal's name was "Young Stamboul" and it is said that Mr. Johnson had been offered $10,000 for him. The horse was kicked on a hind leg by another animal. On examination it was found that the leg was broken and as the horse was suffering awful agony the only thing to be done was to kill him. This was speedily done.

JUBILEE PRAYERS.

Four Hundred Observed At St. Joseph's R. C. Church Sunday

In recognition of the jubilee year over 400 parishoners of St. Joseph's visited their own church yesterday afternoon and subsequently marched in a body to St. Mary's where a visit was also made.

The faithful are commanded to pray for the intention of the Pope. By this is meant that the devout must pray for the happiness and peace of nations as well as individuals, the deliverance from famine and disease and the conversion of the pagan. These jubilees are commemorated every twenty-five years.

Many of the members of St. Joseph's church have already fulfilled their duty and for those who have not the privilege of visiting their own church and St. Mary's last Sunday and next Sunday was given. Rev. Father Miller said the prayers at his own as well as St. Mary's church.

James Leonard Wanted to Fight.

An over indulgence in beer last evening caused James Leonard to feel pugilistic and he offered to thrash anybody who cared to have him do so. Patrolman Saffron was one of those challenged and promptly arrested the scrappy man. In the city court this morning he was fined $3 or ten days. Up to noon he had not secured the money and he will have to serve the time.

Lawerence L. Tweedy, of Crescent avenue, and David S. Pond, of Watchung avenue, two members of the class of 1901 of the Plainfield High School, have been notified that they successfully passed the entrance examination for Princeton College which they recently underwent in New York. They will go to college in the fall.

OFFICIALLY DECLARED THE STRIKE ENDED.

Machinists Can Now Return to Work Without Consulting Union.

WAS DECIDED LAST NIGHT.

FULL FORCE OF MEN AT POTTER'S AND POND'S.

Potter's and Aluminum Are the Only Shops That Will Work on Fifty-Four Hour a Week Basis.

The great machinists strike, so far as Plainfield is concerned, terminated last evening, when the local branch of the International Association of Machinists officially declared the strike ended. The machinist can now return to his work without consulting the union, whether the shop, where he is employed, has made any concessions or not.

It was the intention of the International Association to prolong the strike, owing to the fact that no terms had been secured at Pond's Tool Works, other than the old schedule. The men kept drifting back in ever increasing numbers and it was deemed best to allow them to return in a body. This morning the full force was in the Pond machine department, with the exception of thirty men, some of whom are away from the city, while others have procured other positions.

At the Potter Press Works, this morning practically every man was at work and matters there will shortly be running as smoothly as though nothing had happened. This plant and the Aluminum shop will be the only ones in the city where the employes will work on a fifty-four hour basis.

There was some dissatisfaction expressed among the machinists over the report barring out apprentices at the Scott Press Works. At the office this morning it was declared all apprentices were at work, with the exception of one, who refused to conform with the original agreement made when he first began serving his time. The apprentices, however, will have to make up all lost time.

Fined For Drunkenness.

Edmund Scott, of Arlington avenue and James Burk, of Somerset street, who were arrested Saturday on a charge of drunkenness, were given a hearing by Borough Recorder Dond and fined $3 each, which they promptly paid. The hearing of John Scott, of Somerset street, charged with the same offense was continued for one week.

Stole Carrier Pigeons.

F. O. Webster, of 74 Duer street, has recently lost two valuable young carrier pigeons from their loft at the foot of his yard. Mr. Webster has several more left and if the person who stole the two above mentioned, will come for the others when he is home, he will give them a warm reception.

At one time he was Judge of the county court and had also been president of the medical staff of the Somerset Hospital. For many years Dr. Wagoner was identified with the Masons, having taken thirty-two degrees in the order. BOROUGH BOARD OF HEALTH.

REGULAR MEETING WAS HELD LAST EVENING.

Present Condition Of Health Is Good—But Little Trouble With Local Milk Dealers.

The proceedings at the regular monthly meeting of the Borough Board of Health last evening divulged the fact that the present condition of the public health in North Plainfield is exceptionally good. On account of the excessively warm evening the meeting was adjourned as quickly as possible.

In all there are but five cases of contagious disease. None of those afflicted are in a serious condition. Three persons, who have had scarlet fever, will be released from quarantine in a week. It will be remembered that these cases were contracted through the agency of a canine. A case of of diphtheria will be released within ten days, and another of scarlet fever in about three weeks.

But little trouble has been experienced with the local milk dealers lately. In one instance it was found that the quality of milk did not come up to the required standard and as the board's policy is to warn, in the case of a first offence, where ignorance is alleged, no prosecution will follow. One or two persons, who have kept pigs on their premises, have been served with notice to discontinue the practice.

FINE PORTRAIT.

William H. Griffin, of This City, Engaged In Painting Likeness of First Democratic Governor.

William H. Griffin, the well known artist of this city, is engaged at present painting a portrait of the first Democratic Governor of New Jersey, Governor Bloomfield, who was in office in 1801, 1803 and 1812. When completed the portrait will be donated to the State by the governor's great grandnephew, Charles Bloomfield, a New York business man, who resides at Metuchen. It will be placed in the state gallery of former governors.

To Colonel Julian Scott, of this city, belongs the credit of making it possible to have the portrait painted. It had been Mr. Bloomfield's desire for a long time to make this contribution to the state, but it was impossible, as he had no original picture. Through the efforts of Mr. Scott, two old engraved medallions, bearing the governor's likeness, were found and proved to be just what were wanted. Mr. Griffin will complete the portrait in a short time.

Proved an Alibi.

Harry Huff, a hackman, appeared before City Judge Runyon this morning, charged by Patrolman Gamo with violating the hack ordinance. The hackman explained satisfactorily that he was not at work on the day mentioned in the complaint and he was dismissed by the court.

BOARD OF EDUCATION IN REGULAR SESSION.

Bids Received For Supplying Winter's Coal To Various Schools.

WERE ONLY THREE BIDDERS.

TAX COLLECTOR'S REPORT WAS READ AT THE MEETING.

Fence To Be Erected On Arlington Avenue Side Of Franklin and High School Buildings—Special Meeting July 15.

Beyond the receiving and accepting of bids for the coming winter's supply of coal, no business of importance was transacted at last evening's meeting of the Board of Education. All the members were present with the exception of Messrs. Lounsbury and Lovell.

There were only three bidders for supplying the 500 tons of coal advertised for, which were as follows: D. C. Ivins & Company, pea, $3.90, nut, $5.50 and egg, $5.50 per ton; Consumers' Coal Company, pea, $3.92, egg, $5.23, nut, $5.24; E. H. Holmes, pea, $3.99, egg, $5.19, nut, $5.29. The contracts were accordingly awarded as follows: D. C. Ivins & Company, pea coal; Consumers' Coal Company, nut coal; E. H. Holmes, egg coal. The quality of the coal furnished is to be designated by the Board.

The tax collector's report was read and showed the total amount of taxes received with interest was $891.30, which had been deposited to the credit of the Board. According to the report of the custodian of school moneys the receipts for the month had been $1,522.25, and the disbursements $6,376.73, leaving a total debit balance of $9,274.26. The superintendent of schools reported receiving $447 for tuition for the summer term, which had been deposited. The bond of W. F. Arnold, as custodian of school moneys, endorsed by the Fidelity and Deposit Company, of Maryland, for $44,000, was accepted.

Mr. Abbott reported that there was serious need of a substantial fence on the Arlington avenue side of the ground between the Franklin and High School buildings. It was decided to have one erected, but there was a difference of opinion as to whether it should be of iron or wood. To learn, if possible, which would be the cheaper in the end, the clerk was authorized to advertise for bids for both. The Board will hold a special meeting July 15, when the bids will be received and the award made.

On motion of Mr. Abbott, of the finance committee, it was decided to issue a note for $9,274.76 to pay off the custodian's debit balance. Beyond the payment of the usual number of bills, no other business came before the Board and the meeting was adjourned.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

In producing the standard comedies of the day, with his own big organization of the most efficient actors and actresses, F. F. Proctor has undoubtedly struck the keynote of success in theatricals of the future. Now that the F. F. Proctor Big Stock Company has passed beyond the experimental stage and developed into an assured success, the scope of great enterprise will be augmented immensely The present summer has demonstrated that New York demands strictly comedy stock companies, and the Proctor stock in its various sub-divisions fills this demand to the letter. The productions are staged superbly and with infinite care. Assured of an excellent comedy by unexcelled players, summer theatre-goers visit the Proctor theatres, knowing them to be quite the coolest houses in the great city. As to the comedies revived this week at the various Proctor playhouses in New York city: At Proctor's Twenty-third street, the humorous farce comedy, "Lend Me Your Wife," is being produced for the first time by section A of the Proctor Stock Company. Clement Scott's one act drama, "The Cape Mail," will precede "Lend Me Your Wife," and should prove a most excellent play. Matinees daily at 1:30, and evenings at 7:30 At Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, Broaday and Twenty-eighth street, Section C., revives the excruciating laugh-maker, "Turned Up," which first brought Nat Goodwin into fame. The curtain raiser will be the English comedietta, "Pink and White," and various variety features will make the performance continuous from 1 to 10:30 p m. Best seats at all times, 25 and 50 cents. At Proctor's East Fifty-eighth street theatre, Fifty-eighth St. and Third ave., the Section B produces Robert Hilliard's starring success, "Lost, Twenty-four Hours," which should duplicate its triumph a week ago at Mr. Proctor's Broadway house. The amusing playlet, "To Oblige Benson," will precede "Lost, Twenty-four Hours." Matinees are given daily at 2 p. m., and best seats are 25 and 15c. At Proctor's One Hundred and Twenty-fifth street theatre, Section E made its first appearance in Harlem in Gilletto's "All the Comforts of Home." Four full acts of laughter are promised. Matinees at 2 p. m. are given at 25 and 15 cent for the best seats, and the evening performances start at 7:30. Thursday, Fourth of July, all the Proctor houses will give special holiday performances throughout the day.

Ants, Cockroaches, Bed Bugs,

Mix, say, a 25c. box of "Rough on Rats" carefully with a pound or so of mashed boiled potatoes, or with a loaf of finely crumbled dampened bread, or two tin cups of fine powdered sugar, and place about their haunts, out of reach of children or pet animals. Even the hardier Black Cockroaches, Beetles, Wood or Water Bugs, in one or two applications will be completely annihilated. "Rough on Rats" is the only thing that will effectually and permanently annihilate Bed Bugs, and it stands unrivalled the world over for the prompt and effective extermination of Rats and Mice. 15 and 25 boxes at druggists.

FRANCE'S CHINESE EXPENSES.

Chamber of Deputies Votes Eighty Million Francs.

PARIS, July 2.—The chamber of deputies yesterday voted supplementary credits amounting to 80,000,000 francs to defray the expenses of France's Chinese expedition.

In the course of the discussion of this subject M. Sembat (Socialist) protested against the Chinese expedition and declared the war in China was due to missionaries and capitalists. He spoke of the brutality of the European troops in China and demanded that an inquiry into their conduct there be made.

M. Delcasse, minister of foreign affairs, repudiated the allegation that the French government had acted concerning China without consulting parliament and recalled in this connection the sessions in the chamber of deputies when the government had been called upon to act vigorously in the matter. He rendered homage to the French soldiers and said a dispatch would be found in the coming yellow book in which the Chinese themselves did justice to the French troops.

M. de Lanessan, minister of marine, also denied that atrocities had been committed by Frenchmen. He declared that inquiries already made had failed to show more than 20 or 30 isolated acts of brutality and said that account must be taken of the state of mind of the men who were doing the fighting.

M. Rene Viviani (Radical Socialist) moved an amendment calling upon the government to relinquish the protectorate of missionaries in the far east. This was rejected by a vote of 425 to 109. The credits were then voted by 474 to 71.

Land About Observatory Bought.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The navy department has purchased a considerable tract of land surrounding the Naval observatory here in order to protect from jar the delicate instruments which record the time of the country. It was deemed desirable not to have any highways within 1,000 feet of the clockroom, where the instruments are stationed, and a circle with a radius of 1,000 feet therefore was drawn entirely around the observatory. At the last session of congress $149,000 was appropriated to purchase the inclosed land, and this amount became available yesterday. The tracts purchased contain about 16 acres.

It May Have Been Blondin.

NASHUA, N. H., July 2.—The Nashua police are trying to trace a man answering the description of J. HEAT BROKE RECORD

Hottest July 1 Remembered In New York.

DEATHS AND PROSTRATIONS RESULT

The High Temperature General Throughout the Country East of the Rockies—No Relief In Sight.

NEW YORK, July 2.—July has begun with record breaking heat. Yesterday was the hottest July 1 recorded at the local weather bureau. The last day of June was the hottest for that date in 30 years, and it was hoped that the climax had been reached, but the mercury shot up with astonishing rapidity, and at 4 p. m. all previous hot days had been discounted. Hour for hour the temperature averaged up to noon 5 degrees above that of Sunday and 11 degrees higher than Saturday.

As an indication of the fatal effects of intense heat an unusually large number of little white hearses have passed over the Long Island City ferry in the last few days en route to the cemeteries. A policeman stationed at one of the ferry gates said that the funerals of most of the little victims of the heat came from the tenement districts on the east side of Manhattan.

In the telegraph bureau at police headquarters it was said that up to half past 2 o'clock yesterday there had been 70 calls for ambulances, 50 more than is usually sent daily through police sources. The 56 above the average represent "heat cases." Most of the calls for the ambulances do not go through police agencies. The calls for ambulances became so great that to meet the emergency patrol wagons were sent out to help the ambulances. The calls for ambulances increased after noon.

All July records for heat in Brooklyn were outdone, so far as the oldest inhabitant can remember. From midnight Sunday night to 9 o'clock last night 21 deaths and 36 prostrations had been reported.

The boroughs of Queens and Richmond suffered with this city and Brooklyn from heat as well as the whole of Long Island. In Long Island City thermometers registered over 100, and there was one death. At Huntington there was a suicide which resulted from the heat. The Long Island truck farmers fear the loss of their crops.

The hot wave is general throughout the entire country east of the Rocky mountains, except in the southern states, where the temperatures were not unseasonable.

Reports from the leading cities show that the killing heat is not only general, but that nowhere is there any immediate prospect of relief. From Boston to St. Paul, from Chicago to Louisville and Washington come the same stories of record breaking heat, deaths and prostrations.

Washington Suffering.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The hot weather continued here yesterday with unabated fierceness, the climax coming in the afternoon, when the local record for this early in the summer was broken, the weather bureau thermometer recording a temperature of 102 degrees. Fortunately there was not much humidity in the atmosphere. There were 20 cases of heat prostration reported, and one resulted fatally. The present hot wave started in the west June 20, and the weather bureau officials report that high temperatures are recorded in most sections east of the Rocky mountains and many places west of them. Rains, most of them moderate in amount, have fallen in many places.

The Heat In New Jersey.

NEWARK, N. J., July 2.—New Jersey sweltered yesterday under a burning sun which rushed the thermometers up to points between 95 and 104 in various parts of the state. Hackensack reached 102 in the shade on a standard sized thermometer, and the clinical thermometers of doctors confirmed the record, but Trenton went two points better on a similar thermometer. The state weather bureau, with headquarters at New Brunswick, where the agricultural experimental station is located, pronounced the last two days record breakers for all corresponding days.

Hottest Recorded at Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—Philadelphia and vicinity yesterday experienced the highest temperature ever recorded in this city, the government thermometer on the top of the postoffice building, 170 feet from the street, registering 102 degrees. The previous highest temperature recorded was on Sept. 1, 1881, when the weather bureau thermometer touched 101.5 degrees. All records regarding the number of deaths and prostrations due to the hot blast were broken. Every one of Philadelphia's many hospitals was taxed to its utmost capacity.

Heat Rages Abroad.

LONDON, July 2.—Special dispatches from the continent report further ravages by storms and prostrations due to heat. In Florence six persons were driven mad and committed suicide in consequence of sunstrokes. According to the Lisbon correspondent of The Daily Express, the death roll due to storms amounts to 22.

Paper Mill Manager Arraigned.

OGDENSBURG, N. Y., July 2.—Nelson R. Caswell, as treasurer and manager of the Aldrich Paper company at Natural Dam was arraigned here upon a warrant charging the unlawful depositing of sawdust and other material in Oswegatchie river contrary to the law for the sanitary protection of the public water supply of the city of Ogdensburg, including St. Lawrence State Hospital. Mr. Caswell pleaded not guilty, waived examination and was held under bonds to appear before the grand jury which convenes in September. This is the largest mill operating on the river and is made the first defendant. All mill owners found by special officers who are patrolling the river violating this law will also be prosecuted.

The Mohawk Successfully Raised.

CITY ISLAND, N. Y., July 2.—The wrecking steamers W. E. Chapman and Champion and the derricks of the Merritt & Chapman Derrick and Wrecking company succeeded in raising the Starin Transportation company's steamer Mohawk, which sank near Glen Island on Saturday. The Mohawk was towed to City Island, where an attempt will be made to stop the leak, after which the vessel will proceed to New York.

GREAT STEEL STRIKE

Amalgamated Association and American Company Disagree.

BOTH SIDES CLAIM CERTAIN MILLS

Consultations Held In Pittsburg Between High Officials and President Shaffer Believed to Indicate Early Settlement.

PITTSBURG, July 2.—Added interest was given the strike when it became known that two mills in dispute, which were the cause of disagreement between the Amalgamated association and the American Sheet Steel company, were claimed by both parties. These mills are the Old Meadows at Scottdale and the Saltsburg mill. The officials who refused to sign the union scale seem as much surprised at the claims of President Shaffer that the mills were union as the president seemed to be that they should take a view opposite from his.

The Sheet Steel officials appeared to have a trifle the better of the argument when word came from Scottdale that the men now working there refused to quit, scale or no scale, association or no association.

Speaking of conditions at Scottdale, John Farrell, secretary of the labor bureau of the Sheet Steel company, said: "The Amalgamated people have no claim to the Meadows and Saltsburg mills. The men, particularly in Scottdale, are working under personal agreements with us. Those agreements have been extended to Jan. 1, 1903. I am well satisfied that the workmen there do not desire any change. They left the Amalgamated association of their own volition. They came to us many times and plead to have the mills started up. They would agree to cut the Amalgamated for all time if we would but start the mills."

Yesterday all of the prominent officials were on hand, and several private consultations were held. The president and the former vice presidents of the districts were busily engaged all day, and indications are that President Shaffer himself expects an early adjustment of the complications.

A well known independent sheet manufacturer stated that indications pointed to a peaceful settlement of the trouble.

At the offices of the American Steel Hoop company it was stated that certain plants of the company were closed for needed repairs and the national hofiday. Others were at work as usual, but none of the officials would allow himself to be quoted on the present wage complication.

President Shaffer said last evening that he had nothing to say further than what has already been published. His determination to carry the interests of the Amalgamated association to a successful finish is unabated.

The Indian Reservation Decision.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Secretary Hitchcock has decided that there is no authority of law permitting a delay until Oct. 1 in the opening of the Wichita Indian reservation in Oklahoma as desired by certain cattle interests. The secretary's announcement followed a hearing which he had given to representatives of the lessees and of companies which had loaned money on reservation cattle owned by the lessees. The cattlemen have paid the money up to Oct. 1 and said an injustice would be done them if the reservation is opened at the date proposed. There was a very full and free discussion, but the secretary did not feel he had authority to grant the delay asked for. While he has announced no formal decision in the matter his views are to the effect stated, and preparation will be made for opening the lands to settlement next month.

Dock Fire In Boston.

BOSTON, July 2.—Only a fortunate combination of circumstances prevented a repetition of the Hoboken disaster at Charlestown yesterday, when the mammoth storehouse on pier 5 of the Hoosac tunnel docks was destroyed by fire. The fire spread with rapidity, and that it was confined to a single pier is little short of marvelous. The pier was used by the Warren Steamship line, and the Sachem lay in the dock when the fire started. She was warped to the opposite side of the slip, but a few minutes later was hauled into the stream. This move saved her. At one time it looked as if all the docks and shipping in the vicinity would be burned, but the firemen made a good stand. The fire is supposed to have started from an explosion among shellac. The navy yard was at one time in danger. The loss is $200,000.

Public Debt Statement.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The statement of the public debt just issued shows that at the close of the fiscal year, June 30, 1901, the debt, less cash in the treasury, amounted to $1,044,739,120, a decrease during June of $17,737,374. This decrease is accounted for in the main by an increase in the cash on hand. The debt is recapitulated as follows: Interest bearing debt, $987,141,040; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,415,620; debt bearing no interest, $383,015,584; total, $1,371,572,244. This amount, however, does not include $771,754,689 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding which are offset by an equal amount of cash on hand held for their redemption.

Change In White House Ushers.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—Harry Acheson, who has been an usher at the White House since General Garfield was president, will become a pension examiner next week. He will be succeeded on the White House staff by Charles J. Pusey of Maryland, the Pullman conductor who was in charge of the train on which the president and party recently made the trip to the Pacific coast.

Cordial Reception to the Hartford.

COPENHAGEN, July 2.—The Danish papers comment cordially on the visit here of the United States training ship Hartford. The American officers and crew have been invited to participate in a Fourth of July celebration at the famous Tivoli gardens. Commander J. M. Hawley of the Hartford officially visited the Danish authorities yesterday.

A Jump In Linseed Oil.

CLEVELAND, July 2.—Another sharp advance was announced in prices for linseed oil by the American Linseed company. The wholesale price is now 80 cents per gallon in single barrel lots, an increase of 15 cents per gallon since June 1. The jump in prices yesterday was 7 cents per gallon. The increase for the last month has been about 25 per cent.

THE COLUMBIA WON.

Old Cup Defender Outsailed the Constitution.

NEWPORT, R. I., July 2.—The Constitution was defeated by the Columbia yesterday by the small margin of 48 seconds in the first real race in which the new Herreshoff yacht has participated. Although the contest from start to finish was close and at times exciting, in the opinion of a majority of yachtsmen in Newport the Constitution lost through misfortune. However, the result of the day's contest is far from conclusive, and there is still much to be decided as to the relative merits of the two racers.

The mishap to the new boat came about an hour after the start. While the boats were on the second long tack to windward the clew of the jib of the new boat was carried away, and for some ten minutes she was without the use of that sail. This accident set the Constitution back practically a mile, but in spite of it she was able to get within two minutes of the Columbia at the turn and cut this lead down more than half on the run home. Some of this gain, however, was undoubtedly due to the fact that she brought up the better wind.

The Columbia did not escape without accident, too, for immediately after crossing the finish line in gibing over the big mainsail her main boom buckled, and she had to be towed to the city. It will be necessary to sling a new spar before the Columbia can race again, but it is expected it will be in place for a race tomorrow.

The event yesterday was the first of a series of special races arranged by the New York Yacht club for the purpose of bringing the two yachts together, and it was under the auspices of that organization.

THE MAINE NOT RAISED.

Contractors Who Took the Job Are Very Tardy.

HAVANA, July 2.—Although three months have expired since the government completed the contract to raise the hull of the battleship Maine from Havana harbor, no work to this end has yet been done, nor have the contractors, N. F. Chamberlin & Co., filed the necessary bond of $25,000. This work of raising the wreck was to have been completed July 1, but a provision was inserted in the contract to the effect that if there occurred unavoidable delay in the work the time for its completion would be extended to March 1, 1902.

Captain of the Port Lucien Young says that Chamberlin has sent him word that he is sick and asks for an extension of the contract. Captain Young is considering whether sickness comes under the head of unavoidable delay. It is believed here that the contractors cannot undertake this work according to their agreement—namely, to raise the wreck without remuneration and give the government 3 per cent of what is derived from the sale of the ship's metal, machinery, ammunition and souvenirs.

Destructive River Front Fire.

STILLWATER, Me., July 2.—Fire swept along the Stillwater bank of the Penobscot river yesterday afternoon, destroying three mills and numerous other buildings, including about 24 houses of mill operatives. It started in the fireroom of the Kimball & Adams lumber mill, and before checked had quickly gone for a mile, jumping from pile to pile of dry lumber. The Kimball & Adams mill, together with a dryhouse, a storehouse, four company houses and sheds containing 2,000,000 shingles; the George A. Lewis mill and machinery and dryhouse containing 100,000 shingles and the Sutton mill, with its machinery, were the chief structures burned. The Maine Central Railroad company lost four cars and 100,000 feet of lumber.

Persia Prohibits Grain Exports.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—The state department has received from Vice Consul General Tyler, at Teheran, a copy of a note from the Persian minister of foreign affairs reminding Mr. Tyler that an order of the Persian government issued last fall which prohibited the export of grain from Persia is still in force and requesting him to give strict instructions to Americans to abstain from exporting grain from that country. Persia, especially the southern portion, has suffered from drought and other crop damaging conditions, and this order, it is stated, was issued to preserve the entire crop harvested for home consumption.

Writ of Error In Barker Case.

TRENTON, July 2.—A writ of error in the case of Thomas G. Barker of Arlington, convicted of shooting the Rev. Dr. Keller and sentenced by Judge Blair to five years in the state prison, has been stated by the supreme court clerk. The writ was immediately returned to the prisoner's lawyers, who will now serve it upon Judge Blair. A writ of error is a writ of right in New Jersey and is stated by the court as of course regardless of the merits of the law points raised by counsel.

Newfoundland's Budget.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 2.—The budget presented by the minister of finance shows a surplus for the fiscal year ended June, 1899, of $78,000 and for the year ended June, 1900, of $258,000. The surplus for the year ended June, 1901, has not yet been calculated, the accounts remaining open for four months before final adjustment. The cost of the general election and other special unforeseen expenditures will reduce this surplus somewhat.

Clark Has Challenged Lipton.

LONDON, July 2.—A special dispatch from Glasgow says that Kenneth M Clark, owner of the Kariad, has sent a challenge to Sir Thomas Lipton for trial races between the Shamrock II and the Kariad, to be sailed over courses similar to the course for the America's cup and on the American measurement, in order to decide which yacht shall be sent as challenger to American waters.

Of the gold $510,000 was consigned to the Canadian Bank of Commerce. H. I. Miller, a well known cattleman of this city, is said to have brought back $100,000.

BITUMINOUS COAL TRUST.

Enormous Capitalization to Control the Trade East of the Mississippi.

CLEVELAND, July 2.—The Leader today says that before the 1st of September all of the big companies producing bituminous coal will have been gathered into one organization similar to the United States Steel corporation. The capitalization will be enormous, probably second only to that of the big steel trust.

As an auxiliary to this movement being carried on by the promoters of one of the constituent companies of the greater organization, a complete pool of all of the retail soft coal interests in Cleveland will be effected within the next ten days, for which preliminary steps have about been taken.

From what can be learned work upon the big coal trust has been under way for a greater length of time than any of the other industrial combinations.

J. P. Morgan, the advocate of coalition, first started in with his coal combinations three years ago, making the first movements along the line of controlling the products of the Ohio and West Virginia fields. At that time he obtained complete control of the mining property in the Hocking and Shawnee valleys. In order to give an outlet for this coal he purchased certain railroad property, and this started the combination mania along the line of railroad ownership which has gone to extraordinary lengths.

The proceedings in the present combination are similar to those displayed in the formation of the steel trust.

Along with this organization will go also the coal docks and fast loading plants that are now owned by the various coal companies which shall hereafter make a part of the big organization. This will include those which are located along Lake Erie and also on the upper lake ports.

The aim of all of this is to effect a complete monopoly of the bituminous coal production in the territory east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac. To the accomplishment of this end Mr. Morgan is said to have given himself without reserve and will take it up as soon as he returns from Europe.

READING STRIKE SETTLED.

Men to Return to Work at Once—The Union Not Recognized.

PHILADELPHIA, July 2.—President George F. Baer of the Philadelphia and Reading Railway company has given out the following signed statement:

"The Reading railway shop strike has been settled upon the following basis:

"The men to return to work at once just as they were before they went out.

"The men to be restored to the Philadelphia and Reading Relief association with like effect as though they had not left the employ of the company.

"The labor union not to be recognized. We will employ any one we please, and no distinction will be made between union and nonunion men.

"After the men have returned to work a committee of the shops representing all the workmen can be appointed by our employees. We will appoint a committee composed of superintendents and foremen of the shops to meet the workmen's committee and the whole subject of wages to be considered by this joint committee, with power to agree upon a new scale of wages which shall be fair and just both to the men and the company. These committees are to begin work as quickly as they are elected. In case after a reasonable effort the joint committee cannot agree I will personally after Sept. 1 meet with the joint committee and endeavor to adjust the differences.

"It is understood that if any new scale is agreed upon it shall, whenever adopted, be effective as of July 1."

The Kaiser Talks About Yachts.

BERLIN, July 2.—Commander William H. Beehler, the naval attache to the United States embassy at Berlin, was the recipient of the distinguished consideration of Emperor William during the Kiel regatta. During the yachting banquet the emperor engaged Commander Beehler in a long conversation about yachting matters. Emperor William opened the conversation, saying he thought the present type of surface skimming yacht, ballasted with a heavily weighted keel, had reached its highest possible development and that it was necessary to return to the schooner type of yachts, capable of going to sea and of carrying more sail. Emperor William said he regarded Americans as far ahead of other countries in the building of schooners and that he would consequently give an order for an American yacht of this type which would be 100 feet longer than his present schooner, the Iduna.

Fitzsimmons and Ruhlin Training.

NEW YORK, July 2.—Bob Fitzsimmons and Gus Ruhlin are hard at work training for their meeting on the wrestling mat, which will take place in Madison Square Garden a week hence. Fitzsimmons is learning the fine points of the game from Charley Lenhardt at Flisk's pavilion, Bath Beach, where he can be found daily learning the strangle hold, hammer locks, Nelsons and body holds, and Lenhardt says the lanky boxer is a very apt pupil. Ruhlin's wrestling partner is Ernest Roeber, and he claims a decided advantage over Fitzsimmons, as he is heavier and was an expert wrestler long before he took up boxing.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING

Eleven Dead In Chicago From One Bolt.

TERRIFIC STROKE WRECKS LAKE PIER

Boys Who Had Been Fishing Took Refuge In Shelter They Had Built Just Before the Fatal Stroke Fell.

CHICAGO, July 2.—Eleven boys were instantly killed and one fatally hurt by lightning yesterday afternoon on a pier at the foot of Buena terrace, north of Lincoln park.

This pier is a favorite fishing resort. When the storm began, 12 boys huddled for shelter from the rain beneath a shanty covered with zinc which they had themselves erected for just such an emergency.

The bolt tore the pier, and the boys were caught in the debris, which burned fiercely even in the blinding rain. All but one of the unfortunate fishermen were roasted to death, and he escaped only for what the doctors think is a more lingering fate.

A policeman, attracted to the pier by the crashing timbers, found it impossible to rescue any of the victims. The heavy timbers of the pier had been shattered, and the whole structure toppled into the water. He hurried to a patrol box and called for assistance.

Nearly half an hour elapsed before aid arrived. The work of recovering the bodies was extremely difficult, but finally all were carried ashore.

Owing to the terrific thunderstorm prevalent the work of identification was extremely slow.

Oppressed by the extreme heat, the boys had gone in bathing. When the rain began to fall and it became evident a severe electrical storm was coming, they rushed to a shelter they had built on the pier. Willie Anderson, 12 years of age, was the only survivor of the shock which followed a moment later. To the policeman he gave a bare idea of the horrible ending to an hour's sport and then fainted. He was carried to a nearby house, where medical assistance was rendered.

The fatal stroke was the most powerful seen here in years. The pier was demolished in a trice, giving the boys not the slightest chance of escape.

In age the victims ranged from 12 to 15 years.

Boer Prisoners Like Bermuda.

BERMUDA, July 2.—The 930 Boer prisoners who arrived here June 28 on the British transport Armenian were yesterday moved into the camps prepared for them on Darrell's and Tucker's islands. These Boers are part of the force of General Cronje and were captured at Paardeberg. They include several boys of 8 and 10 years who carried ammunition to their fathers when the latter were in the Boer trenches. Among the prisoners were also two Boers so old that they crawled on all fours down the transport's gangway. These two old men aver they never saw salt water before reaching Cape Town. The prisoners are pleased with Bermuda, and in the afternoon they enjoyed the sea bathing. They say they are sorry they were led into the war and that they long for its termination. They expressed themselves as grateful for the treatment accorded them by Great Britain. Some of the more wealthy prisoners have inquired as to their chances of spending money in Bermuda. The gunboats Medina and Medway are guarding Darrell's and Tucker's islands.

The First Mountain Railway.

WASHINGTON, July 2.—What is said to be the first passenger carrying mountain railway of its kind in the world has been opened to traffic in Saxony, according to a report received at the state department from Consul General Cole at Dresden. The road is 820 feet long, running from Loschwitz, a village on the banks of the Elbe, about five miles from Dresden, to the top of Rochwitz heights. It has a gradient of 32 per cent, 33 iron piers of varying height carrying the rails on which the cars are hung. The highest is about 49 feet. The cars weigh when occupied 12.8 tons and hold 50 passengers each. The road is operated by two 80 horsepower machines stationed at the top terminus of the road. Unusual precautions against accidents are taken. The journey takes three minutes, and 31,000 passengers can be carried daily.

Locomotive Workers Return.

SCRANTON, Pa., July 2.—The strike at the Cliff street shops of the American Locomotive works is at an end. For the past two weeks the strikers have been going back in small squads. Yesterday 71 of them, mostly boiler makers, returned. Last night the others, numbering in all 500, held a meeting and decided to go back in a body. A committee from the union waited on Superintendent Delaney to make terms. He told them that the only concession he could make was to guarantee them that they would not be discriminated against.

Educators at Albany.

ALBANY, July 2.—The thirty-ninth annual convocation of the University of New York opened last night in this city and is attended by several hundred educators representing all of the colleges, academies, high schools and other educational institutions. Several addresses were made at the opening session. Regent St. Clair McKelway of Brooklyn delivered an able address on the "Outlook In Education." Among the other speakers were Right Rev. William Croswell Doane, vice chancellor of the board of regents, and Regent Chester B. Lord of New York city.

Six Months' Strike Ended.

SUSQUEHANNA, Pa., July 2.—The six months' strike of the boiler makers and their helpers employed by the Erie Railroad company in its locomotive shops at Susquehanna, Hornellsville and Meadville is ended. The differences between the men and the company have been adjusted satisfactorily to both, and they will return to work on Monday next.

The Strike.

As far as Plainfield is concerned the strike of the machinists to secure the nine-hour day with no diminution of pay is practically over. The machine shops in the three local press works are now working with their full force of men while more than half of the number regularly employed at the shop of the Pond Tool Works are at work. There are now less than a hundred strikers remaining, and the chances are that most of them will soon be at work again.

Only in the shop of the Aluminum Plate and Press Works was the demand for the nine-hour day, with ten hours' pay granted. This concession was made provisionally, the final settlement to depend on the agreement made at the other shops. Now, however, that the other shops are working again it seems quite likely that the arrangement that the nine-hour day will be continued although none of the other shops agreed to this concession.

The strike lasted just six weeks. It is impossible to figure out the loss to the employers, the employe and the local merchants. It will amount to many thousands of dollars, however. It was expected that strike bounties would be paid to all the men but only those who were in immediate need received any aid. The others met the emergency out of their little store of savings.

Although the feeling on the part of the strikers and their sympathizers reached a very high pitch at one time, the strike has passed over without any serious disturbances. It is likely to be some time, however, before the very cordial relations, which existed between employer and employe before the strike began, will be fully resumed.

Pedestrians along the borough thoroughfares have complained of late regarding the dust blown from the part of the streets near the sidewalks. This annoyance is caused despite the fact that the roads are sprinkled regularly by the borough. It is due to the method pursued in sprinkling. According to the custom the street is sprinkled solely along the middle where it is macadamized and the part near the gutter, where frequently it is not macadamized, remains untouched. The only exception to this rule is Somerset street. The borough authorities explain that it is necessary that the streets be sprinkled at least three or four times a day and that to run the sprinkler up and down each side of a thoroughfare would prevent all the streets being sprinkled every day. The limited amount at hand for the purpose, it is claimed, forbids doing the work properly; but, nevertheless, many believe it would be the part of wisdom to cut down some other items of street expenses and increase relatively the amount for sprinkling purposes.

The announcement in yesterday's Daily Press that Rev. G. Kennedy Newell would soon resign the pastorate of Hope chapel, was a great surprise to many Plainfield people. He has been offered a new field in Brooklyn where he believes that it is his duty to go. Mr. Newell has made many friends during the eight years he has been connected with the chapel and men, women and children will see him leave there with much regret. During his ministry, the chapel has made great strides and has gained greatly in numbers and interest. That much of the credit for this growth is due Mr. Newell is only the simple truth. He has been the leader of the flock and has done his best to lead them rightly. The results bear ample testimony as to the success of his efforts. He has been aided, however, by a band of consecrated workers who have seconded his efforts with great success and without whose assistance the present flourishing condition of the chapel could never have been brought about.

The showing made by W. Lester Glenny, the young Plainfield golfer, in the state championship which was held at the Englewood Golf Club links last week, was an excellent one. While it would, of course, have been more pleasant if he had won the championship, it is no small honor to be the runner-up for the champion. His defeat of Archie Graham, last year's champion, was another cause for much congratulation. For several years Glenny has shown himself one of the best players on the Hillside course and has been a prominent factor in all scratch events. If his improvement continues he may be expected to take a prominent part in the national championships before many years pass by.

A united effort is being made this year to again interest the good people of Plainfield in that very worthy charity, the Westfield Fresh Air Camp. It is there, just outside of Westfield, in a pretty little grove that the mothers and their children are brought from the heat and squalor of New York and given a taste of life in the country. Those who have visited that institution in past years have no doubt as to the wonderful good done by that practical charity. The camp, known now as "Camp Woolfe," is close to the line of the Plainfield-Elizabeth trolley, and a visit there will greatly impress the visitor of the great good being accomplished.

Hardly a day passes but The Daily Press chronicles the departure of one of more Plainfielders for Buffalo to visit the Pan-American Exposition. As it is in Plainfield, so it is in other parts of the east. The summer resorts at seashore and mountain have felt the effects of it. The spell of heated weather which has reigned for the past ten days has resulted, however, in driving many people to both seashore and mountain to find some relief from the great heat. Reports from these resorts show that the advent of this crowd has saved them from what might have been an extremely dull season.

There is a good game of baseball scheduled for next September when the Hope chapel nine and the St. Mary team meet for their third and deciding game. Hope chapel won the first of the series to the general surprise of most of the local enthusiasts. Then St. Mary's boys had another surprise in store last Saturday when they won the second game. The third game will be watched with unusual interest.

The campaign against stray dogs in both city and borough has begun. There are still plenty of homeless canines wandering about the residential parts of the city whom it would be well to capture or put out of the possibility of doing harm. Owners of pet dogs should be most particular to see that their pets are properly muzzled when allowed to run at large.

Charles W. McCutchen and family, of Rockview avenue, will soon leave for their summer home in the Adirondack Mountains, where they will remain until fall.

Miss Nettie Bauersachs, of Grandview avenue, has returned from Newark, where she attended the class day and commencement exercises of the Newark High School.

Mrs. David E. Titsworth and sons, Charles and Roy, and Mrs. Charles Potter, of West Seventh street, have gone to Grove, Hamilton county, New York, for the summer.

Yesterday afternoon she started to go from the sitting room to the kitchen when she staggered and fell in convulsions. Her illness was caused by the extreme heat of the last few days, which together with her advanced age, caused a complete collapse. BORN TO SERVE

By CHARLES M. SHELDON,

Author of "IN HIS STEPS," "JOHN KING'S QUESTION CLASS," "EDWARD BLAKE," Etc.

(Copyright, 1900, by Charles M. Sheldon.)

Barbara was really interested in the entire sermon, and as a whole it helped her. Her happily trained religious nature had taught her to look with horror upon the common habit of criticism and comparison when attending a church service. The main object of going to church was to get help to be a better Christian, she had often said in little debates over such subjects while in college. If the sermon was learned and eloquent and interesting as well as helpful, so much the better. But, if it had every quality except helpfulness, it missed the mark. To be able to say after hearing a sermon: "That has helped me to be a better person this week," is really the same thing as declaring that the sermon was a good sermon. Anything that helps life is great. All sermons that give courage or peace or joy, or inspire to greater love to God and neighbor, are great sermons.

So Barbara was lifted up by the message of the morning; and when the service was closing, during the hush that succeeded the benediction, as the congregation remained seated for a moment, she uttered a prayer of thanksgiving and a prayer of petition for patience and wisdom in the life she had chosen, much blessed and comforted by the service of the morning.

As Barbara came out into the aisle again, Mrs. Ward was standing near the end of the pew opposite. She beckoned to Barbara.

"I want to introduce Miss Clark to you, Mrs. Vane."

An elderly woman with very keen blue eyes, and the sharpest look out of them that Barbara had even seen, spoke to her abruptly but kindly as she came up, Carl still clinging to her.

"Very glad to see you, Miss Clark. You must come in and see us some afternoon or evening. O, I know who you are, just a servant; and we are rich, aristocratic folks and all that. My grandfather was a blacksmith in Connecticut. His ancestors were from Vanes of Arlie in Scotland. Good, honest, working people as far as I can ascertain. I want you to meet Miss Barnes, who is helping us at present."

She introduced the young woman who was standing behind her, and Barbara somewhat shyly shook hands with a heavy-faced girl, who, however, smiled a little. Barbara was astonished at Mrs. Vane, and instantly concluded that she was a character in the Marble Square church and in Crawford, as indeed she was.

"My father and Mr. Vane were in college together," Barbara said, as they moved down the aisle.

"Are you sure?" The sharp eyes seemed to look Barbara through.

"Yes, ma'am. I have heard father speak often of Thomas Vane. Before he mentioned the fact of your living in Crawford."

"Mr. Vane would be glad to see your father again. Ask him to call."

"Father died last winter," Barbara answered in a low voice. The tragedy of that business failure and sudden shock which resulted in her father's death was too recent to be spoken of without deep feeling.

"Dear me! It is strange Thomas never told me. Perhaps he did not hear of it. Is your mother living?"

"Yes." Barbara told her the street.

"She must come and see me after I have called. She is alone, you say?" And again the sharp eyes pierced Barbara.

They had reached the door and Mrs Vane tapped Mrs. Ward on the shoulder.

"Mrs. Ward, you see that Miss Clark comes to see me. I want a long talk with her. Don't be afraid, my dear. I don't want to know any more than you are willing to tell me. But I'm interested in you, and perhaps I can do something to help."

She hurried out, leaving Barbara in some uncertainty as to what kind of help she meant. Would this woman of wealth and social position help her in her plans for solving the servant-girl problem?

The Wards were still standing near the door, and Carl was pulling Barbara's dress and crying to her to hurry home for dinner, when the young minister came up and shook hands heartily with Mrs. Ward. At the close of the service he had come down from the pulpit and had gone through one of the side doors leading into the church vestibule. He had been talking with some of the people out there, but the minute Mr. Ward appeared he came over and greeted him.

"Very glad to see you and hear you, Morton, I'm sure," Mr. Ward was saying as Barbara came into the vestibule. "Been some time since you and Alfred came in to see us together."

"Yes, I've been too busy since I left the seminary with the work in Carlton. How is Alfred?"

"O' he's quite well," Mrs. Ward answered, as Morton looked at her. "We expected him home a month ago, but he had to give up coming at the last minute on account of some society doings. But—" by this time Carl had dragged Barbara out past Mrs. Ward —"allow me to introduce Miss Clark, who is—" Barbara looked at her quietly, and she continued, "who is working for us at present."

Mr. Morton bowed and shook hands with Barbara, saying as he did so: "I'm very glad to meet you, Miss Clark."

And Barbara, listening and looking with sensitiveness to detect a spirit either of patronizing or of indifference, could not detect either. He spoke and looked as any gentleman might have spoken and looked at any young woman who was his equal in society.

"I WANT TO INTRODUCE MISS CLARK."

"Won't you come home to dinner with us, Morton?" said Mrs. Ward, heartily.

"I'm stopping at the hotel; I think I had better not come to-day."

"Well, when do you go back to Carlton?"

"To-morrow at two."

"Well, then, come to lunch to-morrow noon."

"I shall be glad to, thank you," he said, and he bowed pleasantly to them all as he passed over to the other end of the vestibule to speak to some one else.

"Mr. Morton was a senior in college when Alfred entered," Mrs. Ward explained to Barbara, as they walked out of the church. "He had an opportunity to do Alfred a great kindness, and our boy never forgot it. He used to come home with him quite often during the last term Mr. Morton was at college before he entered the seminary."

"He's a very promising young man," said Mr. Ward, positively. "I like his preaching. It's sensible and straight."

"And interesting, too," Mrs. Ward added, her heart warming to the young man who had befriended her son. Just how much Ralph Morton had helped Alfred Ward not even the mother ever knew. But it was during a crisis in his young life, and the brave, simple nature of Morton had gone out to the young fellow in his trouble very much like a rescue. But men do not rear monuments to this sort of heroism.

Barbara walked on in silence, but in her heart she also had a feeling of gratitude for the young preacher whose courteous greeting no less than his helpful sermon had given her courage. At the same time, she was conscious of a little whisper in her mind which said: "Nevertheless, Barbara Clark, in the very nature of the case you are not privileged to move in the society of young men like Mr. Morton, as long as you are a servant. You may be college bred, and you may be as refined and intelligent as he is; but he could never look on you as an equal. His courtesy was paid to you as a minister would be courteous to any woman, but not as an equal in any sense. You never could expect to sit down and talk together, you never could anticipate the enjoyment of his company or—or—expect that he could ever call to see you as—as he might call to see—"

Barbara colored deeply as she allowed the whisper to die away in uncompleted fragments of imagination. She was the last girl in the world to have foolish, romantic dreams of young men. She had never had a lover. No one had ever made her think of any such possibility. She was singularly free from any silly sentiment such as girls of her age sometimes allow to spoil the freshness and strength of a womanly heart. But she was romantic in many ways; and, being a woman and not an angel or a statue, she had thought at times of some brave, helpful, strong life that might become a part of hers. The world-old cry of the heart for companionship, the hunger, God-given to men and women, was not unknown to Barbara within the last year or two when she had begun to blossom into womanhood. The thought that her choice of a career in service had put her outside the pale of a common humanity's loving smote her with another pang as she walked along. It seemed that there were depths and heights to this servant-girl problem that she was constantly discovering, into which she might never descend, and out to which she might never climb.

Carl awoke her from her thoughts by dragging at her dress, and saying: "Come, Barbara, let's hurry. I'm hungry. Let's hurry now and get dinner."

Barbara looked at Mrs. Ward.

"Yes, go on with him if you want to. Lewis will be impatient. He ran on ahead before his father could stop him. I don't feel well enough to walk faster."

So Barbara hurried on with Carl and as she passed several groups of churchgoers she was conscious that she herself was the object of conversation. She could not hear very well, but caught fragments of sentences, some spoken before, some after, she had passed different people.

Mr. Jepp Zensen, of 728 West Front street, pattern-maker by trade, says: "For a year I had a sort of grinding pain across my back at times extending up to my shoulders, and there was a lameness over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. The New Woman

By Eliza Archard Conger.

ONE matter that interested me in Great Britain was the circulating libraries kept by women. In the towns and villages of the United Kingdom are small private libraries. Reliable individuals may borrow from them one book and keep it a week for about 4 cents. One may subscribe for a year to the library for $2 and take out a book as often as he likes. By paying $5 a year he may during that period borrow six books at a time if he likes. The libraries contain 200 or more books, mostly novels. The English people are insatiate novel readers, probably because there are so many women among them. In addition to her circulating library, the mistress of the place has on sale newspapers, magazines, stationery, etc. Now, I wonder why bright, intelligent women and girls could not get their living from such libraries in this country too? It is true we have in America many more free libraries than the English have, but they do not contain so much fiction, being devoted largely to books that improve the mind strictly. Fiction men, and especially women, will read till judgment day. A well selected collection of books, say, first always fiction, then travels, poetry, biography and history, need not cost a great amount of capital and would certainly pay if lent out at 10 cents per volume, or perhaps even 5 cents might pay, to be kept not longer than a week, or, if so kept, to be paid for at the rate of 2 cents additional per day. That is how dilinquent borrowers are managed in England. Keeping such a library would be very pleasant occupation, remunerative, too, in conjunction with the stationery trade. Books could be kept on sale as well.

It was considered a fact of sufficient importance to cable across the Atlantic that a society lady fainted at a horse race. She was probably laced too tight.

Jewish ladies are very frequently superintendents of the Sunday schools which are now commonly maintained for the children of their race. Mrs. Octavus Cohen of Bayonne, N. J., has filled such a post with brilliant success for a number of years. Why are not Christian women oftener Sunday school superintendents? They are peculiarly fitted for it.

Pitiable indeed is that woman who can find nothing to love but cats.

"I came that ye might have life, and have it more abundantly," said the Founder of Christianity. I wonder how women who squeeze the life out of their bodies by tight clothing and out of their souls by pressing them into the iron mold of conventionality can call themselves Christians?

"The truth shall make you free." Do your own thinking; don't accept another's authority in matters of opinion. Dress as you like if you would find out what the text above mentioned means.

"I am for men," said Henry George. And I am for women, I say.

The archbishop of Canterbury says the church needs a married clergy, because often a minister's wife does more good in the parish than he himself can do. Yes, archbishop of Canterbury. But do you know what a dead give away that admission is on you and all your men preachers? If women can do more good than men, then why, by all that is reasonable and Christian, can't you ordain women as clergymen and do the thing directly instead of indirectly? Ah, that's something else, is it?

Paris has at length one woman's club. What an American girl who marries a Frenchman may expect can be judged from the fact that no wife can belong to even that one modest little woman's club until she has obtained her husband's written permission to do so. She must send the letter of permission with her application for membership. That is how it is in Europe. But we need not boast ourselves overmuch. Not even in America has a man got beyond the notion that he "owns" his wife, that she is his to treat exactly as he likes, and this notion has wrought to women woe unutterable.

In an English magazine Mr. Arthur Brice issues a call for women to migrate with their brothers and men relatives to the new colonies. He argues in favor of this on grounds moral, material and social. Women, and women only, strong armed, practical workers, can make homes for the lonely frontiersmen. Pioneers in our own land have felt the need of homes so sadly that they have frequently rushed rashly into marriages with Indian women and regretted it ever after. Mr. Brice is right. Women, brave, helpful and cheery, not the feeble and the whiners, should accompany their men to a new country. It will be good for both.

TEMPEST IN TEAPOT.

South Carolina's Bellicose Senators Eat Humble Pie.

Both Resigned Their Positions, But When It Came to a Showdown Both Flunked and Held On to Their Jobs.

[Special Columbia (S. C.) Letter.]

SOUTH CAROLINA is in a fever of political excitement just now. The governor of the state, M. B. McSweeney, a level-headed politician and fairly able man, has, it is true, forced a temporary antidote upon Senators Tillman and McLaurin, who scattered the germs of the epidemic, but nothing save an appeal to the ballot box will restore permanent political health in the proud old commonwealth.

Tillman and McLaurin, who represent South Carolina in the United States senate, were bosom friends at one time. Both were elected as democrats and both have always posed as typical southern patriots. Whether personal jealousy is at the bottom of the feud, which culminated in the now historic debate at Gaffney, on May 25, friends of the two politicians are not prepared to say. All the voters know—all they care to know—is that at that time the senatorial rivals concluded to tender their resignations, to take effect November 1 next. In the interim they were to conduct a campaign for reelection on the issues advocated by them.

Gov. McSweeney declined to accept the resignations on the grounds that he considered the people of the state entitled to one year of peace and freedom from political battles and bitterness and that a campaign this year would be a calamity to the state. As an additional reason he suggested that "any disturbance of the harmony of the people in their work for the advancement of the material prosperity of the state might result in retarding progress."

Upon reflection Senator McLaurin concluded that the governor was right in his deductions; but Senator Tillman replied that the governor was compelled to accept his resignation as his office gave him no discretionary powers over a United States senator, "who owes responsibility to none but the sovereign people of the state." Later, however, he also recanted and withdrew his resignation.

Senator Tillman is one of the quaintest products of American political life. He was born in Edgefield county, S. C., August 11, 1847. His father was a large planter and landowner, and at the breaking out of the war between the states held 100 slaves. Young Tillman quit school in 1864 to enter the confederate army, but was stricken by a severe illness soon afterward, which kept him an invalid for two years and resulted in the loss of his left eye. He married before he was 20 years old, and now has six children. He began his political career in 1886, at the age of 39. At that time Wade Hampton and his so-called "old democracy" were in the saddle and ruling things with a high hand. Tillman, a radical by inclination and training, opposed the conservative leaders and finally succeeded in ousting them root and branch. He realized that South Carolina prosperity depended in a large measure upon the progress of the agricultural population. He became a potent factor in the affairs of the Farmers' alliance whose members nominated him for governor in 1890. After one of the most exciting campaigns in the history of the south he also secured the democratic nomination, and in November was elected governor and reelected in 1892.

An old-timer, who knows Tillman like a book, said to the writer that "Ben Tillman always feared God, but never was afraid of the devil." His administration of state affairs was characterized by bitter hostility to the various corporations doing business in South Carolina and to the liquor selling element. The latter he antagonized by originating the plan for state management of rum dispensing. All intoxicants were to be sold by state agents in bottles containing not less than half a pint. The saloon interests opposed the measure violently, but the governor won. In 1895 Tillman was elected to the United States senate. His term expired last March, but he had previously been elected for a second term of six years.

In the United States senate he soon became a commanding figure, partly on account of his ability, but more particularly because of his radical ideas and his violent, uncompromising and bitter attacks on President Cleveland and his cabinet. Very few of his colleagues agreed with him, but all listened to his diatribes with interest. When William Jennings Bryan was nominated for president in 1896 great pressure was brought to bear to induce Senator Tillman to become the Nebraska man's running mate, but in vain. The South Carolinian knew a good thing when he had it, and he preferred to be the boss of his state instead of the tail to a national kite.

During the last session of congress Tillman was the senate leader of the unreconcilable southern anti-annexationists. He denounced the administration for the purchase of the Philippines, for the Platt amendment to the Cuban bill and discriminating legislation against Porto Rico. He was high priest of "the-constitution-does-follow-the-flag" element, and has stood by his guns even since the United States supreme court has decided against his ideas. He believes with his friend Bryan that the supreme court decision "not only declares that congress is greater than the constitution which created it—the creature greater than the creator—but it denies the necessity for a written constitution."

So much for Tillman. And now a word about his rival, John L. McLaurin, junior senator from South Carolina. He is everything that his opponent is not, although at one time the two were allies. McLaurin was born in 1860, and was admitted to the bar at the age of 22. In 1890 he was elected to the state legislature. A year later he was made attorney general, and in 1892 was elected to congress and reelected three times. On the death of Senator Joseph H. Earle, in 1897, he was appointed to fill the vacancy, and when the legislature assembled was chosen to fill the unexpired term, which ends March 4, 1903.

Instead of standing by Tillman the junior senator assumed a noncommittal attitude. Although elected as an out-and-out silver man, he was in favor of letting the question of bimetallism die a natural death. Instead of championing anti-annexation, he spoke in favor of enlarging the American sphere of influence. He even went so far as to say that protection was not an unmixed evil. He called himself a "commercial democrat," anxious for the upbuilding of the political and material interests of his state. Incidentally he made some uncomplimentary allusions to what he considered the mulish propensities of his senior colleague who, like another famous southerner, "had never known anything and had learned nothing since."

Then the factional fight began in earnest. Both sides lined up their partisans and concluded to let the people of the state decide their quarrel. While some approve Gov. McSweeney's actions in the premises, others think he should have accepted the resignations and appointed other men to the vacant senatorships. Those who take no stock in either of the contestants—and their number is greater than is generally supposed—would have liked to see a free-for-all canvass. They point to the Conkling-Platt episode whose ending proved a genuine surprise to everybody. Senator Roscoe Conkling and Senator Thomas O. Platt, the former one of the most astute politicians of his generation, resigned their seats to show their disapproval of the republican national executive and applied to the people of New York for a vindication. Both were sure of reelection, but when the votes of the assembly had been counted they were statesmen without a job.

The "a plague on both your houses" element thinks that South Carolina might perhaps have repeated history by relegating both Tillman and McLaurin and electing men acceptable to everybody.

But in his capacity of an impartial, outside observer, the writer is inclined to venture the prediction that South Carolina would have stood by Tillman. There is no man in the state who is closer to the masses. The farmers look upon him as their particular friend, the workingmen hail him as their champion, and the conservatives consider him a safer man than McLaurin, who, they are afraid, is more of a republican than a democrat.

There is bound to be a hot time, however, in South Carolina until the quarrel between its political leaders is settled at the polls, and though there may be no bloodshed there will be enough vituperation to disgust decent men everywhere.

LINCOLN LIKED HER.

Story of Elizabeth Keckly, a White House Factotum.

Once She Had Scores of Influential Friends, Now She Lives in Poverty—A Victim of Man's Ingratitude.

[Special Washington Letter.]

ABRAHAM LINCOLN was a good friend of of mine; but he never knew what a good friend of his I was, and have ever been."

Elizabeth Keckly, of No. 1131 Fifteenth street, in this city, now 80 years of age, was seamstress for Mrs. Lincoln during the civil war. She was a part of the domestic family, as much so as any cabinet minister was a part of the official family. After making the above quoted remark she said:

"I was Mr. Lincoln's friend, am his friend now, and will always protect his memory, by keeping my mouth closed concerning the many things which he unhappily suspected or imagined were going on around him officially and unofficially. I was born a slave, but bought my freedom, and so was under no oligations to Mr. Lincoln for emancipation. But I loved him for his kind manner towards me and for his great act of giving freedom to my race. I know what liberty is, because I remember what slavery was. When I was a young woman, modest as any young woman, I was stripped to the waist and flogged into insensibility. This was done more than once simply on the pretext that 'my spirit must be broken.' I know what undeserved suffering was inflicted upon the slaves. Therefore I know what emancipation meant. You who have never suffered cannot understand the full meaning of liberty. I was as good a girl as ever lived, and I wanted to live as good women live; but I was compelled to become a mother without marriage. Oh, yes, I know what liberty is, because I know what slavery was. Consequently I have almost worshiped Abraham Lincoln. He was as kind and considerate in his treatment of me as he was of any of the white people about the white house. In that he manifested the consistency of his belief that all human beings are created equal in the sight of God. He arose every morning as a good man, and he went to bed every night as a God-fearing, Christian man. They say that servants do not reverence their masters because they know their weaknesses, as the rest of the world cannot know them. But no servant failed to respect and revere that grand man of God, and man of the common people. His life was pure. I cannot say that of all whom I knew in those days.

"I have been honest and not avaricious, or I would not now in my days of feebleness and age be working hard with the needle to earn my daily bread. I never betrayed a secret in the days when secrets were worth gold, and gold was scarce. Nearly all of the great men and women who knew me are now away from earth. The members of the family that I served longest and best are heedless of my age and infirmities and necessities, and unappreciative of my loyalty; a loyalty which I shall continue until my lips are sealed in death. I served the families of Douglas, Harlan, Breckenridge, Lincoln, Chase, and many others who were famous in those days. By all of them, it seems, I am forgotten, else I would not be helpless and penniless in my declining years."

Referring feelingly to Lincoln, she said: "I know, and I know it well, that so unhappy was that great man, so tired of life and its burdens, that if he could have expressed an opinion concerning the work of the assassin, he would have said: 'I am glad that it is all over.' He was always ready for death, and I knew him so well that I have always felt that death was welcome to him when it came."

Trembling with emotion this remarkable woman said: "The people whom I personally served seem to have forsaken me, but the government has not overlooked me. My only son was a soldier and died for the cause of liberty. The government gives me a small pension. Thereby I am able to pay my room rent. If I had one single friend who would ask congress to relieve me I know that they would give me a liberal pension because God knows I served my country while I was in the white house, and I helped Mr. Lincoln in many ways by my loyalty. Moreover, I served Mrs. Lincoln in her darkest days of subsequent poverty. I looked after her interests and helped her to raise money when she was in dire distress. Then I was strong and vigorous. I had no fear of the future. I believed in my ability to take care of myself, and it never occurred to me that I would live to be forgotten and forsaken. I made no provision for old age, for I did not know ingratitude. It was my ignorance.

"When Mr. Lincoln was shot and carried across the street to die in that little house opposite the theater, the first thing that Mrs. Lincoln said was: 'Send for Keckly.' They sent for me at the white house, but did not send to my residence. Consequently I did not reach Mrs. Lincoln until the next morning. She embraced me and reprovingly said: "'Lizabeth, why did you not come last night?' Then I explained that I had tried to come to her, but could not find her; because the messengers who would have admitted me were unable to find me. I remained with Mrs. Lincoln until she left the white house. I went to Illinois with her. I never left her until it was impossible for her to keep me with her any longer."

Reverting to her poverty and feebleness, she said: "To-day I had to be trusted for a few spools of thread with which to do my sewing. In the old days I employed upwards of 20 sewing girls. My credit was good for hundreds of dollars' worth of goods. My services were sought everywhere, and I was always busy. I still have plenty of work to do, but I am too feeble to do it. I am only able to do enough work to keep me in bread and butter. Just think of it! Lincoln, Douglas, Harland, Seward, Fred Douglass, Bishop Wayman; all gone—all gone. May be I have lived too long. Not one of my powerful friends is living. If they were, you would not see me living in a rented room, struggling from day to day for food and clothing. If they were living, Wendell Phillips, Fred Douglass, Lloyd Garrison, John B. Gough and others would lecture for my benefit, or send me their cheques. But they are all gone, and here am I, a reminiscence of the glorious days and glorious men of whom I speak to you. But when I am in most distress, when days are dark, I think of what I often heard Mr. Lincoln say to his wife: 'Don't worry, mother; because all things will come out right. God rules our destinies.'

"I made lots of money when I was young and strong," continued the aged woman. "While I was a slave, I performed all of my duties and earned $1,200 additional, with which I bought the freedom of myself and my boy; the boy I lost in the civil war; the boy who would to-day be my comfort and support."

She also made money for a couple of sharpers, in New York, in 1868. She told her story to two newspaper men. They employed stenographers. They published all that she said and a great deal that she did not say, in a book entitled "Behind the Scenes." To-day she said: "I never received a dollar from the publication of that book. They took it all. However, I need not regret that, because they printed many things which ought not to have been printed; many things which caused heartaches, because they were untrue. The book was printed, and my name was on the title page as the author of everything contained between its lids.

"They told the story of how Mrs. Lincoln tried vainly to sell her expensive and costly wardrobe in New York; but they did not tell it right. I was with Mrs. Lincoln at that time and did my best to help her dispose of her valuable things; but it would do no good now to say anything about the details of that venture. I merely mention it because they made it a part of the book which made money for them, but the publication of which brought me no money, while it made some enemies for me who should have always been my friends.

"I made dresses for Mrs. Lincoln, the ladies of President Andrew Johnson's family, and also for the ladies of the Grant administration. I was famous, in my line, for many years. I was proud; yes, very proud. But fame and pride do not last, as I have found to my sorrow. They don't bring food to an old woman when she is forgotten or when her friends have passed away."

Concerning the public receptions in the white house during the civil war she says: "I dressed Mrs. Lincoln for every levee. I made every stitch of clothing that she wore. I dressed her hair. I put on her skirts and dresses. I fixed her bouquets, saw that her gloves were all right, and remained with her each evening until Mr. Lincoln came for her. My hands were the last to touch her before she took the arm of Mr. Lincoln and went forth to meet the ladies and gentlemen on those great occasions."

Here, in the national capital, in a rented room in a small house, in an obscure neighborhood, friendless, and growing gradually weaker and nearer the end of earth, lives this born slave, who bought her own freedom, who became famous among famous women and more famous men, in a wonderful period of the history of the republic. Here she lives alone, and here she soon will die, for not many moons will elapse before the inevitable summons must come to Elizabeth Keckly.

An interesting mixed foursome was played yesterday on the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club course, when Mr. Heberton and Miss May Coleman defeated Mrs. Heberton and Mr. Irvin, with a score of 66 to 69. The contestants are from the Hotel Netherwood and they enjoyed the competition very much.

THE NEW ICE.

Some people still retain the habits and customs of their grandfathers. They look at things in the same light. Some are still using impure ice simply because it's the old kind.

Are you one of them?

Don't you know that natural ice is a "back number," that its place has been taken by a better and purer ice? Haven't you heard of the Hygeia Ice? Made from filtered water, taken from under the ground 165 feet. Can it be anything else but pure?

Try it. It costs no more than the impure ice.

weather-man may be wrong and relief may come through a good hard shower though the prospects of a change are slight. At 2 o'clock the mercury registered 102 degrees in this city.

The thermometers in the borough seem to register higher heat than in the city. At 11 o'clock it was 102 degrees in the shade on Somerset street, while on Duer street an automatic thermometer scheduled the temperature at 104 degrees.

Another prostration reported was that of Michael Powers, of South avenue, who was overcome at home this morning.

SONS OF UNCLE SAM.

Native Filipinos and Hawaiians Draw Large Crowds at Pan-American Exposition.

When visiting the Midway Red Star Route at the Pan-American Exposition at Buffalo one has no time to ponder over the legal phrase that "Porto Rico and the Philippines belong to the United States but are not part of the United States." Nevertheless all are interested in these new possessions and will not fail to see the great Hawaiian and Filipino Villages.

Rare flora and fauna and gigantic palms are marvels to be seen. Especially attractive are the ancient rites performed by the native priests, although the man-fish and the great diver and shark fighter command an equal share of attention. In the native theatre are to be seen the Hulu-Hulu dancing girls whose seductive beauty entrances and delights the spectator. Other dusky maidens of refinement show the hulu-pohu and the alaap-apa dances.

In the Filipino Village are quartered beautiful women; types of the Sulus, Aetas, Musselmen, Dyck, Moros, Negritos, Mestizos, Tagalogs, Tinguianes and Celebesians. There also are the tattoed Igorotes. Native plays in which are produced, as a specialty for the first time in this country, the great polo sword dance are to be seen. All the industries of the islands are represented on an elaborate scale. These are only two of the countless attractions which General Manager E. W. McConnell offers to the the public on the famous Midway Red Star Route, and one should not fail to see them.

Killed by the Heat.

A valuable gray horse, belonging to Winfield Conover, of Duer street, attached to a borough sprinkling wagon, was overcome by the heat this morning while being driven on Somerset street. The suffering animal was quickly released and taken to Mr. Conover's barn, and Dr. Herbert summoned. Before the veterinary arrived the horse was dead. The horse was valued at $125.

Still Another Explosion.

An oil stove, at the home of Mrs. S. H. Perrine, of East Fourth street, exploded last Saturday morning. The stove was in the basement at the time and set fire to the floor beams. Larry Doyle and a letter carrier who were in the vicinity, were attracted by the calls of Mrs. Perrine for help and succeeded in putting out the fire.

Pipe for Storm Sewer Here.

The sewer pipe for the underground storm sewer to be placed on Somerset street has arrived. It is being unloaded from the cars as rapidly as possible and the construction work will commence in the near future.

Religion and Patriotism.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the First Baptist church will hold a union service Friday evening. The subject will be "Religion and Patriotism," and there will be a patriotic address, followed by a social.

Another Prostration.

Michael Powers, of South avenue, was overcome by the heat this morning at his home on South avenue. Medical aid was summoned and Mr. Powers is doing as well as can be expected.

Dog Goes Mad.

A small pet dog, owned by Mrs. Mary Powers, of Craig place, went mad this morning as a result of the heat. Borough Dog Catcher Thomas Martin was sent for to kill the animal.

Judgment Entered.

In Justice Hand's court, Monday, judgment for the plaintiff for $87.64 was rendered in the case of the First National Bank against Henry.

MANY EVENTS ARRANGED FOR INDEPENDENCE DAY

Festivities of Various Characters Will be Enjoyed by Plainfielders.

NUMEROUS ATTRACTIONS.

BASEBALL AND GOLF WILL HOLD THE POPULAR FAVOR.

Athletic Contests and Horse Races Likely to Draw Big Crowd—Picnics a Feature—Ample Protection Against Fires.

In every State, in every territory and in the new possessions of the United States Independence Day will be observed tomorrow. The day marks the 125th anniversary of the severance of the bond of unity between Great Britain and her thirteen original colonies in the North America. Despite the fact that it has never been proclaimed a holiday by Congress, which thus far has not a single legal holiday on the calendar, yet every State has declared that the country's natal day shall be observed in an appropriate manner.

Not only where the United States flag waves as on its own territory, but in foreign lands as well is the day commemorated. In France the American colony give it suitable recognition annually and in England it has been the custom among the American residents to hold dinners in honor of the occasion. Far off in the Philippines official recognition of the day will be made for the first time.

Young America associates it with the time to shoot fire crackers, while the citizen body in general sets the day apart as a fitting occasion for recreation. The old time custom of holding meetings, at which patriotic speeches are made, is passing away and in its stead comes social enjoyment.

In this city and in its vicinity sports and pleasures of various kinds will serve to occupy the time of the people and afford them amusement and entertainment despite the torrid weather.

Conspicuously prominent will be the American National game—baseball. The Clinton Avenue nine will play two games on its own diamond. Its opponent on both occasions will be the Orient Field Club, of Newark. The morning game will be called at 9:45 o'clock and the afternoon contest at 2:30 o'clock. St. Mary's team also has two games scheduled with the St. Peter and St. Paul's B. B. C., of Brooklyn. Both contests will be played on the local team's grounds. The first game will be called at 9:45 in the morning and the second at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The Hope Chapel nine will meet the Arions, which is its second nine, in the morning and in the afternoon at 4 o'clock the team will cross bats with the Somerville nine. Both games will be played on the Plainfield avenue grounds.

Two other games will be played at Dewey Park. One scheduled for 10 o'clock in the morning, is between the West End Field Club and St. Mary's second. The other takes place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. It will be between the grocers' clerks and butchers' clerks of this city.

Local horse fanciers and trotting race enthusiasts will undoubtedly find much enjoyment at Westfield, where the first meet of the Fair Acres Driving Club takes place. A large grand stand has been specially constructed for the occasion, and a band of music will be in attendance. Trotters will be entered in the 2 20, 2 25 and 2 30 classes, as well as the free-for-all class. The races begin at 1:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

The Y. M. C. A. boys will take an all-day sail on the Raritan bay. They have chartered a boat which will leave Perth Amboy at 8 o'clock in the morning.

The devotees of golf will find more than sufficient pleasure on the local links. At the Park Golf Club play for the Holiday cup will be the event for the morning, while for the afternoon there will be the men's handicap play on the Park course for first and second prizes. No special entertainment has been provided for the evening.

The Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will hold a fete on its grounds, for which invitations have been issued. Various golf competitions will take during the day. A band of music will discourse popular and patriotic airs in the afternoon and evening. Dancing will commence at 10 o'clock in the evening and continue until midnight.

There will be a fireworks display in the evening.

The golf programme is as follows: Morning: Commencing at 9 o'clock—Bogey handicap for men, 18 holes over extended course. Prize offered for first and second scores nearest bogey.

Afternoon: Commencing at 1 o'clock—Holiday cup for men, 18 holes over extended course; regular conditions. Prize offered for second best net score. Commencing at 3 o'clock—clock golf contest for all classes of women members. Prizes for best and second best scores are offered.

Commencing at 5 o'clock—Driving contest for men; the best average for three drives to win. The Haskell ball is debarred. Prizes are offered for first and second best. Commencing at 5:30 o'clock—Approaching and putting contest for mixed foursomes; three trials for each couple. Prize offered to winning couple.

Luncheon and dinner will be served by Steward Ivamy on order.

The New Jersey Central Railroad will run an excursion through New Jersey and into the picturesque Blue Ridge Mountain region of Pennsylvania. It includes a ride on the Switchback R. R. and a ramble through Glen Onoko. A special train will leave Plainfield at 9:30 in the morning. A special rate has been made for the trip.

A picnic and social will be given by the Twilight Social Club at Recreation grounds in the afternoon and evening. Dancing and music will be the features. Miantonomo Tribe, No. 118, I. O. R. M., will hold a picnic in the afternoon and evening at Mountainside grove. Vaudeville is scheduled for the afternoon. Dancing will occupy the pleasure seekers' time in the evening.

There will be a number of private fireworks displays by residents of the city and more or less private entertainments. Col. Albert Perry has invited his friends to a flag raising to take place at his home on Wilson avenue at 10 o'clock in the morning.

Arrangements have been made by the Colonel for a stump speech and a dinner.

At New Market, Friendship Council, No. 81, Jr. O. U. A. M., of that place, has arranged for athletic sports to take place in the afternoon and a fireworks display for the evening. Addresses will also be made in the afternoon. The sports for the afternoon include tub, mud, swimming, wheelbarrow, shoe, barrel, three-legged, egg and rope races. Prizes will be awarded the winners.

At Dewey Park many races are scheduled for the afternoon. A free-to-all handicap foot race will take place at 1 o'clock. David Curtis, of Plainfield, and C. G. Embleton, of Westfield, will participate in a match bicycle race at 3 o'clock, and Conrad Knorth, of Plainfield, and A. G. Cairns, of Brooklyn, will run a foot race at 5 o'clock. Other events will be a free-to-all women's bicycle race at 4 o'clock and a men's fifteen miles, free-to-all, handicap bicycle race at 6 o'clock.

Because of the liability of conflagrations which may possibly ensue from the negligent use of fireworks every precaution will be taken by the fire departments of both the city and borough to be in readiness to meet any emergency. The vacation arrangements of the men in the city department have been interrupted in order to have the men on duty to answer the calls. In the borough special details of the men forming the two companies of the volunteer department will be constantly on duty from 10 o'clock this evening until 1 o'clock July 5.

What Mr. Jacobs Thinks.

The Bowery Mission Male Quartette, of New York city, will render special music at the hall of the the Young Men's Christian Association, Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. F. H. Jacobs, who conducted the singing during the evangelistic meetings recently held in this city, and who has heard the quartette on several occasions, says, "They sing with much expression and well blended voices." J. G. Hallimond, of New York city, a powerful speaker, will address the meeting.

Happy Birthday Party.

Mildred Hand, of Elmwood place, celebrated the sixth anniversary of her birthday Monday afternoon, and in honor of the event she entertained a number of her young friends who live in the neighborhood. All had a jolly good time and before the guests departed refreshments were served. The young celebrant was pleasantly remembered by many presents given by her friends.

Intense Heat Everywhere.

During the past few days there has been a general rush to the mountains and seashore, but from all accounts no cooler weather has been found. Word was received yesterday by Plainfielders that it is very hot in the mountains.

HAVOC BY WIND AND HAIL.

SEWARREN VISITED BY A SEVERE STORM YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Terror Reigned for a Time—Trees Uprooted and Other Damage Done.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Sewaren, July 3.—A terrific wind and hail storm visited this place last evening about 5 o'clock and for a half hour there was terror among a large crowd of picknickers who had been spending the day here in search of relief from the intense heat. Fortunately, no lives were lost, but horses and wagons by the dozens were overturned and the animals played havoc.

They were pelted on all sides with hail stones, some of which measured fully an inch in diameter. All the help available was not sufficient to control the infuriated beasts, and at one time it looked as though there would be several fatalities among those in the crowd.

The people rushed for shelter of any kind and in the wild scramble men, women and children were knocked down. Peter H. Bennett, of North Plainfield, was in the crowd, and he assisted so far as possible in helping the women and children. The trolley line between this place and Rahway was completely disabled for an hour and a half and people were obliged to wait until it was in operation again.

Hundreds of trees were uprooted and small buildings overturned. A gang of sixty men was put to work early this morning clearing away the debris and restoring order out of chaos. It is believed that it will be fully a week before things are straightened out again.

BIG TROLLEY SUIT.

Ainslie Everett Claims He Was Permanently Injured In Trolley Crash At Bound Brook.

Suit has been brought in the Supreme Court against the Middlesex and Somerset Traction Company for the sum of $10 000 by Ainslie Everitt, son of Rev Charles Everett, who is pastor of the Presbyterian church at Belmar.

Everett, at the time a student in Rutger's College, was on his way to school when he was severely injured about the chest by a collision of two street cars belonging to the defendent. Ever since that time young Everett has suffered with hemorrhages of the lungs, and he claims he was permanently injured.

The accident took place near Bound Brook on a very foggy morning and, it is claimed, the cars were running at a high rate of speed. Both cars attempted to make the same switch and a terrific crash was the consequence. The car in which Everett was riding was thrown down a twenty-foot embankment.

VICTIM OF HEAT.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ulrich Passed Away Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ulrich, widow of Charles Ulrich, died yesterday afternoon from the effects of the excessive heat, at her late home, 318 East Fifth street.

Mrs. Ulrich moved here from New York in 1870, when she purchased the Fifth street house. Her husband died thirty years ago. There are three children, Charles M. Ulrich, John Ulrich and Miss Elizabeth L. Ulrich. Mrs. Ulrich was eighty-two years of age and was preparing to celebrate the anniversary of her birthday next Sunday. She was well-known in Plainfield circles, and many friends will mourn her loss.

The funeral is to be private, and will be held Friday morning. The burial will be at Hillside cemetery.

Threw Decayed Vegetables.

On the payment of $1.25 each, Oliver Vatilla, William Roy, William Willis and Adolphus Davis, who threw decayed vegetables in Hop Lee's laundry, were released under a suspended sentence of $5 in the city court this morning. The $5 made up between them will be given to the Chinaman to pay his customers for the linen spoiled by the over ripe eggs and fruit thrown upon it.

An Edifying Meeting Promised.

"Individual Work For Christ," will be the subject of the Endeavor Society meeting at Trinity Reformed church Monday evening, July 15. Daniel VanWinkle, a former member of the society, will lead the meeting and no doubt "Uncle Dan" will meet with a warm reception, and by his presence help to make the meeting a very interesting one.

A New Patrolman.

Arthur McGinley, of East Third street, is doing special police duty, and if after a probationary period of five months he is satisfactory, he will be appointed a regular at the expiration of the period.

BUT LITTLE RELIEF FROM EXCESSIVE HEAT.

High Temperature Continues, But Slight Breezes Temper the Worst of It.

MANY ARE PROSTRATED.

ONLY ONE DEATH IN PLAINFIELD SO FAR REPORTED.

Horses Fall Down Under Sun's Hot Rays—Prospects for Another Shower This Afternoon—Fair Weather Tomorrow.

There is only a small crumb of comfort in the predictions of the weather bureau men. The heat is going to continue, they say, but the humidity will be reduced and the high temperature will be tempered by cooler breezes from the west and south. Nevertheless the day bears a striking resemblance to its predecessors and possesses all the attributes of a hot day. People are sweltering at every corner and the servers of cold beverages are doing a rushing business.

Yesterday was undoubtedly the worst of its kind that Plainfield has ever experienced. One death is reported as a result of the excessive heat and several prostrations are recorded. The number has been very small, however, in comparison with other cities. The horses also felt the heat very keenly, and many fell in city and borough streets. At 2 o'clock the mercury in Weather Observer Neagle's thermometer registered 104 degrees. It remained at that point for several hours. Unofficial thermometers ran up to nearly 110 degrees in the shade.

In the middle of the afternoon, a storm swept over the mountain. A high wind accompanied it and blew the dust about the city street in great clouds. The rain was only of a few minute's duration but the air was cooled considerably and life became more bearable for the rest of the day. It is expected that the breezes which developed with the storm will remain here today. This morning, it appeared according to schedule and towards noon blew up threatening clouds which seemed to portend a thunder storm for this afternoon.

A number of the local truck horses have appeared in the new straw hats which have become quite a fashion in New York. These hats contain a sponge which is kept wet.

According to the prognostications of the weather bureau, tomorrow promises to be hot with some breezes blowing and a shower or two may keep up the rule for Independence Day. Friday, it is to be clear and warmer. There is no decided break in the hot wave in sight.

Charles E. Brooks, of West Eighth street, was among a number of Plainfielders who were prostrated with the heat yesterday. He returned home early from New York in an exhausted condition and medical aid was summoned at once. The usual treatment, including applications of ice, was resorted to, and today his condition is improved with no alarming features. Nearly all of the local physicians were kept busy yesterday attending the cases of prostration and many, who were on the verge of collapse, escaped through the welcome relief which came last evening in a lower temperature.

The American Engine Works, at Bound Brook, was forced to close down yesterday on account of the great heat. Several of the men became exhausted, and the remainder refused to work longer.

The carpenters on the Jersey Central R. R. were forced to quite work, yesterday, because of the heat. This is the first time in thirty years that such a thing has occurred.

A horse, attached to a truck belonging to Amos H. VanHorn, of Newark, was overcome by the heat at the corner of Clinton avenue and West Front street, yesterday afternoon. It was unhitched and taken to a nearby grass plot where restoratives were applied. It finally recovered sufficiently to be taken away.

An immense crop of peas, owned by Underhill, a truck-farmer in Washington Valley, was destroyed by the sun's rays yesterday. Underhill's normal crop is about fifty bushels, but he was unable to gather more than three bushels yesterday. The entire crop was shrivelled up by the heat, and the vines are all turned white. A complete lost is the result.

A large horse hitched to a beer wagon was overcome by the heat last evening at the corner of Willow and Myrtle avenues. After using the hose on the suffering animal it recovered sufficiently to perform its work.

DOG RAN WHERE GAME WAS.

IT COST WILLIAM BALDWIN A FINE OF $20 AS A RESULT.

Tried Before Justice Bland on Complaint of State Warden Hawkins—Trial Held Yesterday.

The trial of William Baldwin, of West Front street, who was charged by Game Warden C. M. Hawkins with allowing a dog harbored by him to run at large through a field inhabited by rabbits, took place before Justice Bland yesterday afternoon. The defendant was found guilty and fined $20 and costs, the amount prescribed by law.

Baldwin was defended by City Judge William N. Runyon, who contended that the dog was not owned by him but was the property of his son. This made no difference, however, as the law states that whoever harbors the dog is held responsible and several witnesses testified that the canine had been kept by the defendant for two years. There was no other alternative but to find the defendant guilty.

Although so stated, this was not the first case tried under the new law as several convictions have already been secured throughout the State. The law was passed at the last session of the Legislature.

WILL REBUILD.

Management of Allenhurst Inn Decides to Replace at Once One Destroyed by Fire.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Allenhurst, July 3.—The burning of Allenhurst Inn and cottages Monday evening entailed a loss of $150,000 to the owner of the property, W. Johnson Quinn, of New York city. The total insurance on the burned buildings and their contents was $108 000.

The inn was entirely consumed. Much of the furniture was saved, but the rough handling it received makes it of little value. Yesterday afternoon Mr Quinn paid off the servants and sent them to their homes. A number of the waiters lost all their possessions except the clothes they were when the fire broke out.

It was decided last night at a conference between Mr. Quinn and the officials of the Coast Land Company to erect a modern brick fireproof hotel on a site nearer the ocean. The new hotel will be ready for business next summer, under the management of Mr. Quinn, and will be called Allenhurst Inn.

NO MORE TRIALS.

Strikers Changed Pleas to Non Vult and Judge Runyon Suspended Sentence.

James McConnell, Lewis Hall and Charles Greenhalgh, three of the striking machinists who were arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace at the Penn Tool Works Thursday evening, June 20, have pleaded non vult and were released on a suspension of sentence by City Judge Runyon.

McConnell appeared before the Court Monday and asked leave to change his plea, and he was followed Hall and Greenhalgh who yesterday made the same request. City Judge Runyon granted the request of all three men and subsequently suspended sentence in each case.

John Miles, the defendant, who was given a jury trial Wednesday, June 26 and was found guilty, will come up before the Court Saturday morning for sentence.

One Teacher Resigned.

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Dunellen, July 3—At the regular meeting of the Dunellen Board of Education last night, the regular routine business, that of paying bills and the receiving reports, was gone through with. Miss May O. Fulper, teacher in the Whittier School, handed to the board her resignation, which was accepted. Miss Fulper goes to Rutherford, where she has secured a better position.

Will Abstain From Duties.

Miss Lillian Gibbs, of Scotch Plains, formerly employed as a bookkeeper and cashier in a local grocery, does not expect to return to her position this summer. While she is improving, it is not believed that she will be strong enough to engage upon her duties for a few months.

Deed Lately Recorded.

The following deed was filed at Elizabeth July 1: The Central New Jersey Land and Improvement Company to The Hygeia Ice Company, of Plainfield, 520 feet parallel with the Central Railroad of New Jersey, 300 feet northeast from Berckman street, Plainfield, $3,500.

Street Sign Removed.

In removing some of the telephone poles from the business section of the city, street signs have been removed. In one case, at the corner of Park and North avenues, the sign has not been replaced as yet.

TOWED IN.

Party Of Local Automobilists Had To Beg Assistance From Ragman.

The sight of up-to-date automobile being towed by a ragman's cart was a queer sight witnessed Monday afternoon on the road leading from Rahway to Metuchen.

Earlier in the day a party including George McIntyre, B. F. Coriell, Dr. D. C. Adams and Mr. Thompson mounted the horseless vehicle and started on a journey. All went well until the party was nearing Metuchen when a sudden breakdown occurred. Dr. Adams and Mr. Coriell got out and tried to push the automobile ahead while the other two vainly endeavored to operate the vehicle from the front seat. It was then that the ragman came to the succor of the party.

After temporary repairs were made at Metuchen the vehicle ran well until nearing Plainfield when a second breakdown occurred in front of Campbell's club house. In merciful kindness some one lent the Doctor and Mr. Coriell bicycles and they hurried to Plainfield for aid.

NO MORE BATHING.

Owners Object to Swimming in Back Pond Near Scotch Plains

(Special to The Daily Press.)

Scotch Plains, July 3.—Bathing at the "back pond" has been forbidden. For years this place has been a favorite spot for a cooling plunge during the summer months. Little or no complaint has ever been made against the bathers until this summer, when some of them insisted upon taking the plunge at the dam, which is within a short distance from the roadway. This was objected to by those who were obliged to pass that way, so a complaint was made and the property has been posted warning all that trespassing has been forbidden. Some still insist upon bathing at the pond, but take their cooling dip from the shady nooks far removed from the road.

APPOINTED A GUARDIAN.

Court Named Guardian for Miss Hart in Suit Against Trolley Company.

Attorney Robert M. Clark, who has been retained as counsel in the action brought by Miss Edna Hart, of Cranford, against the Elizabeth, Plainfield and Central Jersey Street Railway Company, appeared yesterday before Justice Dupee, of Newark, and secured an order appointing the father of Miss Hart as her guardian in her action against the trolley company. This was necessary owing to the fact that Miss Hart is under age.

The case will be tried in the October term of court at Elizabeth. Miss Hart is suing for $15,000 damages for injuries received at Westfield some months ago when a trolley car jumped the track.

CRADLE ROLL RECEPTION.

Little Tots of Congregational Church Enjoyed an Outing Yesterday.

The annual "cradle roll" reception, given to the little tots of the Congregational church, was held yesterday afternoon. It had been intended by Rev. C. L. Goodrich to give the little ones a picnic but the day was so hot that the plan was given up and the reception was held at the parsonage on West Seventh street.

The time was pleasantly passed in playing games and enjoying cooling refreshments. The mite boxes were opened and the contents devoted to some worthy charity. There were fifteen present, including some of the parents.

BATTLED WITH OFFICER WHEN SWIM WAS OVER

Patrolman Higgins Went After Thos. Kane Who Was Bathing in Green Brook.

EXCITING TIME FOLLOWED.

BUT THE POLICEMAN FINALLY WON AND TOOK KANE TO JAIL.

Found Kane in Swimming on Borough Side—Ordered Him Away and Telephoned For Marshal Campbell—Heavy Sentence for Kane.

One of the heaviest sentences imposed on a prisoner in the city court in some time was meted out to Thomas Kane, better known as "Cudsey," by City Judge Runyon this morning. On a double charge of bathing in Green brook in full view of passersby and an unprovoked assault upon an officer, he was given his preference of paying $60 in the city treasury or spending the next sixty days at Elizabeth. His aged mother, who was in court, stated that she would try to procure the money.

Ever since the hot weather predominated, the residents of West End Park, near Grant avenue, have been greatly annoyed by small boys bathing in the brook in the rear of their residences. The police have sought to break up the practice but with more or less success. During his usual search along the stream for offenders, yesterday afternoon, Patrolman Higgins discovered Kane seated on the North Plainfield side of the bank ready to plunge in. His command to dress and go away was met with an insulting reply and Kane commenced swimming about, several times approaching the Plainfield side. The patrolman went to the nearest telephone and asked Chief Marshal Campbell to approach on the borough side and catch the man.

He then returned to the brook just in time to meet Kane walking over the Grant avenue bridge. The officer informed Kane that he was under arrest. Without a word, the patrolman alleges, the prisoner struck him full in the face, cutting his lip badly. He caught Kane and attempted to put the handcuffs on him. The latter resisted with all his might and Higgins was forced to draw his "billy," but with the first blow, the strap broke and it flew from his hand into a nearby field.

After a hard fight of ten minutes the patrolman proved his superiority by getting Kane down and putting the handcuffs on his wrists. At that moment, Marshal Campell, in response to the 'phone call, arrived on the scene and with his assistance the prisoner was taken to the city jail, struggling all the way.

In his testimony before the court, Kane denied swimming on the Plainfield side of the brook and claimed that Higgins had arrested him on the borough side, also striking him with the "billy" the first thing, which led to his resistance. The court, however, placed confidence in the patrolman's story and the sentence was imposed.

TORNADO ON HUDSON

Town of Ossining Swept by Fierce Storm.

GREAT DAMAGE TO BUILDINGS.

Hail and Rain Was Mingled With Mud—Path of the Storm Marked by Destruction For About Two Miles.

NEW YORK, July 3.—A tornado struck the shores of the Hudson river near Ossining, N. Y., yesterday afternoon, cutting a path two miles or more long and several hundred feet wide. It struck the village of Ossining, and all along its course trees were uprooted, buildings unroofed and windows blown in. No houses were blown down as far as can be learned.

The storm was first seen up the river near Haverstraw at 4:45. It was then simply a black cloud in the distance. At Ossining the sun was shining, and it was oppressively hot. There was hardly a breath of air stirring. Within five minuates it could be seen that the black cloud was traveling directly toward Ossining. It was sweeping across the river at a height of from 50 to 150 feet, rising and falling. Sometimes it rose high into the air and again swooped down to almost the water's surface. In the flight of eight miles down the river the cloud rose and fell at least four times. As it approached the village and the light changed the color changed from black to yellow. Those who saw the cloud say it had a motion like a wheel, the interior motion apparently being opposite or reverse to the advance. The roll of thunder could be heard when the cloud was still a couple of miles away.

The cloud hit the surface of the river within a short distance of the village and then rushed through it, ingulfing the buildings in a rain of mud. The wind blew a gale for a few minutes. A yellow substance like mud which formed the cloud was driven into houses, through the windows and lodged in streaks about the village. The rain with which the mud was mixed was dense. Conservative estimates are that for a brief space the wind was blowing 75 to 80 miles an hour, if not more. The tornado itself lasted but a minute, but was followed by a heavy downpour of rain with thunder and lightning. Mingled with the mud was hail which fell in pieces as big as birds' eggs.

The tornado embraced practically the whole village, and the Sing Sing prison down by the river was in the very center of the storm's path. There was great excitement and considerable damage.

Through the village trees and wires suffered most. The trees were torn up by the roots. Some of these were 18 inches in diameter. Some were hurled against houses and crushed in the sides, carrying away porches and eaves. Not half a dozen wires remain on the poles. They were either blown down or carried down by falling trees. The streets are impassable because of the trees. The trolley cars have ceased to run. Those out on the road are unable to get back to the carhouse owing to the blocking of the streets. The village is in darkness because the wires are down, and everywhere the power company found the wires intact they did not dare use them because they are covered with telephone wires, which made them dangerous.

One of the big dials on the clock in the tower of the Presbyterian church was blown in.

Fierce Storm at Kingston, N. Y.

KINGSTON, N. Y., July 3.—The severest storm of many years passed over Kingston yesterday afternoon. Its duration was 20 minutes. The rain fell so rapidly that it was impossible to see 50 feet away. The lightning was continuous. Trees were uprooted and electric wires blown down. Several horses were killed and many places struck by lightning. West Shore trains were delayed by trees being blown across the tracks, and one trolley line was disabled for several hours.

New York Building Opened.

BUFFALO, July 3.—The New York state building at the Pan-American exposition was informally opened yesterday. The officers of the commission simply moved in. They will be at home there from now on. There may be an installation ceremony later, possibly on New York day, which is Sept. 18. In the meantime the building will be kept open for visitors and receptions.

A Whaler Wrecked.

SEATTLE, Wash., July 3. — The whaler Balena of San Francisco, belonging to the Pacific Steam Whaling company, lies on St. Lawrence island, 20 miles west of Southeast cape, in Bering sea, a total wreck. Captain P. F. Cotte and 60 men in the crew had an almost miraculous escape from death. Through the bravery of the officers all escaped to the shore.

Baldwin Leaves London.

LONDON, July 3.—Evelyn B. Baldwin of the Baldwin-Ziegler arctic expedition, after several postponements of his departure, left London last night for Hamburg. He expects to reach Christiania July 5 and there to take the Belgica, one of the three vessels of the expedition, arriving at Tromso, Norway, July 10.

A Fast Torpedo Boat.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The navy department received a dispatch stating that the torpedo boat Biddle, built at Bath, has been successfully standardized and in a run for two hours made an average speed of 28½ knots. This is half a knot better than the contract requirement.

Strike at Bath, N. Y., Settled.

BATH, N. Y., July 3.—The collar makers employed at the factory of the Bath Harness and Collar company have been on a strike, demanding an increase of 25 cents per dozen for all work. Manager Fegley acceded to their demand, and the men promised to return to work at once.

DEATH DEALING HEAT

Humanity Suffering From the Rockies to the Sea.

ALL PREVIOUS RECORDS BROKEN.

New York City Heads the List With an Appalling Number of Deaths and Prostrations—Horses Die by Hundreds.

NEW YORK, July 3.—A heavy thunderstorm which reached this city at 4:40 last evening brought temporary relief from the oppressive heat which had prevailed for seven days. The weather bureau thermometer, which had registered as high as 99 degrees during the day, dropped to 82 while the storm was in progress. The rain only lasted ten minutes, and within ten minutes after it stopped the thermometer rose again to 89.

Like a great globe of molten iron the sun rose hissing out of the sea yesterday and glared down upon Manhattan Island as though he feared the quivering city had had a chance to cool off overnight and the tortured, panting inhabitants to draw one good long breath while he wasn't watching.

New York seemed like a great griddle, and each suffering citizen within its walls was sure he was being slowly burned to a crisp.

Blessed sleep seemed to have fled long ago before the awful wave of heat, leaving a substitute that is only the worst sort of a counterfeit nightmare.

East side, west side, from the Battery to the Bronx, the night was spent in ineffectual attempts to obtain even an imaginary coolness. All previous records have been shriveled up into nothingness. Never before in the 31 years that the United States government has kept a record here has the official thermometer gone so high on July 2, and only three times has it gone higher in the whole period.

The thermometer in the government observatory, which, it must be remembered, is on the top of one of the highest buildings in the city, registered 99 degrees, while thermometers down in the brazen city far below climbed as high as 111 and even 114 degrees.

Such heat, prolonged, merciless, concentrated, could mean nothing less than annihilation for many sufferers, and Death has been grimly at work night and day.

The record for the sixth day of the terrible hot spell shows 91 persons dead from the effects of the heat and 170 prostrations. Up to 4 o'clock there had been more that 400 calls for ambulances for heat cases in this city, and police patrol wagons and common delivery wagons even were pressed into service. The ambulance system was crippled by the prostration of horses. Work all over the city stopped at noon in many establishments. Work on the subway was stopped entirely.

Bellevue hospital has been kept busy during the last 24 hours beyond the record of any previous heated term. The ambulances scarcely deposited their patients before they are off again on another heat call. The doctors and nurses are almost worn out with watching and work.

In the dispensary of the hospital there were reported over 200 cases of cholera infantum alone. A census of the six or seven dispensaries in the neighborhood of the hospital shows that there were more than 600 applications for relief during the last 36 hours.

Other hospitals have been taxed to their full capacity since Saturday night. In some districts the work was too heavy to be disposed of as soon as reported, and calls for help were unanswered in some instances for an hour.

The capacity of the borough morgue at the foot of East Twenty-sixth street was strained to its limit.

Policeman Richard Ganley, who was on duty at the Battery during Monday night, said yesterday morning that from 4,000 to 5,000 people slept on the grass.

Lightning caused a $150,000 fire late in the afternoon in Ninety-fifth street, near West End avenue. The fire destroyed a big apartment house in building and scattered brands all over that part of Harlem, causing a half dozen smaller blazes. The building was built and owned by Lorenz Weiher of 76 East Eighty-sixth street. It was not completed, although the exterior work was finished.

St. Agnes' church, at Hoyt and Sackett streets, Brooklyn, was destroyed by a fire originating from a lightning bolt. Only the walls of the church, which was a fashionable one, are left standing. The loss was $250,000.

Slight Relief In New England.

BOSTON, July 3.—A gale of wind accompanied by a beautiful electrical display on great banks of black clouds and here and there deluges of rain temporarily broke up the heat wave throughout New England late yesterday afternoon. The storm in most sections gathered in about half an hour and spent its force in a few minutes, leaving considerable ruin to mark the visit. Then after the rain the sun on the western horizon caused a peculiar glow which seemed to turn the sky a greenish yellow. Cool air came with the dusk, but the mercury began to rise about 9 o'clock, giving the weatherwise opportunity to say there is more heat in store. The storm ended the sixth day and practically the worst of the heated spell, for while fatalities were not quite as numerous as on some other days the prostrations were many and severe, animals succumbed more readily and infantile diseases increased to an alarming extent.

Predicts a Month of Torrid Heat.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., July 3.—The present hot wave will continue for the remainder of the month. This is the opinion of Chief Willis L. Moore of the United States weather bureau, who, with his wife, came to Binghamton to escape the heat. Professor Moore said: "The hot weather will probably continue without a break for a month. At present there is no sign of any change for the cooler, and the wave seems to be general throughout the country. It is a record breaker for several sections and possibly will be one for the United States before there is a general fall in the temperature."

Many Prostrated In Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, July 3.—Philadelphia passed through another period of torture yesterday, and many persons lie dead as a result of the day's excessive heat, and more than 200 others were prostrated. The official record of temperature, 102 degrees, was eclipsed when the government thermometer at 3 p. m. touched 102 8-10 degrees, which now stands as the Quaker City's record. For the first time in 25 years the rule compelling Stock Exchange members to wear their coats while on the floor of the exchange was rescinded. Reports from the interior towns in the eastern and central sections of the state show a continuation of the hot wave, with its attendant lists of casualties. Lancaster reports two deaths from the heat, Harrisburg one, Williamsport one and Scranton one.

Great Suffering In New Jersey.

NEW YORK, July 3.—New Jersey baked again yesterday until local showers in the afternoon caused a decided drop in the temperature, but in the evening after the storm disturbances had subsided there was a disposition on the part of the mercury to rise again. The death rate went up with a bound in the big cities of the state. Thirty-one persons died in Newark as a direct result of the heat, and 60 or more persons were prostrated in the same city. In Hoboken and North Hudson there were 8 deaths and 52 prostrations reported. Jersey City escaped lightly, with less than half a dozen deaths and about 30 cases of prostration. Six deaths took place at Elizabeth, where there were 15 cases of prostration reported. Paterson had 3 deaths and 14 prostrations. Various other places in the state ran the deaths up to more than 100.

What the Weather Man Says.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The weather bureau has issued the following: "The hot wave which has prevailed during the past 10 or 12 days over New England, the middle Atlantic states, the lake region, the Ohio valley and the central west and northwest continued during Tuesday, although temporary relief was afforded during the afternoon by numerous thunderstorms in New England and the middle Atlantic states and at Chicago and St. Louis. At Philadelphia a maximum temperature of 102 was again reached. At Washington it was 100, at New York city 98, at Boston 94, at Albany 98, at Scranton 98, at St. Louis 96, at Louisville 96 and at Alpena, Mich., 92. Maximum temperatures above 90 also occurred in the extreme western states.

St. Louis Suffering.

ST. LOUIS, July 3.—Yesterday the thermometer here registered 97 degrees, and at 3:30 it had dropped only 1 degree. A heavy rain later caused the mercury to fall 16 degrees. Thirty-three persons, a larger number than were treated during the entire summer of 1900, are at the city hospital suffering from heat prostration. Four deaths and seven prostrations were reported.

Kansas Claims Hottest Place.

KANSAS CITY, July 3.—The temperature yesterday was 100 degrees, and there was very little breeze. Four heat prostrations were reported, none of which was fatal. A number of horses died on the streets. The highest official temperatures in the United States were reported from Kansas—Hays City, 104; Fort Scott and McPherson, 103.

A Year's War Expenses.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—The quartermaster's division of the office of the auditor for the war department closed its record of work done during the fiscal year which ended last Saturday with a showing greater in volume by almost 50 per cent than that of any previous year in the history of the treasury. This division examines, recomputes and tabulates all the accounts and expenditures of all quartermasters, commissary and engineering officers of the army. The grand total of expenditures thus audited is $120,061,378, or over 23½ per cent of the entire cost of the government.

Crisis In English Liberal Party.

LONDON, July 3.—The crisis in the ranks of the Liberal party has reached an acute stage. This fact was publicly admitted and deplored by Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, the leader of that party, in a speech at Southampton last night. Although the rumors that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has already resigned the leadership of that party are premature, a meeting of the party has been suddenly convened for next Tuesday, when it is expected he will virtually offer his resignation.

A World's Fair In Victoria.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Consul General Guenther, at Frankfort, has informed the state department that the government of Victoria intends to hold a national and international exposition in the district of Bendigo to commemorate the discovery of the goldfields in 1851, at which all branches of the arts and sciences, the industries, inventions, etc., will be represented.

Missionaries Must Be Respected.

SIMLA, July 3.—Advices received here from the Sikkin border say that an edict signed by the emperor and empress dowager of China has been posted in Chinese Tibet announcing that the European powers have been victorious in northern China and ordering that the lives of missionaries and Christian converts be respected on pain of decapitation.

Crazed by Bank Failure.

LEIPSIC, July 3.—Two companies of this city have failed as a result of the recent collapse of the Leipziger bank. A prominent resident of Coburg, in despair as a result of his losses in the Leipsiger bank failure, shot at and severely wounded his wife and daughter and then shot himself dead.

Strait of Belle Isle Ice Blocked.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., July 3.—The British steamer Sahara, Captain Cave, from Shields June 18 for Quebec and Montreal, when passing Cape Race signaled that she had tried to get through the strait of Belle Isle, but had failed owing to it being blocked with ice.

Drowned In the Susquehanna.

Care in Using Water.

There comes a time every year when the ground grows parched and the streams dry up. Then the water in the wells of the Plainfield Water Supply Company begins to drop. While there has never yet been a water famine in this city, the officials of that company are very desirious that there shall not be. There is ample water, they say, to supply the natural wants of all the city without stint but they do object to the wholesale waste of water in sprinkling the lawns.

On these warm days, there is no doubt but that the sprinkling of the streets and lawns tends to a slight degree to moderate the intensity of the heat. It is also well understood that it is only in the dry season that there is any call to water the lawns. The water company officials realize this. Many people are in the habit, however, of turning on the water early in the morning and allowing the lawn sprinklers to run all day without cessation. This is what the officials object to.

An official notice has been issued by the water company calling attention to this fact and asking that their patrons only use the hose and lawn sprinklers between the hours of 6 and 9 in the morning and 4 and 7 in the evening. It is further announced that those patrons who do not comply with this ruling will have their supply of water shut off without further notice.

It is only another evidence of the need of water meters. With meters to register the exact amount of flow, many householders would be far more careful in their use of water than they are now when the charge is only made by the number of taps. As it is now, the wasteful and the careful man are charged the same while with a meter they would pay according to the volume of water used, which is far more equitable and fair.

Tomorrow will mark the anniversary of the day when our forefathers declared their independence. It was a momentous day for them and an equally important one for us. Had that day never come, it is impossible to say in what condition this land would be at the present day. But the Declaration of Independence was signed and the United States did enter the arena of nations. Having enjoyed since childhood the rights and privileges which go to every citizen of this land, there are many who seem to forget them and the good fortune which makes them inhabitants of this free country. It is therefore right that every man, woman and child in the city of Plainfield should stop, if only for a moment, and reckon up the many things for which they are indebted to this same Declaration of Independence. While there may be a host of pleasant happeninge planned for the holiday, a minute can easily be spared to give to a brief recollection of the brave men of 1776, and their wonderful achievement.

The small boy is awaiting the hour of midnight with no end of impatience, for then the grand and glorious "Fourth" will be here, and he can burn powder, and incidentally his fingers, to his heart's content. The small boy's parents should be careful, however, to see that he does not begin his celebration until the proper time, and that when he does, he shows some kind of judgment in doing so. There are many horses which seriously object to the close proximity of fire crackers or any other similar invention. If proper care is used, there need be no trouble, but a little carelessness in the vicinity of a fractious horse is very apt to have serious results. The automobile, however, has not yet learned to be frightened at such things.

Those who have been thrown nearly the full length of a car by the sudden application of the electric brakes on the big trolley cars, which run between this city and Elizabeth, will be glad indeed to know that those brakes are a thing of the past and that the cars are now equipped with compressed air brakes which are said to be greatly superior to the others. With the air brakes, however, are air whistles instead of bells. It will be remembered that the city of South Amboy made a great howl about these same whistles and finally compelled the Somerset and Middlesex Traction Company to give up their use. It now remains to be seen how Plainfield will like them.

Don't forget that every house in the city should be numbered so that the number can plainly be seen from the sidewalk. It is required by the city ordinance, but every good citizen ought to be willing to comply with the law without any compulsion. There are a few residences which still lack numbers. Any doubt about the exact number can be speedily settled by an inquiry at the office of Street Commissioner Gavett.

The local golfers have excellent programmes in store for them at both of the local golf clubs tomorrow.

As tomorrow will be a legal holiday, The Daily Press will not be published.

WHAT OTHERS SAY.

Clippings From Other Newspapers Which May Be Of Interest to Plainfield and Its Citizens.

Of all the Republican candidates named for president of the State Senate at the next session of the New Jersey Legislature, ex Judge Joseph Cross, the Senator from Union county, is the one most likely to be chosen. It is remembered of him that he made an excellent Speaker of the Assembly in 1895, and that he was a capable and upright judge.—New York Tribune.

* * * * * *

Senator Cross, of Union county, and Senator Johnson, of Camden county, are the contestants who lead for president of the Senate, according to the Trenton correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer. It is a little too early to discuss this question, but it may be said in passing that if the choice rests on the basis of experience, competency and impartiality, Union county will receive the honor beyond all shadow of doubt.—Elizabeth Journal.

* * * * * *

Eight Senators will finish their terms in the New Jersey Senate at the close of the next session—seven Republicans and one Democrat. Of these it is said that Senator Francis probably will be nominated by the Republicans for sheriff of Monmouth county. Senators Johnson, of Camden; Miller, of Salem; Reed, of Somerset, and Stanger, of Gloucester, each will have completed two terms, and probably will not be candidates again. Senator Cross will finish his fourth year, and may round out his legislative career as president of the Senate. Senator Cornish, of Warren county, will have served six years in the Senate and one term in Congress, and, as he is reputed to be ambitious to be Governor, he may make room for a new Democratic Senator from Warren county. Senator McCarter, of Essex county, will complete his first term, and many Republicans are said to be in favor of his renomination.—New York Tribune.

AT THE THEATRES.

Something About the Attractions Which Plainfield Theatre-Goers May Care to Witness.

The kings of all blackface comedians, McIntyre & Heath, are appearing at Keith's Union Square Theatre, New York, this week, in their original conception, "The Man From Montana." These well known comedians cause roars of laughter whenever they appear, and are making a decided hit. Another star act is entitled "The Flower of Yeddo," written and staged under the direction of Victor Mapes. It is a beautiful and dainty Japanese sketch and seems to please immensely. Other artists on the long programme are Sam Edwards, the modern philosopher; Dixon, Bowers and Dixon, the three rubes; the Folly Trio in an eccentric comedy sketch; Adams and Bennett, grotesque comedians; new biograph pictures; Milt and Maud Wood in an original comedy sketch; John Keefe, the Yankee comedian; Rosseau Brothers, acrobats; Mudge and Morton, instrumentalists; Harry Brown, colored comedian and dancer, and many others. Full orchestra. 50 cents only, and cooler than roof gardens at that. Iced air, electric fans—delightfully cool.

CITY JOTTINGS.

—The regular meeting of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, held in K. of P. Hall, last evening, was adjourned until July 16, owing to the intense heat.

—The Morey-LaRue Laundry Company, 23 Somerset street, "do up" your shirts, collars and cuffs thoroughly and free from injury. No fault with their work. Give them a trial.

—There is nothing so refreshing these hot days as lemonade. Randolph, the West Front street druggist, makes a delicious beverage that is in great demand among the thirsty ones.

—A fine line of soft-tooth brushes just received, and a well equipped and carefully conducted prescription department and an up-to-date drug store to be found at Nagle's, West Front and Grove streets.

Will Follow Old Custom.

It is quite likely that the choir of the First Baptist church will follow previous custom and disband for the summer at the end of this month. The members usually have a vacation during August.

Exercises at Bethel Chapel.

Literary exercises will be held at Bethel chapel Friday evening under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society of the church. An interesting programme has been arranged.

BORN TO SERVE

By CHARLES M. SHELDON,

Author of "IN HIS STEPS," "JOHN KING'S QUESTION CLASS," "EDWARD BLAKE," Etc.

(Copyright, 1900, by Charles M. Sheldon.)

"A freak of Mrs. Ward's—" "Mrs. Vane's queer ideas—" "Perfectly absurd to try to equalize up—" "Girls have no right to demand—" "Ought to know their places—" "No way to help solve the trouble," etc., were remarks by the different members of Marble Square church that set Barbara's pulses beating and colored her cheek with anger.

"You hurt me, Barbara" exclaimed Carl as Barbara unconsciously gripped his little hand.

"O dearie, I am so sorry. I didn't mean to." In an instant she was calm again. What! Barbara Clark! You have not endured anything to-day! She had not anticipated anything before going to church. She had simply made up her mind to take what came and abide by it. What had actually happened was not a sample of what might happen Sunday after Sunday. Probably not. But it all went with the place she had chosen. Perhaps it was not at all the thing for Mrs. Ward to do. It might not accomplish any good. But then, it—she stopped thinking about it and went on to the house to prepare the lunch. When Mrs. Ward came in, she found Carl satisfied with a bowl of bread and milk and Barbara quietly busy getting lunch for the rest.

Mrs. Ward offered to help with the work; but Barbara saw that she was very tired, and insisted on her lying down.

"I'll have everything ready very soon," she said cheerfully; and, as she went back into the kitchen, she was humming one of the hymns sung in the service.

"What do you think about to-day?" Mr. Ward asked in a low voice as his wife lay down on a lounge in the dining-room.

"You mean Barbara's sitting with us?"

"Yes. Will it help matters any?"

"O, I don't know. I never would have done it if I hadn't happened to think of Mrs. Vane. She's rich and has an assured place in society. Her girls always come with her and she introduces them right and left to everybody."

"Yes, Martha, but Mrs. Vane is eccentric in all her ways. She is accepted because she is rich and independent. But have you noticed that these girls that come to church with her never get on any farther? No one knows them in spite of her introductions. I inquired of young Williams one Sunday if the Barnes girl was in the Endeavor society of the church, and he said he believed she came there three or four times and then stopped; and, when I asked him the reason, he said she did not feel at home, the other girls were better educated or something like that."

"That's just it. You can't mix up different classes of people. If they were all like Barbara, now, and knew their places—"

But just then Barbara appeared, and Mrs. Ward abruptly stopped. When Barbara went out again, she said: "I don't know whether her going with us to-day did more harm or good."

"It did the girl good, I am sure," said Mr. Ward.

"O, well, I hope it did. But I'd give a good deal to know what Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Wilson and Mrs. Burns thought about it. They knew Barbara, for they have seen her here several times at our club committee meetings."

"You don't suppose they would talk about it, do you?" asked Mr. Ward, sarcastically.

"They were talking about it all the way home, or, I'm very much mistaken."

"What an inspiring thing it would be to a minister if he could only hear the conversation of his congregation for half an hour after church service is over," said Mr. Ward, half to himself and half to his wife. "Whatever else he got out of it, he ought to get material for another sermon at least."

"For more than one," added Mrs. Ward, wearily. And then Barbara called them and they sat down to lunch.

But just what Mrs. Ward's three friends did say is of interest, because it is a fair sample of what other people of Marble Square church said on the way home, and the young preacher might possibly have thought that there is still a distinct place left for preaching in churches, if he could have heard what those three women had to say about Barbara.

They came out of the church and walked along together.

"It was a good sermon," Mrs. Rice began. Mrs. Rice was a plump, motherly-looking woman, and a great worker in the church and clubs of Crawford.

"Mr. Morton is a young man. He has a good deal to learn," said Mrs. Wilson positively.

"Dr. Law exchanges a good deal too much, I think," was Mrs. Burns' comment. "This is the third exchange since—since—last March."

"Mrs. Vane has a convert. Did y see Mrs. Ward's girl in the pew w her?" Mrs. Wilson asked, eagerly.

"Yes. Rather a neat, pretty g and seemed to know her place. M Ward told me the other day that s well educated and—"

"It is no sort of use trying to do that sort of thing!" Mrs. Rice interrupted, with energy. "I tried that plan once in Whiteville, and it did no good at all. Servants as a class cannot be treated that way. They always take advantage of it."

"That's what I have always said," added Mrs. Burns. "Look at Mrs. Vane's girls. She changes as often as any of us, and has as much trouble. The girls don't want to be treated like that."

"And, if they do, it makes no difference with their real position. No one will really ask them into society; and, if they did, they would not know how to behave," Mrs. Wilson exclaimed.

"It does seem a pity, though," Mrs. Rice went on, "that girls like this one shouldn't be allowed to have a chance like other people. What is she with Mrs. Ward for if she is educated and all that?"

"O, she has some idea of helping solve the servant-girl problem," Mrs. Burns replied. "At least, Mrs. Ward told me something of that sort. She does not know all about the girl herself."

"It's a queer way to solve the question—to go out as a servant herself," said Mrs. Wilson, and the other two women said: "That's so!" Yet all three of these women had been brought up on the theology of the orthodox teaching of the atonement.

"Did you see Mr. Morton speaking to the Wards? He was just as polite to the girl as he was to anyone in the church."

"Of course; why not?" Mrs. Rice asked with a superior air. "But now imagine Mr. Morton or any other gentleman in Crawford really considering a servant as they consider other people, even the factory girls or the clerks at Bondman's."

"O well, of course, there is a difference."

"Of course," the other two women assented. But, after all, what constitutes the exact difference between honest labor of the hands in a factory or a store and in a home? If they are both service that humanity needs for its comfort or its progress, ought they not both to be judged by the standard of service, not by the standard of place where the service is rendered?

"I think Mrs. Ward will find out her mistake, and be ready to say so in a little while. If she is going to bring her girl to church with her, I don't see where she can stop short of taking her with her everywhere else; and of course society will not tolerate that," Mrs. Rice said after a pause.

"Of course not. The whole thing is absurd. The girls must keep their places. All such eccentric women like Mrs. Vane do more harm than good," Mrs. Burns declared with decision.

"I had given Mrs. Ward credit for more sense," Mrs. Wilson said, gravely. "But I must turn down here. Good-by."

"Good-by. Don't forget the committee meeting at my house to-morrow," cried Mrs. Rice, and very soon she parted from Mrs. Wilson, reminding her, as they separated, of the church-committee meeting later in the week.

The next morning after Mr. Ward had gone down to his business Mrs. Ward said to Barbara: "You remember Mr. Morton is coming to lunch with us to-day. Would you like to sit at the table with us?"

The color rushed into Barbara's face, and she did not answer at once. Then she said slowly: "No, Mrs. Ward. I told you when I came, if you remember, that I never expected to sit with the family at meal-time. My place as a servant is to wait on the family then."

"Very well," replied Mrs. Ward, quietly. "I simply asked because I want you to understand that I am ready to help you. Of course, you are not like the other girls who have worked for us. I have no doubt you could be perfectly at your ease with Mr. Morton or anyone else in society." Mrs. Ward spoke with some womanly curiosity, for Barbara had not yet taken her into full confidence, and there was much in the girl's purpose and character that Mrs. Ward did not know.

"I suppose I could, probably," Barbara answered, demurely.

"Of course, you shut yourself out of the society of people in your own rank of life by choosing to be a servant," Mrs. Ward went on abruptly. "You know that as well as I do."

"Yes," replied Barbara, gravely.

"You know well enough that if I had introduced you yesterday to all the people in Marble Square church, probably not one of them would ever have invited you to come and see them or even enter into any part of the church life."

"I suppose so," Barbara replied, flushing deeply. And then she said: "But I understand well enough that such conditions exist because in the majority of cases the girls who go out to service in Crawford would not care to be invited to the homes of the people in Marble Square church, and would feel very miserable and ill at ease if they should be invited into any such homes."

POSITIVE PROOF.

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Plainfield.

Because it's evidence in Plainfield. It's from a citizen, perhaps a neighbor.

Investigation will confirm it.

Mr. Jepp Jonsen, of 728 West Front street, pattern-maker by trade, says: "For a year I had a sort of grinding pain across my back at times extending up to my shoulders, and there was a lameness over my kidneys and severe headaches. When I stooped I always felt dizzy and sometimes was fairly blinded. In the mornings I felt stiff and sore until I got some exercise. I saw Doan's Kidney Pills advertised in my city paper and so highly recommended for kidney complaint that I went to L. W. Randolph's drug store and got a box. They did me a great deal of good. From my experience with Doan's Kidney Pills I cannot do otherwise than endorse them."

For sale by all dealers. Price, 50c a box. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

FOR A GARDEN PARTY.

A Dainty Foulard Gown Which Would Be Most Suitable.

At last the warm weather has come, which is, of course, the signal for wearing dainty and summery garments. Sheer mulls, soft and lovely silks, crapes and veilings and no end of other thin and diaphanous stuffs are seen, not upon the shelves of stores, nor yet in the windows, but right where they belong—on the beautiful women.

Flounces are part and parcel of all the French dresses of late confection, and it seems that the French modistes are trying to make us take, whether we like them or not, the Eugenie styles. On the other hand, the Berlin and English ones are equally anxious to bring the first empire styles back again. It remains to be seen what our women will choose out of this curious rivalry. The empire gowns seem to me to be very trying to most figures, and on the other hand the Eugenie styles are undeniably ugly. A happy medium has not yet been devised.

Garden parties will now be the great test of what is to be the summer style for full day dress. A stunning gown was seen recently at one of these functions. It was made of pearl foulard printed in a design of bluet flowers. The upper portion of the skirt was fitted snugly around the hips. Just at the knees there was a very slightly fulled flounce scarcely more than a bias fold, which was edged with a row of bluet colored ribbon and headed by a band of black lace insertion. Two more of these flounces were placed lower down and trimmed in the same manner. One line of the ribbon was set along the front of the whole skirt, lengthening in appearance. The same arrangement of the ribbon was made on the waist, and there was a vest of white silk, with lace in the center, and wide revers covered with the black lace and edged with a gauffering of the white silk. The sleeves were quite complicated, having caps, elbow cuffs and a puff of silk mull. The forearm parts were of white silk with white lace insertion. The hat and parasol matched as nearly as possible, the hat having a drapery of light pearl and bluet colored silk mull, with a rosette of bluet velvet at the left side to match the draped belt. The parasol was of pearl colored silk with a deep flounce of bluet silk mull edged with white lace. Some parasols are of delicate green silk with no end of crepon ruffles in the same shade. This is the prettiest of all the parasols, but is more for ornament than use, for green on the face makes it ghastly, and naturally the shade of green must rest on the face if the parasol is held up.

The costume described is one of those which can be copied into almost any material which will take lace as trimming. Even pique can be used if black braid is put in place of the lace.

HENRIETTE ROUSSEAU.

A DRESSY HAT AND BOA.

The Girl With Clever Fingers Can Make Both at Home.

Ruffled hats and flower petal boas are both novelties of the season, both are expensive if bought at a milliner's, but they are not nearly so hard to make as they look. First buy a wire frame covered with white muslin. Choose this a little smaller than you would ordinarily, as the trimming tends to increase the size. Make your ruffles a little over an inch and a quarter in width and finish them with the narrowest velvet ribbon. Mousseline de soie makes the gauziest as well as the most durable ruffling. When the hat is entirely covered, take a piece of dotted liberty satin ribbon and tie it around the crown, passing it through a long steel buckle in front and tying it in a square Alsatian bow (four loops and two ends) directly across the back. A wide band is next placed in the back to tilt the hat forward over the eyes. This band is covered with three large flowers of different shades of the same color. The model illustrated was carried out in white mousseline de soie bound with pale green velvet ribbons. The flowers were green and white shaded poppies, and the ribbon was black with a large pale green dot.

THE LATEST THING.

The boa is made of violet leaves sewed thickly on a full ruching of pale green net.

A COSTLY BLAZE.

Huntington, W. Va., Suffers Heavy Loss by Fire.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., July 3.—A fire raged in the heart of this city from 11 o'clock yesterday morning until 5 o'clock last evening, resulting in a loss of $200,000. The flames started in the Adelphi hotel from an electric wire on the fifth floor and had gained great headway before being discovered. The hotel was crowded with guests, many of whom were women. Of these a number fainted when the alarm of fire rang out through the halls, and it was with great difficulty that they were removed from the building. Many attempted to leap from windows, but were prevented from doing so.

There was not a gallon of water in the city reservoirs when the fire started, and all the fire engines in the city were out of repair. The flames spread rapidly, and soon half a dozen residences were on fire. The brick annex to the Adelphi hotel on the other side of the square also caught fire and was destroyed. This as well as the hotel proper was handsomely furnished. A livery stable and a number of private offices, fruit stores, barber shops and dozens of smaller structures are also total losses.

The fire engines that were sent to the scene from surrounding towns soon broke down, and the flames spread rapidly and unhindered. Prostrations among the firemen were numerous, but none will result fatally.

The new boom for the Columbia which reached here at noon was slung with dispatch and the sail bent on before dark. CORNELL'S VARSITY.

Most Brilliant Race Ever Seen at Poughkeepsie.

FOUR CREWS BREAK RECORDS.

Columbia Second, Wisconsin Third, Georgetown Fourth—Ithacans Also Won Four Oared Race—Pennsylvania Freshmen Led.

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., July 3.—Cornell won the varsity race, Columbia second, Wisconsin third, Georgetown fourth, Pennsylvania fifth and Syracuse sixth.

The varsity race between the six crews was a most brilliant one, such a race as Cornell, Columbia and Wisconsin set up being the greatest ever seen on any course. When the crews neared the bridge at the three mile mark, these three crews were having a most magnificent strife. Their shells were at all times lapping one another, and this position was maintained until the three crews entered into the last half mile of the race. They were all rowing a strong, steady stroke of about 32 and 34, and then Cornell raised her stroke and made an elegant spurt, increasing her lead over Columbia by a length. Columbia also entered into the spurt and again went after Cornell. When the three leading crews were within a few hundred yards of the finish line, the shells of Cornell and Columbia began to draw toward each other, thus shutting out Wisconsin's lane. The Badgers still kept their steady speed, and the nose of their shell was gaining on the leaders at all times. Gradually the shells of Columbia and Cornell again began to part, and the Wisconsin eight made a desperate effort to push up, but the power did not seem to be in the boat. Cornell's cockswain then began to swerve his shell toward the east shore, and Columbia followed, leaving Wisconsin in their wash. Cornell finished first, with Columbia second, Wisconsin third and Georgetown fourth, all four of these crews breaking the world's record. Syracuse was almost a quarter of a mile behind Georgetown, with Pennsylvania an eighth of a mile still farther up the course.

The official time for the race of the varsity eights was as follows:

Cornell, first, time 18m. 53 1-5s.; Columbia, second, time 18m. 58s.; Wisconsin, third, time 19m. 6 4-5s.; Georgetown, fourth, time 19m. 21s.

The best previous record for a varsity eight was 19m. 44 3-5s.

No time was taken for Syracuse and Pennsylvania, who were many lengths behind.

In the varsity four Cornell was first, time 11m. 39 3-5s.; Pennsylvania second, time 11m. 45 2-5s.; Columbia third, time 11m. 51 3-5s.

The best previous record for this distance was 10m. 31 1-5s.

In the freshmen race Pennsylvania was first, time 10m. 20 1-5s.; Cornell second, time 10m. 23s.; Columbia third, time 10m. 36 1-5s.; Syracuse fourth, time 10m. 44s. The previous record for freshmen eight for this distance was 9m. 19½s.

Mr. Bryan Will Do Right.

ROANOKE, Va., July 3.—William J. Bryan was here a short time yesterday afternoon on his way to Pocahontas, Va., where he was to speak last night. He made a short speech here on the station platform. Mr. Bryan said the questions that several years ago dominated the Chicago platform he had stood for because he believed in them. He had not changed his mind when the Kansas City platform was enlarged to suit certain conditions. The Democratic party, he said, was all right when it came to additions, but not in subtraction. No backward step would be taken, but whether it did or not it would be the same with him. He had said the question was not whether they should win, but whether they should do what was right. He would do the right and abide the consequences.

THE NEW ICE.

Some people still retain the habits and customs of their grandfathers. They look at things in the same light. Some are still using impure ice simply because it's the old kind.

Are you one of them?

Don't you know that natural ice is a "back number," that its place has been taken by a better and purer ice? Haven't you heard of the Hygeia Ice? Made from filtered water, taken from under the ground 165 feet. Can it be anything else but pure?

Try it. It costs no more than the impure ice.

HIBBARD SOLD OUT.

Fred Jones Became Sole Proprietor Of The Hotel Imperial This Morning.

A change in the proprietorship of the Hotel Imperial, on North avenue, took place today. Fred Jones has purchased the interest formerly held by his partner, Thomas Hibbard, and has assumed control of the hostelry. The sale was practically agreed upon last evening, and today, it is understood, the necessary legal papers were drawn by former Judge William R. Coddington and signed by the parties.

The staff, as well as the arrangements of the hotel, will continue as heretofore. James E. McConnell, the present efficient manager, who by his executive ability and genial nature has succeeded in making the hotel a popular resort within the short time he has been in charge, will continue to run the establishment. Many improvements, which have been contemplated for some time, will be made in the near future.

Hibbard and Jones succeeded John McVey in August, 1900. Prior to that time Mr. Hibbard was manager of Tom O'Rourke's restaurant in New York. Mr. Jones is a native of Bondville, Canada, where he has large interests in a sugar camp. Before coming to Plainfield he was engaged in the ice business in New York city.

Will Enlarge Home.

Dr. Albert Pittis, of Somerset street, has broken ground for the erection of an addition to his present home. The new structure which will be erected on the north side of the present building will be fourteen feet in front and thirty-two feet in depth. John Snyder will do the mason work while S. Smalley & Son have the contract for the carpenter work. The addition will be a two-story frame structure.

Tree Blown Over.

A large cherry tree, in a much decayed condition, standing on Park place, near Somerset street, was blown down by the high gale of wind, which passed over the borough yesterday afternoon. The falling tree snapped a telephone wire directly opposite the Grace M. E. church parsonage, but it was quickly repaired.

Spent a Pleasant Evening.

Councilman and Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., of the borough, were married twenty-nine years ago yesterday, in Trinity church, Newark. Last evening several of their most intimate friends called on them and spent a very pleasant evening with the Councilman and his wife on the veranda of their home on Jackson avenue.

AFTER FUNDS FOR ARMORY.

COMPANY K WILL APPEAL TO CITIZENS FOR SUBSCRIPTIONS.

Want to Build a Hall Suitable For Other Things Than Merely a Drill Hall.

At the meeting of Company K Second Regiment, held last evening, Captain Browning appointed a detail whose duty it will be to distribute circulars in this city and the borough, asking the people for their co-operation in efforts being made to build an armory in Plainfield. The detail will make the rounds Saturday in full dress uniform.

Among the strong points advanced as why this city should have an armory is that there is now no building in Plainfield adapted for holding conventions, commencements, theatrical performances or any social function of any degree of magnitude. It is proposed by members of the company to raise funds with which to build an armory adapted not only for drilling and other company work, but also provided with moveable seats, so that said building can be used at any time for objects mentioned.

It is also proposed to place such an armory, if erected, in the hands of a suitable committee whose duty it shall be to see that every affair to be held therein is of a proper nature. All subscriptions will be welcomed and may be sent to Robert M. Clark, 201 Park avenue.

GENERAL GOMEZ SPEAKS.

No Politics In His Visit to the United States.

NEW YORK, July 3.—General Maximo Gomez has issued a public statement from the Waldorf-Astoria, where he has been staying. It is the first statement of any kind which he has made since his arrival here on Saturday afternoon. General Gomez's statement is as follows:

"In response to the request of the press for me to make a statement in regard to Cuba, all I have to say is that the acceptance of the Platt amendment by the Cuban constitutional convention has already defined the political situation of Cuba, and as the Cubans are all anxious to establish self government they are all working toward this end. There is not one who does not desire to see the flag float free, a flag which represents so much suffering and so many sacrifices for freedom's sake. The whole world has known this for many years.

"The sole object of my visit to this city has been my great desire to embrace my old, true and loyal friend, Mr. Tomas Estrada Palma, whom I have not been able to see since peace was re-established, and of course to pay a visit to President McKinley, to whom we Cubans owe so much, and also to pay my respects to Secretary Root.

"This is not my first visit to this city, of which I have many pleasant and also many sad recollections, for I have once silently and unknown trod the thoroughfares of a free country with the only thought and hope of helping to break the chains of enslaved Cuba. Today everything is changed. On again setting foot in this free land I feel happy, for in every American I see a friend who, having shed his blood side by side with us for Cuba's freedom, has earned our eternal gratitude and established the mutual obligation between the two peoples to maintain the peace and the independence of the island of Cuba."

The general left for Washington late in the afternoon over the Pennsylvania railroad. While in Washington General Gomez will call on President McKinley and Secretary Root.

Bank to Pay Up and Resume.

NEW YORK, July 3.—The Times says this morning that there will be a meeting of the directors of the Seventh National bank today, which will be held as quietly as possible and will be attended by all of the members of the board in the city. It is expected that President E. R. Thomas will be back from his bridal trip and will be at the meeting. The two Heaths, Fletcher and Perry, are also expected, and the interests of Alexander McDonald will be specially represented. At this meeting it is expected that steps will be taken looking toward the immediate reimbursement of depositors. According to the figures in hand, it is thought that the net loss to the bank will be hardly $500,000 after all differences have been arranged. Interests connected with the institution quote Mr. Heath with saying that business would probably be resumed as early as July 15.

A Boer Paper Started at St. Helena.

LONDON, July 3.—The Boer prisoners at St. Helena have started printing a weekly paper. The first issue, dated June 7, has just been received here. The paper bears the title of Dekrajsgeaangene, meaning The Prisoner of War. It is in striking contrast to the Ladysmith Lyre. A sixth of the space of each issue of the St. Helena paper is devoted to religious news and social events. Sporting events are not neglected, however, and a vivid description in English of a prizefight appears in an adjacent column to a history in Dutch of the St. Helena War Prisoners' Christian Endeavor society, which celebrated its first anniversary May 11. The advertisements in this weekly indicate that considerable liberty is allowed the St. Helena prisoners. These advertisements include those of cafes, pawnshops, auctioneers, stores and boarding houses.

Against Bipartisan Excise Boards.

TRENTON, July 3.—The court of errors and appeals by a unanimous vote set aside as unconstitutional the act of last winter providing for a bipartisan excise board of four members in Jersey City and Newark. Previous to the passage of the act licenses were granted in Jersey City by a board of aldermen and in Newark by an excise board appointed by the mayor. Last winter's act was designed to destroy the Democratic control of the excise boards in those two cities by providing for a board of four members, not more than two of whom could be voted for on any one ticket.

New Regiments Filled.

WASHINGTON, July 3.—Acting Adjutant General Ward has received reports from the officers engaged in recruiting the five new infantry regiments and the five new cavalry regiments authorized by the army reorganization act, showing that the regiments are all practically recruited except the Thirteenth cavalry, which is reported to be 389 men short. It is expected that all these troops will be sent to the Philippines for the relief of an equal number of regular troops who have been there two years or more and who are to be brought home.

Fighting In Manchuria.

TIENTSIN, July 3.—Fresh reports of fighting in Manchuria and on the frontier of Chili province have been received here. A pitched battle has been fought at Shanyang, in which the natives defeated the Mohammedans. General Tung Fuh Siang is reported as attacking the Chinese converts in Shansi province.

It was intended to install the recently-elected officers at the meeting of Freedom Castle, Knights of the Golden Eagle, held last evening, but on account of the intense heat the ceremony was postponed. Seven applicants were initiated, after which the members were treated to ice cream and cigars. Freedom Castle will shortly present to Golden Crown Castle, of Somerville, two golden torches to be used in initiatory work.
